

HUSELTON'S SHOES For Wet and Slushy Weather. You'll need them.

We're ready with some special lines—the comfort-giving sort that will afford you the needed protection. We'll sell them, too, with a slice of the original prices cut off; a big saving is what you may expect. Every shoe from our regular stock and fully guaranteed.

The Best Shoes in Butler.

SCHOOL SHOES For the Boys and Girls. HEAVY SHOES For the Grown People. FINE SHOES For any that want them; or FELTS FOR Men and Boys.

A Sensational Showing of Shoe Values

That are bound to be the pride of the whole county. A cordial invitation is extended to all to visit our store. You will be made welcome whether you buy or not. Glad to show what we have.

Some little shoe vendors think all they have to do is to get all the worthless trash they can, no matter what, so they can fix a low price, then blow their little tin horn and the people will hurry to them by the hundreds. They will find that a little later it will take a trumpet equal to Gabriel's to make the people hearken unto their lamentations. The people don't want to buy two pairs at once—one to go home with, another pair to come back with.

B. C. HUSELTON'S

Butler's Leading Shoe House. Opposite Hotel Lowry.

HE IS A WISE MAN WHO SECURES HIS CLOTHING FROM

J. S. YOUNG, THE MERCHANT TAILOR.

The goods, style, fit and general make up of his suits TELL their own STORY

MEN

Won't buy clothing for the purpose of spending money. They desire to get the best possible results for the money expended. Not cheap goods but goods as cheap as can be sold and made up properly. Call and examine my large stock of SPRING SUITINGS. Right up to date, the latest styles, shades and colors that could be bought. Call and examine them.

Fits and Workmanship Guaranteed.

G. F. KECK,

142 North Main Street, Butler, Pa.

We are now Ready

To show you our new spring line of Men's, Boys' and Children's clothing at entirely new prices. Also our new spring line of Hats (in all the new shapes), caps and furnishing goods.

We will make you a tailor made suit for $15.00 up to $30.00, and if they do not fit or please you, we do not ask you to take it. Come in and see the samples.

We Have Two Stores and

We buy real cheap now.

DOUTHETT & GRAHAM,

BUTLER, PA., THE CLOTHIERS.

Whiskey

AS A

Medicine!

We don't claim that whiskey is a "cure-all," but physicians tell us that a little good whiskey as a stimulant is helpful in nearly all cases brought on by changes in the weather.

Have you the "GRIPPE"? Have you a heavy COLD? If so get some whiskey and note its good effect.

We have a reputation for keeping good liquors.

Guaranteed absolutely pure and free from all impurities—Here are some of our prices:

Anchor Key—A good whiskey for the money, $2.00 per gallon.

Cabinet Key—Can't be beat, 3.00 "

Bear Creek Key—A very fine whiskey, 4.00 "

Gin, Rum, Kummel, Brandy, $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 per gal.

We have some very fine California wines of 1892 vintage, Port, Sherry and Angelica at $2.00 per gallon. They are of good body and a bit of exquisite flavor.

Remember we pay expressage on all orders of $5.00 and over except where a transfer is necessary from our Express Co. to another, when we pay expressage to point of transfer.

MAX KLEIN,

Wholesale Liquors,

82 FEDERAL ST., ALLEGHENY, PA

Send for catalogue and price list, mailed free.

Dissolution SALE

Still going on. Not so many goods to show you now, but yet this assortment is complete. This Furniture stock is being sold without profit and many things under cost.

No matter what piece of furniture you buy the price is low and you save money if you buy here.

That sold for $4.50, $5.00, $6.00. Take your choice at $3.50

Rocking Chairs

Better come and see for yourself. Price $25.00, now $18.00

Bed Room Suits

$20.00

Book Cases

marked down from $20 to $10

Easter Carpet

$1 per yard

CAMPBELL & TEMPLETON,

BUTLER, PA.

Butler Savings Bank

Butler, Pa.

Capital and Profits $1,000,000

JOSEPH L. PURVIS, President

HENRY T. BROTHMAN, Vice-President

W. CAMPBELL, Cashier

LOUIS B. STEIN, Teller

DIRECTORS: Joseph L. Purvis, J. Henry Brothman, W. D. Brantley, W. A. Scott, John C. McMartin, John C. Campbell.

The Butler Savings Bank is the oldest banking institution in Butler County, Pa.

It has a capital of $1,000,000 and is a member of the National Savings Association.

We solicit accounts of all producers, merchants, and all other classes of business.

All business entrusted to us will receive careful attention.

Interest paid on time deposits.

THE Butler County National Bank,

Butler, Penn.

Capital paid in $1,000,000

Surplus and Profits $144,647.87

Joe. Hartman, President; J. V. Ritts, Vice-President; C. A. Bailey, Cashier; John C. McMartin, Teller.

General banking business transacted. Savings banks, time deposits, etc.

Money loaned on approved security. We invite you to open an account with this bank.

Directors: Joseph Hartman, Hon. W. A. Walcott, Dr. S. M. Hoover, H. M. Sweney, E. P. Borner, C. G. Collins, W. H. Larkin, John Humphrey, Dr. J. G. Generous, Geo. S. Sisco, Levi M. Wise, J. V. Ritts.

Whiskey

A Bit Historical.

When our grandfathers were hunting venison in the long ago, they used to get their shot from the woods of the mountains. They would go down the mountain side, and when they had a good shot they would throw the powder horn, and over the hill it would fly, and when it struck the tree, it would make a noise like a gun, and when it struck the ground, it would make a noise like a drum.

AND TO DAY, we defy their vainglorious pride. The crack of the sportsman's rifle is no longer accompanied by a puff of smoke. The sportsman is no longer obliged to seek the dark, roomy, smoky lair of the woods.

The silent cartridge has removed the "smoke nuisance." The film cartridge has come away with the smoke.

Get a Kodak at the only place in town at

DOUGLASS'

Near P. O.

Peoples Phone 62

Eyes Examined Free of Charge

R. L. KIRKPATRICK,

Jeweler and Graduate Optician

Next Door to Court House, Butler, Pa.

ACTIVE SOLICITORS WANTED EVERYWHERE for "The Story of the Philippines" by Maria Husted, commissioned by the Government as Official Historian to the War Department. The book was written in army camps at San Francisco, on the Pacific with General Merritt in the hospitals at Honolulu, in Hong Kong in the American trenches at Manila, in the rear of battle at the fall of Manila. Bonanza for agents. Beautiful original pictures taken by government photographers on the spot. Large book. Low price. Big profits. Freight paid. Credit given. Drop all trashy medical war books. Outline free. Address: Butler, Pa. Book Insurance Bldg., Chicago.

Hood's Pills

Are prepared from Nature's mild laxatives, and while gentle are reliable and efficient. They

Rouse the Liver

Cure Sick Headache, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, and Constipation. Sold everywhere, 25c. per box. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Pianos.

W. R. NEWTON, Representing

The Chickering-Chase Bros. Co.

Manufacturers of

Grand and Upright Pianos

AND

Farrand & Votey Organ Co.

Manufacturers of Organs.

Can save you money in the purchase of a FIRST CLASS Instrument.

Call and examine them at the war room.

317 South Main St., Butler, Pa.

TERMS: Cash or easy payments to suit purchaser.

YOUR SUIT

May seem dear at the start, and I prove remarkably cheap before you've worn it out. It's the long time satisfaction you get from it that decides the superiority of our make. It does pay to buy good clothes. Our fall display is of the kind you would expect to find only in the large cities.

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth. "The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

MADAM OF THE IVIES

BY ELIZABETH PHIPPS TRAIN

COPYRIGHT, 1898, BY THE AUTHOR

CHAPTER I

"Wanted—A young woman to perform the customary duties of companion to an elderly lady. To a person of the requisite qualifications, a liberal salary and comfortable home are offered. References required.—Apply to H. E. The Ives, Eldon."

I read the above advertisement aloud to my mother in a voice that trembled somewhat, yet concealed much. I have searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

"For that, my innocent!" my mother asked, with no more surprise in her pretty, faded blue eyes.

"For a response to the various appeals I have made to the future of the world," she looked bewildered it self.

"You mean—?" she began, and paused in helpless perplexity.

"I mean that those few lines that I have just read to you, and which you have given me so much attention to, are the very lines that Fate has ever vouchsafed to accord to my necessary applications for assistance in my career."

"I answered in a tone of solemn significance."

"No, of course you don't, you superstitious little soul!" I cried, with a laugh that showed my teeth.

"The thing, the precious little woman's utter lack of comprehension was so genuine and unfeigned that I was almost tempted to cry early for endowment with all the marvelous physical gifts which are the birthright of our race."

"Here it is, mother dear," I said, with a foolish little laugh that meant nothing but my excited and nervous condition. I searched long enough for it, in all conscience.

MADAM OF THE IVIES

BY ELIZABETH PHIPPS TRAIN

COPYRIGHT, 1898, BY THE AUTHOR

CHAPTER II

"I had ample time for reflection as we jogged along. It seemed to me that we traversed a huge section of country though I have since learnt that not more than six miles intervened between the Eldon station and The Ives. But my excited and nervous condition, doubtless made me impatient, and for that reason the distance appeared twice as long as it really was."

Evening had quite set in, and the dusk was so heavy that I could distinguish only the passing landscape, and the wistful air came in with a rawness and bleakness which seemed to bespeak a high altitude. Then, too, the position of the carriage was such that I knew we must be constantly ascending, and I wondered if The Ives were perched like an eagle's eyrie on a mountain top.

"Finally when I had about concluded that the drive would never end, the carriage turned abruptly to the right, and, passing between two high granite pointed peaks, we entered a considerable interval between gates and house."

"An overwhelming desire to learn that I could find a carriage of my own sort—and I looked about the deserted place with doubtful glance."