LOCAL AND GENERAL.

To Our Readers.

During the past few weeks we have sent out quite a number of "sample copies," and we invite those who have been receiving the paper to compare it with any other published in the county. The subscription price is but $1 a year, while the "Story of an African Farm" which we began last week is above worth that.

Our solicitor may not be able to visit your vicinity for some weeks, and in the meantime we invite you to send us your subscription direct, or get up a club.

On, for the good old days!

When we were unknown,

When bold bacilli lurked in

In every vein and bone.

When we could eat with freedom,

And when we had no sight.

Because we set before us

Some antiseptic pie.

—Some people borrow trouble, and some lend it easy.
