

Poor Sinner's Bell.
The poor sinner's bell is a bell in the city of Breslau, in the province of Silesia, Prussia, and hangs in the tower of one of the city churches. It was cast July 17, 1386, according to historic records. It is said that a great bell founder of the place had undertaken to make the finest church bell he had ever made.

When the metal was melted, the founder withdrew for a few moments, leaving a boy to watch the furnace and enjoining him not to meddle with the catch that held the molten metal, but the boy disobeyed the caution, and when he saw the metal flowing into the mold he called the founder.
The latter rushed in, and seeing as he thought his work of weeks undone and his masterpiece ruined, he struck the boy with a mallet, and the blow caused his immediate death. When the metal cooled and the mold was opened, the bell was found to be not only perfect, but of marvelous sweetness of tone.
The founder gave himself up to the authorities, was tried and condemned to death. On the day of his execution the bell was rung to call people to attend church and offer a prayer for the unhappy man's soul, and from that time it has been rung to call sinners to repentance.

Kingly Superstitions.
Kingship has been king to superstition and to the superstitions of kings. There are superstitious about dates, and there were remarkable coincidences in his life with certain dates of the calendar. The day of the month on which he was born was strangely interwoven with the days of his birth and marriage of his wife and some of his children and their wives. But James was an odd fellow who made love to young Buckingham, who laughed in his face and robbed him of his jewels.
Napoleon was superstitious about the way he put on his stockings. Frederick the Great and the great Peter of Russia were superstitious about dozens of things. Marlborough, both Jack Churchill and the duke, was superstitious as well as a thief and a traitor. Nearly all the Stuarts were superstitious and double dealers in religion. Henry VIII was a superstitious, but that never kept him from a thousand infidelities. All the children of Catherine of Medicis were scared to death by their superstitious, but they could lie, cheat and murder just as well. If Cromwell was a victim of superstition, he kept it to himself.—New York Press.

Fishing For Ducks.
In India an ingenious scheme is practiced for taking ducks on a line, which is attached at one end to a flexible stick stuck up in the mud, the other extremity having a double pointed needle of bone attached to it. The latter is baited by stringing upon it some grains of corn. Presently along comes Mr. Duck, swallows the needle and finds himself a captive the moment he tries to fly away. In olden times the Cape Cod fishermen depended largely for bait upon the seaweed they took on their voyages. To catch them they threw out leading lines to hook them at the end, to which were attached chunks of cod liver. The latter floated because of the oil they contained, and murrets, gulls and other birds swallowing them were quickly pulled in, skinned and chopped up.

Announcement.
To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for croup, colds, etc., the proprietor prepares Cream Balm in liquid form, which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Prices including the spraying tube in Tinette, Druggists or mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation.

Roast Peacock.
In the old days a peacock was perhaps the most gorgeous and decorative dish on the Christmas banquet. This was prepared by first carefully removing the skin without losing the feathers. The fowl was then dressed, stuffed with all kinds of good things, roasted and finally sewed into its skin, still retaining the brilliant plumage. The beak was glued, and this dish, fit for a king, was placed upon the table amid the blare of trumpets and the rapturous applause of the revellers.

What He Missed.
Mrs. De Style—It's a pity you could not have heard that sermon today.
Mr. De Style—After paying for your Sunday wardrobe I haven't money enough left to buy myself a decent thing to wear.
Mrs. De Style—That's just it, and that sermon would have made you think of your wardrobe. It was on the "Idolatrous Worship of Fine Clothes."
—New York Weekly.

The Jailer Here.
"What brought you here?" asked the temperance advocate who was visiting the prison.
"I'm a wife better," replied the convict gruffly.
"Another case of liek'er," murmured the jailer, who, despite his occupation, was a man of no little humor.—Philadelphia Record.

What the Baby Needed.
"Papa," said Tommy, "little brother is a weak old fellow, isn't he?"
"Yes."
"Let's you and me give him a birthday present."
"Very well. What shall it be?"
"Let's buy him a wig. He needs that more than anything."

GAIL & AX
Smoking and Chewing Tobacco
The ORIGINAL and MOST SMOKED long cut tobacco in all the United States, manufactured with the express purpose of blending the two qualities, that of a good smoke and a good chew. It is made of ripe, sweetened "Burley," the only tobacco from which a perfect combination of smoking and chewing tobacco can be made.
Gail & Ax Navy is known by the distinctive character of its blue wrapper (which has many imitators), it being to-day identically the same as forty years ago, and it now stands for the quality that it did then. You get the very best, and take no chances, when you buy Gail & Ax Navy.
