JOHN L. JONES. THE ADAMS FIASCO.

The enforced retirement of Josiah R. Adams of Philadelphia from the Republican state ticket, as the candidate of the party for Superior Judge, on account of the exposure of his connection with some swindling investment companies, is one of those unfortunate political in cidents that the least said about, under the circumstances, the better.

The only funny part of the affair was the action of Frank Torrance, the Allegheny politician in whose interest the original specifications for our Poor House were written, rushing down to Philadelphia and trying to have the State Committee substitute the name of State Committee substitute the name of John M. Greer for that of Adams-as Wiser counsels, however, prevailed, and John I. Mitchell of Wellsboro, an honest man and independent Republican was selected for the place-and the personal of our state ticket is now unectional and worthy of support.

Mr. Mitchell's political career has been a rather remarkable one. He has always been independent in his words and actions; has served in the Legislature, in Congress and in the U. S. Sen ate, and is now President Judge of Tioga county, and this is the second time the Cameron-Quay crowd have gone to him when their actions made trouble

County Chairman Wise and candidates McGarvey, Gillespie, McCollough, Rankin and Turner drove to Portersville Thursday, thence southward through Harmony and Zelienople to Ogle, thence to Evans City and back to Butler Saturday evening. At the different stopping places they held meetings with the township and borough committees. Monday reinforced by Messrs Hoon and Adams they started on a tour of the northern part of the county. Reports from all points justify the prediction of a complete Republican victory.

On Saturday a victory for the British was reported from Glencoe. The British artillery silenced that of the Boers an Smith's hill and then the English regiments charged the hill and captured it, with the loss of 52 officers and men killed, and 151 wounded—the loss in officers being especially heavy. The Boers retreated leaving their dead and wounded behind and a squadron of Hussars who followed them were missing, and it was feared they had been drawn into a trap. President Kruger ordered the complete evacuation of Johannesburg, the centre of the gold-mining district and it was be heved he intended destroying the town. Two American newspaper men were re ported captured by the Boers on Monday the Boers were reported to be attacking both Glencoe and Dundee, they outnumbered the English and had forced them back, and the situation was said to be serious for the British. On Tuesday the British General Yule abandoned Glencoe and Dundee, and retreating southward, joined his forces to those of Gen. White at Ladysmith. On the western border both Mafeking and Kimberly were surrounded by the Boers.

Yesterday it was believed in England that there had been a battle and that the news was being held back.
