Not an Asset.

(Extracts from ex-Governor Hasting's Speech)

"The Republican party is not an asset to be bought and sold as the drover buys and sells a herd of cattle. The true Republican party is an association of free men, having for its purpose the advancement of the best interests of every condition of humanity throughout the land. Whatever tends to the happiness, upbuilding and prosperity of all the people is a part of our creed. This has not been, I am sorry to admit, the rule followed by those who claim to be our party leaders. The record of recent egislation and the work of these self-appointed leaders have been fraught with baleful results. The best interests of the people of the State were lost sight of in dishonest and cruel efforts for personal gain, to advance individual ambition and to make inpregnable the control by a few men of a political machine organization, which they wrongfully call the Republican party. Last fall when Pennsylvania gave her splendid majority to William McKinley the voters of the State were innocently turning the grindstone to sharpen the knives which were to carve the fundamental law of the State to atoms and to rip into shreds laws, elections and constitutional rights,, to despoil local and home government and to sell out for profit the great party of Lincoln like a flock of sheep.

"Have you ever stopped to think who they are who have thus trampled under foot their party's principles, its platforms, its traditions and its great achievements? Can it be laid at the doors of the men who make up the Republican party in Centre county? No, not one—excepting one. Can it be charged to the great body of voters who have made the Republican majorities in Philadelphia, in Allegheny, in Lancaster and other strongholds of Republicanism? No, it is directly chargeable to those who have trifled with their pledges and promises and have hoodwinked the great Pennsylvania army of Republicanism until securely seated in place and power, where the dignity, the honor, the efficiency and the authority of official station have been perverted to the basest uses for personal emolument and official security.

"You have seen men, elected to represent the people and their best interest, basely sell their birthright for a mess of pottage secretly paid them by those who assume to be the sages and prophets and the leaders of Republicanism."

"You have witnessed the adroit use of legislative machinery, caawling like a reptile by devious ways and into the darkness of assumed ignorance of the general public, to draw forth the money in the public treasury to pay the price of official perfidy.

"You have witnessed the betrayal of a publicly expressed pledge to give to you a ballot law that would correct the evils of the existing statute and provide surer protection against election frauds and ballot box stuffers. This pledge you have seen wilfully ignored by the authority of its maker, moreover the attempt made by the honest Democratic members of the recent Legislature to carry out the will of their party for ballot reform was by the same authority persistently opposed and finally thwarted.

"You have witnessed the consummation of legislation to overthrow the government of great municipalities, and to deprive citizens of the just fruit of their ballot, all for the purpose of promoting a friend, punishing an enemy, or of advancing selfish interests or political ambitions. The precedents which have been thus established, if not overthrown but carried to their logical result, may any day return to plague the people who permit it by substituting the will of a single official for the inalienable right of self-government. It is revolutionary and among the boldest efforts of recent years to overthrow free American government.

"You have beheld the legislative sale of almost invaluable franchises to a self-constituted few, whereby millions of dollars have gone into their individual pockets instead of the public treasury where it belonged.

"You have witnessed the legislation which has created judges where the people of the counties themselves protested against the alleged necessity and the expense. Do you ask why? Because there were political debts to pay those debts, regardless of expense, necessity or the will of the people.

"You have seen courts and judges and judicial patronage, the rural postmaster and other Federal office-holders hurried to the support of the central power by specious promises of better and other offices or threats of removal from those held. You have seen a judicial and Congressional apportionment, which outstripped in intricacy the famed puzzle of the Chinese, solely for the purpose of rewarding a friend or punishing an enemy.

"If you have watched the recent course of legislation you have seen legislators compelled to vote for measures at which they revolted, in the fear of offending a power that could deprive worthy local charities of the usual and necessary State support. The present system of State support for charities should be corrected. It places every such charitable asylum or institution at the mercy of the designing politician and constitutes every unfortunate inmate a club to compel those who stand sponsors for them to yield to the demands of an arrogant boss or endure the consequences of refusal.

"These are but a tithe of the whole lamentable recital which has continued until the fair name of Pennsylvania has become a by-word in her sister States. Is it possible that the public sense of right and justice has become so blunted or so calloused that the true Republicans in Pennsylvania will not rise in their sovereign might and hurl from place and power those who have profited by this domination, who are responsible for it, who manage it, and who claim that they themselves are the Republican party of the State? They do not constitute one-half of 1 per cent. of the great Republican host of Pennsylvania, while they and their adherents all told are not more than 10 per cent. of the full strength of the party.

"The three tailors in Tooly street, London, who issued a proclamation in which they heralded themselves as 'We the people of England,' were not more swelled with the sense of their importance than the self-constituted coterie who proclaim themselves as 'We, the Republican party of Pennsylvania.'

"In my judgement there is but one remedy for these wrongs: Let the great body of Republicans in Pennsylvania rise in their might and elect tried and true representatives to their convention; let these representatives select men of unimpeachable Republicanism, personal character and fitness for the offices to be filled. Let them go to the polls and exercise their sovereignty, see to it that it is lawfully registered and elect their servants. In a single day the political tailors would be thus placed out of business.

AT a battle fought in Venezuela last week, the rebel army was defeated, with the loss of 900 men.

The Strike.

The entire Executive Board of the Amalgamated Association left on the Pittsburg limited last Friday night for New York to confer with J. Pierpont Morgan.

The "conference" took place next day but it was said to have been more of a lecture on the part of Morgan, who did all the talking, would listen to no propositions, and left the room in a rage.

On Monday President Shaffer of the A. A. sent a ten days notice of the proposed general "strike" to the steel companies, but peace was not yet considered an impossibility.

On Tuesday President Shaffer issued his call, stating the case, and saying

"Unless the trouble is settled on or before Saturday, Aug. 10, 1901, the mills will close when the last turn is made on that day.

Harmony and Zelienople.

The famous "Bloomers" played a game of ball with the Zelienople Reds at Zelienople on Monday afternoon. A large crowd witnessed the game, which was a novel one.

Mrs. E. H. Higley and two daughters of Harmony are visiting relatives at Corry.

Rev. S. H. Greenlee and family of Zelienople left on Monday for one month's vacation among relatives in Washington county.

Zelienople will have a large brick yard before long. A stock company is being organized.

The new machinery for the enlarging of the mill was received by the Harmony Milling Co. last week.

The No. 7 west bound passenger train ran into a freight train on the same track at Maple Grove Park, last Thursday. The freight train was waiting on the B. R. & P. local freight from Butler at Harmony Junction, and the passenger crew claim that the flagman was only 50 yards from his train which stood near a curve and was hid by the hill. The locomotive of the passenger and the caboose of the freight were wrecked. The engineer and fireman of the passenger train jumped. The fireman was badly bruised in jumping. All the lamps in the smoking car were broken and all passengers standing in the aisle were thrown on the floor. No passengers were hurt. A. J. Douthett of Evans City, Dr. A. V. Cunningham of Zelienople, and John H. Wilson and H. W. Bame of Harmony were on the train with others, and received no injury.

Miss Pearl Donnely of Pittsburg is visiting her uncle G. D. Swain and family at Harmony.

Henry Davidsheuser of Dayton, O. visited relatives at Evans City and Harmony last week.

Dr. E. J. Fithian of Groye City was a caller in Zelienople and Harmony last Friday.

Rev. Albert Goettman of Middle Lancaster will preach in the Harmony M. E. church next Sunday at 10:20 a. m. Everybody is invited.

Anthony Shaffer of Sandy Lake is the guest of his mother at Harmony this week

The roof will be put on the building, this week, for the new Harmony mill being built by the Harmony Cereal Co. The building is nicely proportioned and will show up well.

Miss Jennie Dowler of Columbus, O. and Miss Elizabeth Lennon of Brooklyn, N. Y. were guests of W. G. Stoughton and family at Harmony.

Edward Latshaw and family and Capt. D. Dow and son all of Marietta, O. are the gnests of Alfred Latshaw and family of Harmony.

Miss Mae Stamm and sister Grace of Marietta, O. were the guests of H. W. Bame and family on Sunday.

Charley Elliott and family of Butler visited J. J. Fiedler and wife and F. D. Van Vechen and family over Sunday.

Fairview Facts.

Miss Ora Pisor of Jacksville and Miss Emma Hawn of Pittsburg are visiting W. C. Hawn's.

E. W. Byres is home on a visit.

There will be Harvest Home services in the Reformed church on next Sunday at 3 p.m. conducted by Rev. C. F. Altshwate.

There will be services in the U. P. church next Sunday at 11:30 and 8 conducted by their new pastor, Rev. J. H. McQuistion

Mrs Mary Jamison and her son, Harry, are here from Butler.

Misses Maude and Grace Fleming are visiting at their grandparents, M. S. Rays.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express through the columns of your paper our deepest expression of thanks and gratitude, to all our kind neighbors for their help and sympathy during the sickness and death of our son, J. Harry McClure, and also to the Modern Woodman of America "who took charge of his remains" duly offered as a token of respect.

Obituary.

MAJ. GEN. JAS. S. NEGLEY.

Gen. Negley died yesterday at his residence at Plainfield N. J., aged 75 years.

His health had not been good for some months but no immediate danger was apprehended by his family and friends until he was compelled to take to his bed last Saturday. His death was due to a complication of diseases. Gen. Negley was an honorary member of the military order of Foreign Wars, chairman of the Society of Sienna Naviglio, president of the National Union Veteran League, vice president of the Mexican Trust company, and was also prominent in Masonic circles.

MYRTLE HESSELGESSER.

Myrtle, eldest daughter of Earl Hesselgesser was born April 2, 1880 and died July 9, 1901.

The disease which took hold of her was some time in doing its fatal work For eighteen weeks she was confined to the house and almost the same length of time to her bed. During her sickness even to the very last she exercised the greatest patience. Until a short time before her death she thought or hoped that she might get around again. But when she found that her getting well again was impossible she bravely surrendered. She being just a little more than twenty-one years of age it was natural that she should say. "I would like to live longer but she also added "if it is the Lord's will for me die I am willing to go."

Myrtle was an upright Christian young lady being held in high esteem by the community in which she lived She was a member of the First Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church having joined when twelve years of age. She will be missed not only by her father, mother, brother and sister who mourn their loss; but also a large circle of friends. E. P. H.

Obituary.

MAJ. GEN. JAS. S. NEGLEY.

Gen. Negley died yesterday at his residence at Plainfield N. J., aged 75 years.

His health had not been good for some months but no immediate danger was apprehended by his family and friends until he was compelled to take to his bed last Saturday. His death was due to a complication of diseases. Gen. Negley was an honorary member of the military order of Foreign Wars, chairman of the Society of Sienna Naviglio, president of the National Union Veteran League, vice president of the Mexican Trust company, and was also prominent in Masonic circles.

MYRTLE HESSELGESSER.

Myrtle, eldest daughter of Earl Hesselgesser was born April 2, 1880 and died July 9, 1901.

The disease which took hold of her was some time in doing its fatal work For eighteen weeks she was confined to the house and almost the same length of time to her bed. During her sickness even to the very last she exercised the greatest patience. Until a short time before her death she thought or hoped that she might get around again. But when she found that her getting well again was impossible she bravely surrendered. She being just a little more than twenty-one years of age it was natural that she should say. "I would like to live longer but she also added "if it is the Lord's will for me die I am willing to go."

Myrtle was an upright Christian young lady being held in high esteem by the community in which she lived She was a member of the First Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church having joined when twelve years of age. She will be missed not only by her father, mother, brother and sister who mourn their loss; but also a large circle of friends. E. P. H.
