REPUBLICAN TICKET.

- FOR SUPREME JUDGE: W. P. POTTER. FOR STATE TREASURER: FRANK G. HARRIS.

POLITICAL.

After a red-fire parade that filled Fifth avenue with men, music and smoke, the first Republican mass meeting of the year was held in Old City Hall, Pittsburgh, last Saturday evening.

The hall was crowded, every foot of standing room being occupied. Robert F. Wagner, who presided, was followed by Clarence Burleigh, Recorder A. M. Brown and Governor William A. Stone.

Burleigh, who made the first speech, was later by City Attorney; he is a friend of Flinn, and his official head was later taken off by Recorder Brown; whose official head is to come off, according to the political gossip of the day, shortly after the next election, while Stone, who is considered too "stubborn" by the general run of the machine people to be allowed to retire to political "innocuous demerits" after his present term of Governor.

Major Brown spoke on general party lines, praising the Nation, the party and the ticket, and when he had finished, three cheers were given for him and "the new administration."

Stone began his speech by announcing his opposition to the two proposed amendments to the State Constitution, now under consideration; then criticized the Democratic State convention and platform for this year; defended his administration and the "L" legislation, but refused to say anything about the "cripple bill," said he had no knowledge of the alleged corruption in the late legislature and that there was no evidence to sustain the charges; enumerated a number of bills passed that he considered good ones, and spoke as follows regarding the new capitol:

"We appropriated four millions of dollars to build a new capitol building. Who is there in this state who does not wish to see at Harrisburg a capitol building that will be a credit to the state? Now let me tell you something. The four men who have been appointed commissioners to complete the capitol building are honest and capable men. That capitol will be completed within the time named in the law, and for the money named in the law. Not a dollar more will be expended and not a day's more time will be asked. The yellow journals could not assail the personal character of the commissioners. They were greatly disappointed. They had cartooned the capitol building as a plum tree and said it was saving it for the gang and would shake it for their benefit, and when they found that I had done just what I always intended to do, and had appointed an honest commission, they were disappointed."

And concluded by denouncing the Democratic platform as being not only false but also anarchistic, and gave the "yellow journals" whatever they are, another whip.

Speeches and Causes Wonderful Activity.

Three months ago the South Penn Oil Co. branch of the Standard, drilled an oil well on the John S. Campbell farm north of Troutman in Concord township on the fourth of the Speechley tract at a depth of about 3500 feet, and got a well which started off at about 10 barrels a day. It is still doing about 5 barrels.

This well created a sensation and was a puzzle to the owners and other operators in the area. The Speechley and oil therefore discovered was 20 miles north in Venango county, and the nearest place where gas had been found was eight miles northeast in Parker township, two miles south of Butler a well had been drilled to the Speechley seven miles from the well. One knew in what direction the belt extended from the new well.

L. D. Brown and the drilling firm of Vance, Francis & Kennedy furnished an indicator by starting a well on a lease secured by Brown from the Campbell at the south end of the Murland school house, probably 50 yards north of the first well. The well was located at the extreme southeastern corner of their lease. It came in a producer of about the same size as the J. S. Campbell well. The South Penn at once started drilling on the J. S. Campbell tract, and the well not more than 50 feet from the Brown well, and got a little better producer.

By this time things were in a furor of excitement all over Concord township, and especially in Campbell Hollow. Although none of the wells were yet producing, it was thought that the well on the Brown well, and got a little better producer.

At the present writing Campbell Hollow is actively working on the Brown well, and got a little better producer. It is said that the Brown well has prepared to drill 80 wells at once. Here is a list of what they are working on now, beginning at the southern end of the field, and going north:

Another well struck, Saturday, was T. W. Phillips No. 1 on the Plum Hill farm, about 1 1/2 miles from the Brown well, and got a little better producer. It is reported good for 10 barrels.

The Southern Oil Co. has 4 wells drilling in the field at the southern end of the field, and got a little better producer. It is reported good for 10 barrels.

Boarding and lodging commands $5 a week. The oil of the field is secured for all and drillers and dressers work long distances to and from work. An excellent water supply is the great activity when the small size of the wells is considered, but every hole drilled has made a well worth the trouble, which makes drilling a comparatively sure investment, the sand is reported a great value to pay for the same, which is the best in the world, and it is thought will be in time market at 100 cents.
