work rests, and if yon have it your chances for winning will be ten fold bet-ter than they will be if you have it not. Teachers, put fourth your best tact and talent in these closing days of this term. Much remains yet to be done. You may not accomplish it all, but you can do your best, and anything short of this is not enough. Your calling is a noble one and if you do your work well future manhood and womanhood will be blessed thereby. Local Institute work and educational meetings were also a success. Some of these were so largely attended that the buildings in which they were held would not hold all who came. I atterd-ed twenty some of these meetings and am glad to say that I never have seen more, real interest shown in this work than what was done this year. Parents encourage your children to use those school libraries—about two hundred of which have been put into our schools in the past three years. Good books are good, safe companions for children and it is well for the teach-ers and parents to tell the boys and girls so. At the meeting of the conferees of the Beaver, Lawrence, and Washington county Congressional District at the Hotel Henry in Pittsburg, last Friday, Congressman Acheson's popular vote plan of nominating a Congressman for listrict was adopted, as follows:

the district was adopted, as follows: Resolved, That nominations of can-didates for Congress by the Republican party of the twenty-fourth Congression-al district of Pennsylvania, so long as such district shall remain as now con-stituted, shall be made by the popular vote. All candidates shall have the district in accordance with the Republi-can rules in force therein. The vote east in such county for each candidate shall be computed by the secretaries of the county convention thereof and shall be certified to by the chairman and secretaries of such convention.
