THIS SIDE OF THE GAP

"You've something new on your mind, Bud; I know it."

Rose Copley's clinging fingers held her husband fast.

"I can't see you—take-me-back? I never touched—the tools, Tim said you were going to let me go."

The woman sighed, wiped her eyes and stepped up the path to the small brown cottage.

"I cannot settle down," she mused. "I'm not old, Bud; I'm young."

"I'm not old, Bud; I'm young," she mused. "I'm not old, Bud; I'm young."

WHEN LATHAM INTERFERED

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

"Gress! I'm all in, eh, doctor?" The doctor looked into the white face and the unshining blue eyes and decided to tell the truth.

"It's a bad wound," he said at a glance, but it was not.

Fifteen minutes later, Robert Latham tipped the sick room with that exaggerated caution which a robust foot usually feels in the presence of death or mortal sickness.

"He smiled faintly from the pillows. 'Awfully glad to see you, old fellow. It was good of you to come.'"

Latham choked a little. This modest young fellow with the winsome smile dragged mightily at his heart-strings.

"Yes, it was dashed good of me," he answered gravely. "Do you expect your friends to forget you just as soon as you make an idiot of yourself?"

Wet's face was a study in embarrassed apologies. "Really I couldn't help it this time, Latham."

"Of course it was. It's always up to you to do something," Latham spoke gruffly to cover a melting heart.

Janine Weir laughed a little broadly. "Good old Latham! Everybody knows you. A fierce bark but you're mighty shy on life."

"The doctors think I am," answered the young man quietly. "They don't know what they're talking about."

"So that's what the boy had on his mind these months," Latham said. "I have known some baby-faced pink and white girls at the bottom of his depression; guess I'll have something to say about it."

"All through his past work at the city the doctor and the young man's white face kept coming between Latham and his work."

Afterward, on a sudden impulse, he sat down and wrote a letter to the young woman who had been so kind enough to appreciate Jimmie Weir.

Callan Victor Hugo. During the latter years of his long life Victor Hugo was very fond of surveying mankind from the vantage ground of the top of an omnibus.

It is difficult to realize that the term "budget" now so often in every one's mouth, is a word of French origin.

Seeds and Skins of Small Fruits. There are many people who cannot eat small fruits on account of the seeds and skins, because they prove so irritating to the stomach.

The diamond is still one of the mysteries of geology. When the South African diamond was discovered there was much astonishment to find the gem in a series of minerals quite different from those in which it had been hitherto found.

How is he? She demanded from Latham before the newspaper man had announced himself.

"Better; he has a chance," answered Latham. "This way for the cab, please."

Latham could not tell on the journey to the hospital whether she cared for Weir or not.

SKINNING AN ANIMAL.

Green Salting, Curing and Shipping Hides—Properly Done, It Pays.

Just as there is a wrong way, there is a correct way in which hides should be skinned off dead cattle and horses.

Arab Dancing Girls. An English traveler thus describes the Arab dancing girls he saw at Biskra, in the Sahara.

How to Cut a Hide. Green salted hides. After salting, the hides should be left spread out until the salt has drawn out the juices or until it is cured thoroughly.

Shoe Is So Sensitive. "I wish some persons weren't so all right sensitive and ready to see an ill suit when none is intended."

FOR SAN JOSE SCALE. Eastern Horticulturists Are Now Pushing the California Wash.

There are many formulas for preparing this wash. They vary as a rule in the proportions of lime.

Slake the lime in a small quantity of hot water to form a milk of lime; then add the sulphur and salt and stir in to form a thin paste.

Lost Money Market. London is waking up in rather amusing astonishment to the fact that it has ceased for the time to be the "money market" of the world.

Throwing the Dart. Throwing the dart is a picturesque custom which is observed in Cork, Ireland.

A Weeping Tree. A species of tree found in Oregon, Washington, Montana and British Columbia continually drips pure and clear water from the ends of its leaves and branches.

The Name Moses. It is a curious fact, unknown perhaps to a majority of readers, that Moses of Scriptural fame was called by eight different names in various places in the Bible.

How the Centralized School Works in One Rural District. The Western Reserve of Ohio has made a radical innovation in the way of running its schools.

About Beans. Bush beans may be planted in the open ground in May and limas in pots or in a cold frame or open bed.

The New School Idea. The Western Reserve of Ohio has made a radical innovation in the way of running its schools.

Coriaria Shakes and Others. "When you have money," says the Manager of the "New York Times," "there are men who will shake you effusively by the hand, and when it's gone they will shake you together."

In a Nutsell. "Success" is spelled with seven letters, but the seven only are found in "fame" and one in "money," but three are found in "happiness."

All Shell and No Kernel. Charley—My friends tell me that I have all the eccentricities of genius.

Under the new plan the centralized school became part of the high school, and its grade was raised so that its graduates would be accepted into the freshman year of any of the neighboring colleges.

Under this system and without changing the schedule of the schoolhouse, the school was closed March 18, 1903, that in the six years a debt of $800 inherited from the old board had been paid, and there is a balance to the credit of the centralized school fund of $2,000.
