LOCAL AND GENERAL,

—Foggy mornings.

—Gunning accidents.

—Halloween is in sight.

—What has become of the straw vote man?

—School in the second month of the term.

—No trouble to catch a train in Butler now.

—It is a mighty poor person who can't pay thanks.

—Election claims founded on hope is one way of showing confidence.

—It is time for big pumpkin lies to come floating in from the rural regions

—A double-barreled, muzzle-loading shot-gun can be had cheap by calling at this office.

—Patience is a good thing to have in this world; it takes patience to kill a mosquito.

—In foot ball games the losers are all broken up, while the winners are generally sore about it.

—One of the finest appearing fields of winter wheat in the county is that on the County Poor Farm.

—In this China business Uncle Sam wants a general peace while the other powers want a particular piece.

—A mean exchange says that "It is only in novels that men ask women to marry them and meet with a refusal.

—It is strange that in the midst of a presidential campaign, a political discussion on the street is hardly ever heard.

—The street cars run from one end of Main St. to the other in three minutes, and they have stopped the fast driving on N. Main St.

—A great deal of time spent foolishly in courting will be saved in the glorious days to come, when a man can get a wife by dropping a nickle in the slot.

—It is said that B. R. & P. officials want the street car company to extend the line over Institute Hill to Butler Junction, to accommodate the railroad employees.

—Though touching the trolley wire, with your feet on the ground, would be sure death, the men on the elevated platform, insulated by the wood, handle it with impunity.

—Our dry weather here is offset by that in New Brunswick; where they had continuous rain for 108 hours last week. Twelve inches of rain fell and all the railroads were "tied up."

—This is the season for sacrifice sales of buggies and surries by dealers who want room for sleighs. Jos. Rockenstein, whose place is on Main St., next door to Keck's, has a large number of elegant buggies and surries, which he is now selling at cost. Read his advertisement before purchasing.

—Street-cars began passing over Main street, from Wayne to the cemetary entrance for the first time last Saturday morning. There are two cars on the Main street line and two on the Jefferson street. They meet at the crossing of the two streets and transfer passengers.

An applicant for pension from Indiana county is said to have sent in the following letter to his Washington Attorney. He wants the pension all himself. He says: "I got blood poison by beinge hit with a hens eg which was not good when you send my pension I want the Deed made sos my wife cant get none off it—she throde the eg."

—A certain Butler attorney who lately attended to business in Evans City, missed the 6 o'clock train from that place to Butler and then jumped a passing freight in order to get to Callery junction in time for the last evening train. When Callery was reached the freight went through so fast that our attorney was afraid to jump off and he was carried on to Mars, where he managed to escape and pass the night.

—There are thirteen peanut roasters in operation in Butler and Butler people buy and eat over three tons of peanuts a month, besides stealing about one fourth this quantity off the roasters. Large quantities of factory roasted nuts are also shipped in and it is safe to estimate that the town's total consumption per month is 8000 pounds. The Virginia peanut crop is a failure this year.

—A large number of shares of preferred stock in the Butler Producing Co., Limited, lately organized here has been subscribed for by parties in Denver, Col. Usually eastern money goes west but this time western money comes east. The officers of the company are John Brown of Glade Mills, President; E. J. Evans, Pittsburg, Vice President; B. S. Hammill, Butler, Secretary and Treasurer, and G. C. Bellis, Glade Mills, Superintendent. The company does not drill, but buys and sells producing territory.

First Car on Main Street.

(Oct. 13, 1900.)

I saw it ne'er before
Till it pounded past the door
With a bang.
How it rumbles o'er the ground,
How the paving stones resound
With its clang.

Lo, its wires hiss and siz,
And its wheels so full of biz
And blue fire;
Most plainly do express,
He who says we're not progress
Is a liar.

Davy Dougal would have said—
Poor old fellow, he is dead
Long ago.—
That the tarnal thing would scare
The very Devil, till his hair
Was like snow.

But its come and is here to stay,
Let it scare whoe'er it may,
Up or down.
For the street car is the thing
That will lively business bring
To our town.

And if we should live to be,
Like old Dave, a hundred three
We will find
That fair Butler has spread out,
Leaving Pittsburg, without doubt,
Far behind. N.

—"Catchers," a new and virulent form of skin disease is prevalent among the school children of Pittsburg. None of the physicians have been able to diagnose the disease, nor had ever heard of it before. It is contagious and it is feared cold weather will increase the epedemic. It is in some respects similar to blood poisoning, the children afflicted having swollen faces and unmerous dark blotches have appeared from time to time. These blotches develop into eruptions and when they disappear others follow in the same place.

FIRES.

Samuel Shaffner's large barn on the plank road a mile south of town was destroyed by fire at noon Monday. Mr. Shaffner and his son had just came in from the fields for dinner, put their team in the barn for feed, and gone into the house. A few minutes later some of the children who had gone out into the yard to play ran in and said the straw stack was on fire. The stack stood against the barn and it was a mass of flames when the men reached it. The live-stock was saved but all the crops from two farms, making nearly 500 bushels of grain, farm machinery and a phaeton were destroyed. Mr. Shaffner's house directly across the road was on fire once and could not have been saved but for its tin roof. There was a little insurance on the barn but none on the contents and the loss is about $1000. Two men drove rapidly down the plank road past the house just as the fire was discovered, but did not deign to stop and help, and some think they were perhaps there before the fire started.

PARK THEATRE.

OVER THE FENCE — OCT. 22.

The man who appreciates a good, wholesome laugh, embellished with all the frills of unmistakable enjoyment, is offered the latest farce comedy, "Over the Fence." In presenting this piece to the American public, the management admits that it is built solely for the purpose to amuse, and while there is a plot to be followed, it is not of such magnitude that the auditor will lose any needed rest in the endeavor to keep track of the same. While there has been added novelties foreign to farce comedy and of an interesting nature in themselves, it has at the same time been borne in mind that the author intended his play to be produced in such form as to give scope for all that was intended for it.

Grand Opera House, Pittsburg.

The week of October 22nd will witness the presentation at the Grand Opera House, Pittsburg, of "Rosemary", one of John Drew's notable successes a few years ago. Like all of Mr. Drew's plays, it is clever and refined. At the same time it tells a pretty story, beautifully set in a romatic background.

Few plays have so sweet an atmosphere surrounding them This play is widely different from the thrilling drama that is proving such a success at the Grand this week. "The Song of the Sword" is full of life, action, plot and counter plot.

Railroad Notes.

THE largest contract for steel rails ever made at one time was awarded by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to six manufacturing steel companies last Friday. The amount is 150,000 tons and the price is $26 per ton. Almost at the same time as the Pennsylvania railroad made its contract award, contracts for 90,000 tons of rails at the same price were made by the other railroad systems with the same companies. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad took 40,000 tons, the Chesapeake & Ohio took 25,000 tons, and the Norfolk & Western railroad 25,000 tons.

The steel companies among which the contracts are divided are the Lackawanna Steel Company of Scranton the Federal Steel Company of Chicago, the Carnegie Company of Pittsburg, the Pennsylvania Steel Company of Harrisburg, the National Steel Company of Youngstown, and the Cambria Steel Company of Johnstown.

The P. & W. R. R. is to be equipped with new and heavier engines.

The next great work to be undertaken on this line is the Bakerstown short cut, surveyed some two years ago by Chief Engineer Paul Didier. This provided for an easy grade and will eliminate considerable curvature on the main line. It will start about two miles below Bakerstown and will intersect the old line near Valencia. Some deep cuts, heavy fills and a tunnel will be necessary, but the work will make the P. & W. one of the greatest of Pittsburg lines and will enable the through trains to make faster time between Pittsburg and Akron.

The executive officers of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad Monday assumed formal control of the Pittsburg & Western railway system at the first annual meeting that has been convened in two years. This ends the long, interesting and brilliant struggle for possession of the valuable Iron ore route. President John K. Cowen of the Baltimore & Ohio was chosen President and appointed receiver and the absolute absorption of the important property, free from the receivership, now only awaits the completion of the plans of the Reorganization Committee of the Baltimore & Ohio. Not the least important event of the day was the retirement from active railroading, after a brillant career of 25 years in Western Pennsylvania, of President Thomas M. King, one of the most prominent railroad officials and financiers in the country.—Dispatch.

A Wedding in Youngstown.

Lewis Thompson of this place and Miss Daisy Morris of Cooperstown were married at Youngstown last Thursday.

The wedding was solomnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Young in the presence of about 25 immediate friends and relatives. Promptly at the appointed hour the bridal party entered the richly dressed library to the strains of the minuet de Mozart and were given to each other by Rev. J. D. Michal After all had heartly partaken of the sumptuous repast waiting for them, Miss Bessie Young and Margarete Shoups, entertained the guests by showing them the city in a special car. At corner of Federal and Jefferson the car was held up by a band compossed of young people who delightfully rendered "I'll leave my happy home for you."

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have many friends and all join in the best wishes for the future. May their path be strewn with roses and their life full of sunshine. SQUIZ.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

A New Jersey woman has applied for a divorce from her husband, and in her suit occurs the following: When she asked him for twenty nine cents with which to get some lining for her dress he replied that he would ask the Lord about it. He then prayed four hours, and finally told her that the Lord had told him dress was vanity and that she could not have the money. The court will probably decide that the Lord's advice was good, based upon knowledge of the fact that the thirty cent husband did not have twentynine cents.

A Meadville woman claims to have raised coffee in her garden. She says the family have used the coffee and find it much better and stronger than can be purchased.

At New Castle the other day one of the best known shots in town was boasting in a gun store of how he had eluded the game wardens and got away with 18 gray squirrels. One of the men he was talking to happened to be a game warden and soon returned to the scene with a warrant. The arrested sport modified his tale and admitted to but four squirrels, which cost him $40 and costs.

An alarm of fire was sent out from the Hotel Arlington on Sixth St. Pittsburg last Saturday night, and after the fire was extinguished, a room soaked with oil and other evidences of intended incendiarism were found. The hotel had been closed for several days owing to a dispute between the proprietor and the lessor.

A Beaver County Methodist minister named John Hodge has a case very similar to the Rev. Davis of Institute Hill case. Last Easter his wife died and last week he married Edna Myers the fourteen-year-old daughter of his dead wife's brother. In procuring the license he gave his age as 23 and she as 22.
