DUFFY'S STORE,

Nerve Influence

Is the subtle force which controls the different organs of the body. It makes them strong or weak, healthy or diseased, according as the brain and nerves are strong and vigorous or weak and diseased. Weak nerves cause headache, nervousness, neuralgia, indigestion, heart trouble and many other forms of chronic weakness. Make the nerves strong, the brain clear and active and the body will be healthy and vigorous.

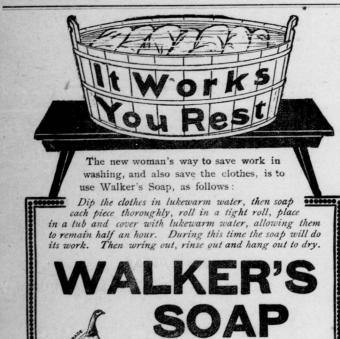

"Overstrained nerves caused my wife to suffer severely with a nervous affection of the heart called by physicians neuralgia of the heart. Powerful remedies relieved the pain temporarily, but all physicians failed to remove the cause or give permanent relief. A few bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine together with Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure removed all signs of neuralgia and she has ever since enjoyed excellent health."

Thos. O. Marshall, North East, Fa.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

soothes and rests the tired brain, strengthens the nerves and supplies the nerve influence that is so necessary to build up health of body and vigor of mind. Try it.

THE BEE AND THE GRAPE.

Bee May Not Take First Bite, but "Gets There" Just the Same. When the bees were destroying my grapes this year. I had it in mind to write you in regard to it, but thought perhaps it was not worth while. Prosor Slingerland's article, however, has called it to mind, as well as some older memories. Some time early in the eighties, I do not recall the exact year, bees destroyed nearly all my grapes, somewhere from 10 to 20 bushels. When they were at work on the moving into our skyscraper was when grapes by the thousands, I wrote my she sent for me to call at room 23. I old friend and classmate, Professor A. J. Cook, the well known bee expert, in couldn't say that she was a dream of regard to it, and he answered in effect that I must be mistaken. Bees were not built that way and could not make an opening through the skin of a grape. I was reminded of the old story of the lawyer who went into the prisoner's cell and told him that he could not be imprisoned on such a charge. 'But,' said the prisoner, "I am here." In spite of the impossibility of the bees doing such a thing I saw thousands of them destroying my grapes and knew that they ruined nearly my whole crop that year. I cannot say that they made the first puncture in the grape, and it makes no difference whether they did or not. If something else did it, they were on hand to take advantage of it, your age, and I thought the world of and finished up the work of destruc tion, doing practically the whole of it. be brother and sister, Sammis?" That year the first step in the work was a small round puncture through the skin, not larger than a pin prick. The juice was sucked out and the hole gradually enlarged, until several bees worked in it at once. The skin was finally split from end to end of the grape and every last bit of the juice extracted, leaving nothing but the dry and tried to blush and look coy. "I skin and seeds and the hard matter of the pulp. That was my first experience of the kind and the last until this you can call me Sister Eva, and we will both have more to live for. Brothyear. grapes on my place.

This year they did not begin on the grapes so soon after ripening and did not destroy over half the crop. The destruction began in a different way this year from what it did before. Then it began with a round puncture like the prick of a pin. This year it began with a very small V shaped incision, ach as might have been made with a three cornered needle. This was gradually enlarged, the cut or tear being extended and the point of skin lled back until the grape was split om end to end and sucked dry. I have seen this work being done by warms of bees and have seen it in all ages except that I cannot positively state that I ever saw the first minute buncture made, and I know that the ees did the work of destruction. For ty million instances where bees did nothing of the kind do not have a particle of weight with me against these instances where I knew they did it. This year and nearly every year they work on my Abundance plums. As soon as the plums turn a little red the birds pick into them, and then the bees step in and complete the work of Fall Rusting of Wheat.

It may be useful to call the attention wheat growers to the rusting of eat during the very warm weathe f the present fall. This is conspicuous a early sown wheat, which may i ne instances owe most of its chang rust rather than to the attacks of the Hessian fly. We find this rust, which is the red or uredo stage (the black stage or teleuto spores not occurring o far as we know, on living wheat it the fall), very abundant at the experi ment station upon the early sown wheat, especially upon very early plots where dates of sowing are tested. Up-on the later plots there is a diminished amount, grading off somewhat according to the relative earliness or the relative proximity to the earliest and most affected wheat. That the same condi-tion is attested by observations report ed by the entomologist and his assis ant and by others. In this connection it may be stated that the Puccinia ru winter in this uredo stage in the wheat plant which may become affected in the fall, writes Professor A. D.

Last fall 200 young cattle were pur-chased and fed through the winter on othing but beet pulp and refuse mo asses, one quart per day, the sugar vell and fattened so nicely that it is roposed to try dry cows this fall and ed them in the same way. The pulp osts $1 per ton at the factory. It is perhaps as nearly comparable to silage as anything, though a recent bulleting shows that it contains only about 40 per cent as much of solids as silage. It is believed to be good feed for those who can get it without too much expense, says a Rural New Yorker writ

News and Notes. A special investigator claims it as Altogether probable that the chicory industry in America is "on its feet. During the past three years chicory factories have been established by nanufacturers who have found that American grown chicory can be manifactured more profitably than the im orted root upon which duty must be paid. Imports of chicory have fallen rom $246,393 in 1897 to $13,414 in 1899. Peanut butter, as it is called, is marketed to a considerable extent. Authorities upon broom corn pro luction estimate the world's cons ion of brush to be about 30,000 tons grown on 12,000 acres, about 28,000 ons being produced in Illinois. Commercial estimates of the 1900 wheat crop of Siberia place it at 32,-000,000 bushels.
