reflection of popular opinion. Such a verdict rendered in his own nty seems particularly severe on the will no doubt be dwelt upon by his political enemies. But it is not correct to regard its adverse impuration as applying peculiarly to him. It applies to him as the representative of a politi-cal system that has disgusted the public open and flagrant deals and its cynical udiation of reform pledges. It is all the more crushing in that light because it is inconsistent with the evidence and the rules of law in the case.—Ex.

Startling Evidence.

The testimony which was somehow got into the Harris-Meek trial from rand Busch, legislative reporter a ast session of the Pennsylvan Legislature, cannot pass without its due comment. The following statement on the witness stand is quoted:

Many times marked roll-calls were handed to me before the roll-call was made, and often I recorded the names of members as voting whom I knew at the time were not present. I knew it was not right, but I couldn't help it. I had to do as I was told or get out.

Assertions to this effects were made ring the session, and commented as amazing if true. Now we have evidence of the official reporter t it was done not once or twice, "many times." There could hardly be a more indisputable proof of the subversion of popular government by unscrupulous and reckless politicians.

Laws are supposed to be passed by the vote of the representatives of the ple. The entire frame-work of poplar government rests on the integrity and honesty of the records of the votes ent of the fact that the people of Pennsylvania are ruled by laws that were not passed by the representatives of the people at all. They were enacted by bogus roll-calls, sometimes made ften" by padding the vote with the names of members who were not present and did not vote-all at the dictation of unscrupulous manipulators who care nothing for republican govern-

All the pressure hitherto put upon Senator Quay to use his affacence to prevent the nomination of Attorney-General Elkin will bereafter be exerted upon Senator Penrose. All those Stalwarts who doubt the wisdom of the Attorney-General Elkin will bereafter be exerted upon Senator Penrose. All those Stalwarts who doubt the wisdom of the Attorney-General's selection have come to the conclusion that it is practically a waste of time for them to address themselves to Quay. He has no direct personal interest in the outcome of the campaign, Penrose has. Congressmen who think the nomination of Elkin will decrease their chances of election find that what they have to say upon the unwisdom of Elkin's nomination makes more of an impression upon Penrose than upon Quay. They have learned that Penrose is not enamored with the idea of having the leaders committed to Elkin before the counties hold their primaries. The Senator is not in position, of course, to say that Elkin, or any other man, shall, or shall not, be the nominee, but for all that they feel that he can do a good deal to prevent the spread of the idea that Elkin has the endorsement of all the leaders.

The Landparter Case.

EDITOR CITIZEN:—In speaking of the Biddles case reference has been made in the papers to the now almost forgotten Landparter homicide case, happening in this county in the year 1853, and as some of these references are incorrect and some of your readers desire to know something of the particulars of that case, we submit the following brief account of the same.

The cases against Landparter and wife can be found at Nos. 1. 2, 3 and 4 of the criminal records of the county at

SPRING SHOES

We have just received a large shipment of Mea's, Women's and Children's Fine Shoes for spring. They are bright, snappy Goods that you'll not see elsewhere for thirty days, yet we always lead, and if there is anything new and stylish in the line of footwear you are sure to find it here first.

on account of the large orders placed for spring and summer fine shoes, and the early dates at which they are to be shipped. We are compelled to get rid of every pair of winter shoes to make room for spring goods. We have had an immense trade and the last three or four weeks has seen more shoes go out of this store than any previous year for same length of time since we started in business, but our stock seems inexhaustible, and although many lines are broken or sold out altogether, we still have a great many scarcely touched yet, but we must get rid of them all and get rid of them quick, and in order to do this we
