$1,400,000 Oil Deat.

roducing property since the inception f the petroleum business was closed at le last Saturday afternoon Thus the instruction of the transaction will be understood best by the purchasing price, which was a cash consideration and amounted to $1,400,090. In the leal is included all of the Devonian Matson and Emery Oil Companies, addition of the design of the Matson and Emery Oil Companies adoldings of producing property in the Bradford. McKean county field, located in what is known as the Ormslov, Chlomunk and Watsonville pools. The combined holdings of the three companies amounted to 20,000 acres of partly developed territory, on which are located between 400 and 450 producing wells, pletion. By the transaction the various properties pass to the ownership of the Midland division of the South Oil Company, a producing branch of the Standard, and the negotiations were conducted through John L. and J. C. McKinney of Titusville, Pa., representives of the Midland company. The preliminaries to the purchase began about six months ago, but owing to a failure to agree upon a price after several weeks of "give and take," the negotiations were dropped and the deal declared off. Two weeks ago new overtures were made at a figure somewhat higher than had been named in the first proposition to puramed in the first proposition to pur-hase. In the interim, however, the evelopment of the property had been ushed and the production almost dou-led, and at the time of the sale was larger than that of any other three independent producing companies in the business. The production obtained from the property up to the time of the sale had, it is reported, paid back all the money that had been invested and left the selling price, $1,400,000, a net profit to the former owners. In the personnel of the three companies are well-known and experienced operators. C. P. Collins of Bradford, Pa., president of the Devonian, and James R. Leonard and J.-H. Evans, treasurer and superintendent respectively of the same ard and J. B. Evans, treasurer and sup-perintendent respectively of the same company reside at Beaver, Pa., Mr. Matson of Bradford is president of the Matson oil Company, and Lewis J. Emery, Jr., of Bradford holds the same position with the Emery Oil Company.

The active development of the properties of which they disposed, began less than three years ago.

The money consideration surpasses any involving a similar purchase, but any involving a similar purchase, but the McKinney Bros. are throughly the McKinney Bros. are throughly practical operators and have a full knowledge of the value of Bradford producing proderty, and are regarded as conservative in making estimates, and both purchaser and seller came to an agreement after a protracted deliberation. The South Penn Company took possession of the property Monday morning.
