REDICK & GROHMAN. SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO., CHICACO, ILL (Sears, Boebuck & Co. are thoroughly reliable.—Editor.)

Average Life Of An Iron or Steel Bridge.

The permanence of a steel bridge will depend upon three conditions: the de sign, the loading, and the maintenance If it be properly designed for a specified naximum loading; if oversight be exerised that this loading is never exceedd: and if the steel work is thoroughly cessible and painted at regular inter als, there is no reason why a bridge hould not last for centuries. As natter of tact, however, these condi ons are too often ignored or imperfecy fulfilled. In the first place, although oridge designing should always be in rusted to a specialist, even if the struct ure is to cost no more than the sun amed above, many of the country ridges and those constructed in th maller towns are built from the de signs (so called) of the local surveyors who may have the vaguest ideas as to the strains to which the various parts are to be subjected and the best way t roportion the different members and onnect them into a finished structure The construction also should always b carried out by a recognized bridge firm, for the local blacksmith or machinist op is usually no more fitted for build ing good bridges than it is for building lathes and locomotives. It is question able whether amateur bridge building can produce a structure with a useful life of twenty-five years.

HEALTHY. It makes weak

To secure the best results the county officers, Board of Aldermen, or who ever it is that has the matter in hand. should first determine exactly what ses the bridge is to be put to and the greatest possible loading to which it wil ever be subjected. This informaon, together with the location an other data, should then be published for the benefit of the competing bridge mpanies, who should be given a free hand as to the style of structure best adapted to the case. In this way a bet ter bridge, and a cheaper, will be secur ed, even in the case of insignifican be supposed the bridge compani would not be at the trouble to under take. When such a bridge is comple ed, the question of its life will be one of care and maintenance. If every inch of the steel work receives a periodica coat of the best non-corrosive paint, and care is taken that the bridge is not strained beyond the limit agreed upo when it was designed, it will probably outlast its usefulness. The popular be lief that a subtile process of crystalliza tion is slowly weakening the metal of all the bridges is a fiction, pure and simple. The metal can only lose its life when it is strained beyond its elas tic limit, and so long as the designe pading is not exceeded, this contin

She Slacked Lime in a Bottle.

Mrs. J. Washburn, who resides in the ear of 98 Arsenal street, was seriously njured in a very peculiar manner ye erday afternoon. She desired to slake some lime, and, not being familiar with hemistry, placed the stuff in a heavy bottle, with hot water and tightly corl

The lime soon set the water boiling and generated a quantity of steam tha exerted an enormous pressure. The bottle burst with a report like an eight nch shell, and pieces of the glass struck Mrs. Washburn in the face and neck terribly lacerating the flesh. One large fragment of glass cut a gash in the left side of the neck that extended to within an eight of an inch of the jugular vein.

NEARLY Fifty-eight Years Old!!!

It's a long life, but devotion to the true interests and prosperity of the American People has won for it new friends as the years rolled by and the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast today, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their formes and firesides.

As a natural consequence it enjoys in its old age all the vitality and vigor of its youth, strengthened and ripened by the experiences of over half a century.

It has lived on its merits, and on the cordial support of progressive Americans.

It is "The New-York Weekly Tribune," acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper.

Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publisher of "The CITIZEN" (your own favorite home paper) has entered into an alliance with "The New-York Weekly Tribune" which enables him to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.50 per year.

Every farmer and every villager owes to himself, to his family, and to the community in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untiringly for his interests in every way, brings to his home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, is a weekly visitor which should be found in every wide-awake, progressive family. Just think of it! Both of these papers for only $1.50 a year. It is "The New-York Weekly Tribune," acknowledged the country over as the
