"My wife Prescription."

"My wife was sick for over eight years," writes Albert H. Pulte, Esq., of Altamont, Grundy Co., Tenn. "She had uterine disease and was treated by two physicans and got no relief. At last I rend about Dr. Pierce's medicines and we decided to ry his "Favorite Prescription." I sent to the drug store and got one bottle and the first dose gave ease and sleep. She had not slept any for three nights. Being sure that it would cure had taken the sixth bottle she was sound and well."

During the early part of General Phil Sheridan's operations in 1864 against the Confederate forces under General

Jubal Early in the Shenandoah valley Major General Forrester Williams fell into disgrace with the Federal com-mander owing to some descriptions of battles which he reported. After one Sheridan, who remarked: "So you have been making fun of me in your blanked new paper!"

"Fun, general?"
"Yes. You told all about those confounded ambulances and paid no sort of respect to the commander of the army in which you are suffered to live."

"There was no exaggeration in my The diseased condition must be cured before the consethe consegot to stop. You are ordered to leave my department within twenty-four

"Well, general, you have just been made commander of the United States military department. Even if I go back to New York I shall still be within the lines of your command."
"Oh, go to the old boy if you like. I don't care where you go!" cried Sheridan in anger.

To which the reporter replied, "All right, general, but I am afraid I shall not be out of your department even with his Satanic majesty."

Horses and mules are, or at one time were, made to play a curious part in the fishing operations of South American Indians who eat the gymnotus or electric eel. Humboldt was told that it was their custom to force horses to enter the ponds in which these eels lived, and when the fish had exhausted on the animals their ability for the time being to inflict a shock the fishermen caught them with nets and harpoons, secur-from risk themselves. The more excite-and angry the electric eel, the more violent is the shock it inflicts.

Humboldt saw this curious fishing of one occasion: "A troop of horses and mules was driven into the water and prevented from coming out by the In-dians, who crowded round the pool. The eels, stunned and confused by the noise of the horses, defended them-selves by the repeated discharge of their batteries. For a long time they seemed likely to gain the victory over the animals, which were to be seen in every direction, stunned by the frequency and force of the electric shocks, to disappear under the water. Some of the horses rose again and in spite of the vigilance of the Indians gained the shore, exhausted with fatigue, and their limbs being benumbed by the electri commotions they stretched themselves at full length upon the ground. In less than five minutes two horses were al-ready drowned."

Some people wear their eyeglasse or spectacles to bed, for the simple reason that they cannot sleep without them on; at least that's what an optician says, and he ought to know for confessions were recently made to him upon the point. A woman had of her spectacles so badly twisted that he asked her how under the sun she ever managed to get them in such a state. He says that he had visions of some childish hands having a part in the work, some little one that liked to play with mamma's glasses. But the woman said that she had been wearing glasses so much of re-cent years that finally she had taken to wearing them to bed as the only way of getting to sleep. She said that it was only within the past few weeks that she had had any trouble from the custom, as she ordinarily managed to keep the front part of her face off the pillow; but lately she must have had bad sleep, with more or less nighthave been addicted to this habit of wearing glasses to bed, both for the same reasons. Imagine some people trying to wear glasses to bed and the litions of things in the morning.

Among the Tchulian Tartars a cu rious mode of "popping the question" is reported. The Tchulian Cœlebs in search of a wife, having filled a brand new pipe with fragrant tobacco stealthily enters the dwelling of the one upon whom he has bestowe his affections, deposits the pipe upon hiding place in the neighborhood, local stiquette requiring that he should execute this strategic movement apof his choice or any member of her Presently he returns without further affectation of secrecy and looks int way. A single glance at the pipe he left behind him enables, him to learn the fate of his proposal.

If it has been smoked, he goes forth an accepted and exultant bridegroom; if not, the offer of his hand and heart has been so irrevocably rejected as Yews clipped in the old world formal fashio of two centuries ago stand by the walks and fountains, two cut in the form of a table and armchair and two in the form of peacocks. By one of the fountains stands a quaint sundial. The shadow of a tall tree falls upon a huge clock face, indicated on the gran by figures grown in golden yew. A heart shaped bed marks each corner and beyond the figures there is this motto in golden yew: "Light and shade
