THE CITIZEN.

What's in a Name?
"Judging by his name," remarked the tenderfoot, "this Three Finger Mike you speak of must be a particularly fierce individual."

"Huh!" replied the cow puncher. "You're away off. He's the most timid galoot in country. He gave him that name 'cause he's skinned for take more'n three fingers of whisky at a time."—Philadelphia Press.

Quite Misunderstood
"What's this?" said Abdul Hamid in a great rage. "Pay money to the United States? For my money?"

"You promised, you know."

"I know I promised, but I never would have promised, you may rest assured. If I thought you would expect me to pay after promising."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Real Thing.
Friend—Hello, old chap! Fallen in? Dripping—Anger! You don't suppose this is a perspiration, do you?—Punch.

So Romantic.
"She is romantic. Every day she goes out on her wheel expecting to meet with some prince in disguise."

"And she has never met one?"

"No. The nearest she ever came to it was to narrowly miss being run over by a coal wagon driver, who asked if he couldn't call."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
