HOPE.

And can a thing created life and its creator die? It would die and worthy thought may not be lost. Should man pass down this finite life and ruin mark his way? He builds for earth but will expect his treasures to decay.

COPPER AND GOLD

I was practicing medicine at the time in Rotherham, a large, struggling town six miles south of Sheffield, in Yorkshire, England, in the heart of the South Yorkshire coal district.

The Judas tree is a native of the southern countries of Europe, and is a handsome low bush with a flat, spreading top. In the spring it is profusely covered with small, pink blossoms, which burst out before the leaves begin to unfold.

BRAVE MR. BOWSER.

GETTING A TOOTH PULLED WAS NOTHING FOR HIM.

And after the operation he seemed Greatly Surprised to Find Mrs. Bowser and the Cat in the Dentist's Office.

Mr. Bowser had toothache. He had suspected it for two or three days, but now, after eating dinner and sitting down to his newspaper, he was dead sure of it.

When she went to London, Willington followed Elsie, and there, amid the follies and excitements of the great city, he succeeded in his designs.

Plenty of people there are living yet who remember the success of the young actress on the Princess' boards and who remember with sorrow her sudden departure and death.

It was a poor little home 1 was called to in Church street, where Elsie's parents lived, but very different from the dirty, carelessly kept cottages and small houses in the vicinity.

What became of Willington? I have never heard of him since. Somewhere, I believe, he holds a homely position on earth, for he was rich, and wealth on earth covers innumerable sins; but surely when his time comes to go to that hour from which no traveler ever returns, he will be met by the recording angel with a page not yet blotting out, on which he will be shown—

The independence of the people of this country is strongly demonstrated by a woman who wears a straw hat and a woman's love for her husband causes her forever to suspect him.

Not the Way He Wanted It. "You promised me a kiss. May I take it?" "Surely," she replied. "A first class baseball player like you would derive no satisfaction from simply taking a kiss. Stand off across the room and I'll throw you one."

The Hard Worked Peanut. It is the fashion to speak lightly of the peanut, but this hard worked nut is eaten both raw and roasted, and from it is made butter, paste, oil and cattle feed, while it is capable of producing beer, adulterating chocolate and aiding in dynamiting.

HE WANTED WORK. "Yes, we've all read the story about the man who picked up a pin on the street and it was attracting the attention of a rich man," said the chap with the red necktie, "but things don't work that way in real life. Take my case, for instance. I wanted to get solid with a railroad superintendent and strike a conductorship. I knew at what hour to look for him at his office, and it was attracting the attention of my fingers. As he approached I let the button fall, and as he came nearer I picked it up."

One takes a morphia tablet, And then the tumbler to draw, To help a blue pill down, And then a glass of water, And one a lemon squab; Another gives his morphia a bath And then his teeth a wash.

You may talk of golden beads, You may boast of silver nuggets; You may dote on your diamonds, And rave of other gems; But there's not a drinking vessel Of a palace sleeping car, That's in it with the tumbler Of a palace sleeping car.

Get into the chair! commanded the dentist, with a murderous look in his eyes.

FARM FIELD AND GARDEN

EARLY SWEET CORN.

Peep of Day Leads the Procession, but Has Some Weak Points. The subject of the illustration, Peep of Day, gives American Gardening an opportunity of speaking as follows of what is so far found to be the earliest of all sweet corn.

It was in a field thirty ears were gathered July 22 and eighteen on July 23. The first picking from Peep of Day was planted July 2, on July 25, thus giving an advantage to Peep of Day of eighteen days.

The extremely early variety of Mills was not ready for gathering until Aug. 11. At the same time Peep of Day was cleared away and a new crop of spars several inches in height was already upon the same ground, thus making it possible to get two crops of corn from the same plot if necessary.

The chief value of Peep of Day lies in its extreme precocity. The cobs are not particularly large. The plant is not a heavy bearer, two and three cobs being the limit. The growth is weak and dwarf, being from 30 to 40 inches, but the grain itself is delightfully sweet.

The Mills variety, which was tested alongside of it, but which has failed to come up to time, is turning out to be an admirable kind; cobs are of immense size, grain is well ranked and the flavor all that can be desired.

IN ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

The Newly Planted Trees—Latest Sweet Corn—Apparatus Plants. Here are some breezy hints from The Farm Journal:

Get the borers punched out during this month. Make a thorough job of it.

Now look out for the yellow in the peach orchard. A sure sign is premature fruit. Is there a limb containing highly colored fruit ripening away from the others? Then that tree has the yellow and ought to be grubbed out.

Plan to be vigilant now in looking for San Jose scale. If the tree is infested, the insects will appear on the fruit. Look for circular, purplish blotches—then you have it.

Use only male asparagus plants—those producing no seed—for a permanent bed. They make stronger roots, leaves the boxes of plants when they are cut out, and when seedlings are old enough to bear seed they can also be destroyed.

Quick and Easy Potato Picking. Picking is most easily done when the potatoes are just coming up. Use a horse hitched to a narrow sled of 2 by 4 for runners, about eight feet long, with slats nailed on runners. Stand off across the room and I'll throw you one.

Even meritorious proficiency in some lines may be regretted at times.—Chicago Record-Herald.
