JESS AND THE BEAR.

Bruin Saved the Man, but Lost His Life In the Bargain.
There is a story connected with the ast bear killed about here which fond grandpapas often told the children seated on their knees. It appears that the celebrated "Uncle Jess" had spent all his life as a trapper and hunter, and never a mishap had befallen him. But one night, in his anxiety to shake a oon, he climbed the shell of an old ing limb the stump to which he was clinging gave way, and he sank feet irst into the hollow center. All efforts to escape were impossible, and the ious hunter had resolved to pass the oward night his supplications were interrupted. Looking up, he beheld the ve of a bear looking straight down

As he began shaking the neighbor-

Then the animal turned about and acked down the inside of the stump. Hardly knowing what to do, Uncle Jess put up his hands in protection and grasped the bear. Now it was the bear's turn to be frightened. He scrambled up again, while the hunter nung on for his life and was carried with safety to the top.

Here the bear's real trouble began, or with so heavy a weight it was imossible for him to turn about and ack down, so he tried it head first, out that was no easy matter to the to the ground below and was killed, while Uncle Jess went home and told the truthful tale, to be handed down to his children.-Springfield Republic-
