Mrs. Jack Gardner, the eccentric rich coman of Boston, who has done so nuch to add to the spice of life in that old metropolis, has just been brought much to add to the spice of life in that cold metropolis, has just been brought to book by the government and compelled to pay $200,000 tariff on works of art imported some years ago free of duty on the ground that they were to be placed in a museum. This museum is one of the greatest curiosities of architecture the world affords. ings all over taly and united so as to make a harmonious structure. It is supposed to represent the acme of taste, and Mrs. Gardner was so earnest in the matter that she did some of the work with her own hands, even to mixing mortar and laying courses of stone. It is filled with rare art treasures and is known as "The Fenways."

All Boston, from the higher intellectual circles of Beacon Hill to the humbler, but equally erudite and aesthetically inclined people of the slums, rejoiced that there was to be opened to their eyes such a wonderful store of the world's best art. For, in truth, the collection in question is marvelous in its excellence. The museum feature, however, turned out to be a hoax. Certain rooms are open to the public on a few days in the year for a few hours; only 200 tickets are issued for each day and cost a dollar apiece. So far as the public at large is concerned the museum feature was a farce and in consequence Mrs. Gardner had to step up to the custom house and settle for the duties she had not paid.

Davis for next week commencing Monday, January 25th.

The great play tells of the meeting of Marc Antony, in command of the Roman legions, and Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt, who comes to sue for her country's pardon. Cleopatra, in the great scene, wins Antony, and makes him declare his love for her. In the midst of the great celebration in honor of this event, Antony is called back to Rome. The third act, where Cleopatra watches upon the starlit terrace for his messenger is exceedingly intense. When the messenger does arrive with the story of Antony's broken faith, the queen strikes in in dead with a blow. Through six massive acts the great story is laid.

A Newspaper Worth Reading.

The Pittsburg Times is a conserva-tive, careful newspaper for particular people. Its statements of fact and com-ments on them are concise and correct. Its departments are in charge of experts, and its authority in all matters pertain-ng to the events of the world at large and its authority in all matters pertaining to the events of the world at large and of the community it represents more particularly is recognized. It has no Sunday edition, and its position in that regard in Pittsburg is as unique as its thorough reliability in every way. Staunchly Republican in political policy it yet gives all the news of all parties. Its moral tone is high, and churchmen of every creed find in its columns more uews of their interests and work than in all its contemporaries combined. Sports are given the prominence they deserve and no more. The news concerning them is bright, timely and adequate, for the work is done by a master. It offends neither the eye nor the sensibilities. Those things that are of importance are treated accordingly. Those that are unimportant are bandled in keeping with their value. Each issue of The Times is a day's history of events the wide world round. Its price is one cent daily or $3 a year.
