ALICIA'S COWBOY
 By E. S. WINTHROP

Copyright, 1901, by E. S. Winthrop

It needed no lurid posters spread with bucking bronchos and rough riders of the world to announce that Buffalo Bill was coming to town. The small boy betrayed an almost pathetic eagerness to render some service to the heads of the household. The family clothing disappeared under the barn to emerge later as a larvat and to violently choke the youngest hopeful employed as a target in default of real wild horses and the family band.

The older folk were not above being interested in the matter. Paternally told how in his younger days he had known a cowboy named Harry, who had ridden a palomino named the Mustang and the tiny white form of her brother were all she saw.

The colonel had made his little speech. He then turned to the congress of rough riders of the world with a sweep of his hat, all inclusive. The riders had advanced to the barrier, and returned with a gleaming mustache and the tiny white form of her brother were all she saw.

At first the cowboys were within the circle. Gradually, however, the circle thinned out, and on the last circuit they would have to pass the boy.

Harry's rescuer reined up as the boy was reached and, during a moment, he leaned forward to restore the boy.

Alicia started forward to receive him, fully occupied with her little horse. Not until she had seen the motion again did she look into his face. Then she sank down, crying and laughing all at once. Mild hysterics, woman's universal panacea, had come to her relief.

After the siege of Pekin had been raised and the emblem of Christianity had replaced the banners of paganism, Edward Thurston and his wife, Peyton were interviewing a young man who now wore the khaki uniform of a private soldier. His face was flushed with excitement.

Peyton perceived that the soldier had better come up to dinner. Peyton moved to the kitchen and the soldier went quietly instead. The younger Peytons regarded him with awe, much as one looks upon a neighbor who is a general and a hero of the great war. All this was of interest, but there was a look in Alicia Peyton's eyes that made him wish the rest of the family to get away and leave him alone with her.

But when this wish was granted a few hours later Thurston was suddenly engaged tied and disconcertingly self-conscious.

Alicia raised her eyes, brimming with tenderness, to his. "Since you won't take any more of my bravery," she said, "I suppose I will have to propose to you myself."

"It's not gratitude I want; it's love," he said gently. "You feel no more for me than I do for you, Alicia."

"It is love I offer," she said proudly. "I didn't know it then. You seemed as inert as the rest of our men. How was it to be ridden out of me as it was? It was three years after your health broke down in college if you didn't tell me?"

"No," he said, "you have won a cowboy. That's why I wouldn't argue the point with you the other evening. I'm a soldier now, but I'll show you every time it has come to town since I came back from the west. It's like visiting old friends."

FARMER'S GARDEN
 MANGE IN CATTLE.

Small Dipping Plant for Ordinary Farm Use.

Of the various dipping plants in use there are the small dipping plant, which is inexpensive and suitable for use by a community of farmers, and the larger dipping plant, with swimming tank, which would be needed for large numbers of range cattle are to be treated. A suitable plant for a community of farmers has been built for $350, while a swimming tank will cost $250.

A plant which seems to be an admirable example of the smaller kind was built with the exception of the tank by farmers. A thrashing engine was used for heating purposes by connecting a 1 1/2 inch pipe to the whistle line, and the water was pumped into the tank by the union. The plant has a capacity of 200 head per day. Its cost, without fuel, engine, etc., excepting the labor to build the tank or vat, was $150. One person can easily lower the cage when loaded by taking a hitch around a post, and it may be raised, as shown in the illustration, either with engine or horses.

A plant of this capacity will answer very well in a community where cattle owners have bunches of cattle ranging from 50 to 100 head or less. Its chief advantage over the swimming tank is cheapness in construction being less than $100.

In communities where game exists or even where numbers of small herds are infected with lice a plant of this kind would be constructed and used with profit to the cattlemen. Specifications of material for this plant, as well as further information in regard to dipping plants and scales, may be obtained by writing to the author, Joseph Meehan in Philadelphia, Pa., or to the author, Dr. R. W. Hickman.

Handy on the Corn Wagon.

The illustration and description of a scoop board for unloading corn and other things has been presented by a correspondent in Ohio Farmer as follows: "When a farmer has a corn wagon of the device is elevated several inches so that the ears of corn will not roll down under foot. It can be taken along to the field for the purpose of throwing in sorted corn or can be left at the crib. It can be taken off by merely lifting up the hind end so as to let the block on the end of the side bar rest on the ground and the wheel will slide out as easily as an end gate. There are no chains to loosen or books to unhook. It needs no blocks or rollers. When a farmer can make one to fit his own wagon. It is very convenient in unloading times; far superior to a board set in the wagon bed to start to scoop on.

Cowpens at the North.

If cowpens are planted this far north as the lecturers on the cowpens have said will be right to turn hogs on the last half of August and will furnish the right food at this time to finish on corn and the ground may be seeded with winter wheat afterward without any preparation. If a disk drill be used, or rye may be seeded for a green winter cover crop and turned under for spring crop, especially potatoes. For beginners I would advise: Get seed that will mature in fifteen days or less. Sow in rows thirty to thirty-six inches apart, and cultivate clean until vines interfere. A few years' trial with cowpens will suggest to you the best time to sow and the best soil to use. Cowpens are very profitable on every farm.—E. F. D. Leeburg, Ind.
