

THE BUTLER CITIZEN.

WILLIAM C. NEBLEY, Publisher.

THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1904.

$1.00 per year in Advance, Otherwise $1.50.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

President—Theodore Roosevelt, Supreme Judge—John P. Elkin, Congress—Hon. Geo. F. Huff, State Senator—Hon. A. C. Williams, Legislature—Hon. Thomas Hays, Dr. W. R. Hockenberry, District Attorney—Samuel Walker, Clerk of Courts—L. E. Christley.

DEATH OF SENATOR QUAY.

At his residence in Beaver, last Saturday afternoon, M. S. Quay, United States Senator from this State, breathed his last. He was buried in the cemetery there, Tuesday afternoon. He had been in poor health for some months, because weaker while visiting his brother at Morgantown, was taken to Beaver the previous Sunday, became unconscious Friday night, and remained so to the last. He was buried in the cemetery there, Tuesday afternoon. He had been in poor health for some months, because weaker while visiting his brother at Morgantown, was taken to Beaver the previous Sunday, became unconscious Friday night, and remained so to the last. He was buried in the cemetery there, Tuesday afternoon.

When the Civil War broke out he joined the 29th P. V. as a Lieutenant and with it went to Harrisburg, but Gov. Curtin appointed him Assistant Commissary, and afterwards made him his private secretary. After the second Bull Run battle, he took an active part in recruiting the 134th, and was made its Colonel by Gov. Curtin. The regiment was hurried forward to Antietam where it lay for some months, during which time Col. Quay went down with typhoid fever, which left him so weak that he was unable to take part in the battle of Fredericksburg coming on, he went into it as an aid of Gen. Taylor, and did good work during the day.

Then Gov. Curtin appointed him military state agent at Washington, and in 1860 appointed him his military secretary. In 1860 he was elected to the Legislature from Beaver county and was a member when the last great fight between Curtin and Cameron took place in 1867.

In this fight he deserted his old friend Curtin and went over to the Cameron camp, and was accused of the part of receiving twenty thousand dollars for his treachery.

"Even Quay's friends never attempted to explain the sudden change in Quay's material condition, but took place at about this time. When he went to the Legislature he was a poor man. Soon after the opening of the session he made the erection of what was then the most pretentious business building in Beaver. He himself estimated later that it cost him $100,000, but he did not know where he got the money.

Whatever may be the cause of the compelling course that can be no question that Quay's treatment of Curtin was treacherous. He had the look placed to thank for, almost without exception, every public honor that had been his up to that time. He had received the Congressional Medal of Honor, and he had been elected to the Senate in 1867.

The defeat of Curtin made Simon Cameron the master of the Republican party of the State, and Quay stuck close to him and to his lieutenant Robert Mackay in Philadelphia.

From this time on Quay was almost continually in office, he was Secretary of the Commonwealth under both Hartranft and Hoyt, and the "fat" office of Recorder of Philadelphia county, the fees of which amounted to about $50,000 a year was treated for him, but soon discontinued.

His name was connected with several scandals, the worst of which was the shortage in the State Treasury under Hoyt, with J. Blake Walters, a cronny of Quay's as cashier. The shortage amounted to $200,000, and was made good by Don Cameron and other friends of Quay, and in 1886 he was "vindicated" by being elected State Treasurer himself.

In the National Convention of 1888 he opposed Harrison's nomination, but in the following year he was elected to the Committee, and by his remarkable work in New York city, gave that State to the Republicans and saved Harrison's election. Aided by contributions from all over the country he had a complete pole of the city made, by blocks of election precincts, and on election day had detectives at every polling place.

"President Harrison himself was perhaps the only man who failed to give Quay credit for the part he played during the campaign. Harrison was like Quay in this—he was cold, and unfeeling. He happened to be in the mood he was not always inclined to give credit where credit was due.

The first hitch came when Quay asked the appointment of John Wanamaker to the cabinet. Wanamaker was then a warm and faithful friend of Quay's, and he had been his Postmaster General, but under protest.

The second hitch between the two men came when Quay went to the President in behalf of his son. Andrew G. Curtin Quay, then an officer in the United States Army. The young man had been a graduate of West Point, but his father asked that he be advanced a considerable number of points in the list. Harrison refused in the manner that you may have heard of.

"Why General," said Quay, "I made you President." Harrison looked at him coldly and said: "Quay, God made me President." Quay left the room in a rage. He once, had lost his wits and in the hallway he literally bumped into Robert G. Ingersoll. Ingersoll, who was some thing was wrong and he asked what it was.

"Why," said Quay, "Harrison has been telling me that God made him President." "Well," replied Ingersoll, "with a dry smile, 'I've heard the Almighty accused of some mean things, but that's the best I can do.'"

Not long after this incident Quay had occasion to go to the White House again. He was followed by the "Big Game" and he was told that Gen. Harrison "couldn't be seen."

"Harrison," said Quay, "I made you President." Harrison looked at him coldly and said: "Quay, God made me President." Quay left the room in a rage. He once, had lost his wits and in the hallway he literally bumped into Robert G. Ingersoll. Ingersoll, who was some thing was wrong and he asked what it was.

"Why," said Quay, "Harrison has been telling me that God made him President." "Well," replied Ingersoll, "with a dry smile, 'I've heard the Almighty accused of some mean things, but that's the best I can do.'"

Not long after this incident Quay had occasion to go to the White House again. He was followed by the "Big Game" and he was told that Gen. Harrison "couldn't be seen."

"Harrison," said Quay, "I made you President." Harrison looked at him coldly and said: "Quay, God made me President." Quay left the room in a rage. He once, had lost his wits and in the hallway he literally bumped into Robert G. Ingersoll. Ingersoll, who was some thing was wrong and he asked what it was.

"Why," said Quay, "Harrison has been telling me that God made him President." "Well," replied Ingersoll, "with a dry smile, 'I've heard the Almighty accused of some mean things, but that's the best I can do.'"

Not long after this incident Quay had occasion to go to the White House again. He was followed by the "Big Game" and he was told that Gen. Harrison "couldn't be seen."

"Harrison," said Quay, "I made you President." Harrison looked at him coldly and said: "Quay, God made me President." Quay left the room in a rage. He once, had lost his wits and in the hallway he literally bumped into Robert G. Ingersoll. Ingersoll, who was some thing was wrong and he asked what it was.

"Why," said Quay, "Harrison has been telling me that God made him President." "Well," replied Ingersoll, "with a dry smile, 'I've heard the Almighty accused of some mean things, but that's the best I can do.'"

CHURCH NOTES.

Rev. Roeder of the First English Lutheran church has gone to Wheeling, West Virginia, to attend the Synod. No services will be held in that church, next Sunday.

Rev. Willis S. McCathern of West Lebanon, N. Y., was the guest of the Rev. A. B. Robinson over Sunday and occupied the pulpit of the United Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

The annual convention of the Butler County Sabbath school will be held at Mars, June 11 and 12.

The 50th annual convention of the Women's Missionary Society of Butler Presbytery, United Presbyterian church, will meet tomorrow and Saturday, June 1 and 2, at Slippery Rock.

At Buffalo, last Friday, the Presbytery General Assembly voted in favor of uniting with the Cumberland church, and the Cumberland church, in turn, will meet tomorrow and Saturday, June 1 and 2, at Slippery Rock.

Evangelistic campaigns have just been concluded in Chatham, Pittsburgh, Columbus and some other Western cities, by the Presbyterian evangelistic committee and their results are very encouraging. They are the most successful of any cities, and is yet a force to be reckoned with. In summarizing the work of the year, the secretary of the committee says that the Church is transcending its previous limitations, and the outlook for its continued usefulness never brighter.

At Greenville, last Thursday, Dr. Witherspoon was elected Moderator. The stated clerk's report showed an increase in membership of 7 per cent with a decrease in some of the Mississippi valley states. The contributions were $1,200,000. The contributions were $1,200,000.

John H. Hykes, a representative of the American Bible society in the Orient, told the delegates, in the course of an address, that five of the Japanese naval officers in the recent Russo-Japanese engagements are elders of the Presbyterian church.

The largest synod in the United Presbyterian denomination is the Pittsburgh synod, which has eight presbyteries, 125 churches, 150 congregations, 75,000 members and 32,000 communicants. Its increase of membership was 1,838; by certificate, 1,470; by profession, 378; renounced, 2,008; and 2,008 communicants. Its increase of membership was 1,838; by certificate, 1,470; by profession, 378; renounced, 2,008; and 2,008 communicants.

Immediately south of the town, and commencing the railroad and the narrow neck of the peninsula, is a mountain two thousand feet high, the sides of which had been both mined and fortified by the Russians, who considered it impregnable, but the Japs attacked it, and though repeatedly driven back during a battle raging for ten days, they finally captured it, and captured six thousand men.

This cost them, according to the dispatches, three thousand five hundred men, but it opened their way to Port Dalgay and Port Arthur. Dalgay is now a very strongly fortified place, and is being garrisoned by the Japs. The next desperate fight of the war will probably be there.

The Japanese are especially anxious to capture it, and capture or destroy the Russian war vessels lying in the harbor before the Russian Baltic and Black Sea fleets can reach the scene, and contest their operations on the sea.

In the meantime Gen. Kuroki and his army are holding the main army of the Russians in check, near Feanwangcheng, 150 miles to the northeast.

On Tuesday the Russians destroyed their way in the harbor of Dalgay, and heavily garrisoned the place. General Kuroki was reported to have captured one of the mountain passes in Manchuria, near Yungwangcheng, which the Russians occupied. The Russian army near Liao-Yang was reported to be suffering from small pox, pneumonia and half-rations.

"Pittsburgh Times." The defeat of Curtin made Simon Cameron the master of the Republican party of the State, and Quay stuck close to him and to his lieutenant Robert Mackay in Philadelphia.

From this time on Quay was almost continually in office, he was Secretary of the Commonwealth under both Hartranft and Hoyt, and the "fat" office of Recorder of Philadelphia county, the fees of which amounted to about $50,000 a year was treated for him, but soon discontinued.

His name was connected with several scandals, the worst of which was the shortage in the State Treasury under Hoyt, with J. Blake Walters, a cronny of Quay's as cashier. The shortage amounted to $200,000, and was made good by Don Cameron and other friends of Quay, and in 1886 he was "vindicated" by being elected State Treasurer himself.

In the National Convention of 1888 he opposed Harrison's nomination, but in the following year he was elected to the Committee, and by his remarkable work in New York city, gave that State to the Republicans and saved Harrison's election. Aided by contributions from all over the country he had a complete pole of the city made, by blocks of election precincts, and on election day had detectives at every polling place.

"President Harrison himself was perhaps the only man who failed to give Quay credit for the part he played during the campaign. Harrison was like Quay in this—he was cold, and unfeeling. He happened to be in the mood he was not always inclined to give credit where credit was due.

The first hitch came when Quay asked the appointment of John Wanamaker to the cabinet. Wanamaker was then a warm and faithful friend of Quay's, and he had been his Postmaster General, but under protest.

The second hitch between the two men came when Quay went to the President in behalf of his son. Andrew G. Curtin Quay, then an officer in the United States Army. The young man had been a graduate of West Point, but his father asked that he be advanced a considerable number of points in the list. Harrison refused in the manner that you may have heard of.

"Why General," said Quay, "I made you President." Harrison looked at him coldly and said: "Quay, God made me President." Quay left the room in a rage. He once, had lost his wits and in the hallway he literally bumped into Robert G. Ingersoll. Ingersoll, who was some thing was wrong and he asked what it was.

"Why," said Quay, "Harrison has been telling me that God made him President." "Well," replied Ingersoll, "with a dry smile, 'I've heard the Almighty accused of some mean things, but that's the best I can do.'"

Not long after this incident Quay had occasion to go to the White House again. He was followed by the "Big Game" and he was told that Gen. Harrison "couldn't be seen."

"Harrison," said Quay, "I made you President." Harrison looked at him coldly and said: "Quay, God made me President." Quay left the room in a rage. He once, had lost his wits and in the hallway he literally bumped into Robert G. Ingersoll. Ingersoll, who was some thing was wrong and he asked what it was.

"Why," said Quay, "Harrison has been telling me that God made him President." "Well," replied Ingersoll, "with a dry smile, 'I've heard the Almighty accused of some mean things, but that's the best I can do.'"

Not long after this incident Quay had occasion to go to the White House again. He was followed by the "Big Game" and he was told that Gen. Harrison "couldn't be seen."

"Harrison," said Quay, "I made you President." Harrison looked at him coldly and said: "Quay, God made me President." Quay left the room in a rage. He once, had lost his wits and in the hallway he literally bumped into Robert G. Ingersoll. Ingersoll, who was some thing was wrong and he asked what it was.

"Why," said Quay, "Harrison has been telling me that God made him President." "Well," replied Ingersoll, "with a dry smile, 'I've heard the Almighty accused of some mean things, but that's the best I can do.'"

Not long after this incident Quay had occasion to go to the White House again. He was followed by the "Big Game" and he was told that Gen. Harrison "couldn't be seen."

DEATHS.

SHAEFFER—At her home in Prosper, May 28, 1904, Mrs. Catherine, widow of Henry Shaefler, aged 86 years.

WILSON—At her home in Beaver Falls, May 15, 1904, Mrs. Howard, widow of Martha Magoo, of near Portersville, aged 59 years.

MOORE—At her home in New Castle, May 31, 1904, Miss Elizabeth, widow of Rev. Samuel Moore, aged 36 years.

PIERCE—At his home in Clay Twp., May 22, 1904, Clarence Ewart Pierce, son of William E. Pierce, aged 23 years, 3 months.

Mr. Pierce's death was caused by consumption of the lungs which he had been a patient sufferer.

Far from afflictions, toil and care, One led to the arrest of Quoy, his son Dick and former State Treasurer Haywood, but Haywood died, and the two Quays were acquitted.

In 1860 his second term in the Senate expired, and the opposition to his reelection declared. The Legislature was called to order on the 15th of January, and as soon as the Legislature adjourned, but the Senate refused to accept him by a vote of 33 to 23. Then came the Ripper bill, and the death of Chris Magee, and finally Quay went out again.

In 1862 he turned down his old lieutenant, John Elkin, and put up Pennypacker, and this year he turned down Pennypacker and put up Elkin, whom he feared as a possible competitor for the Senate, and hoped to shove on the Supporters of the Senate.

And now people are wondering what Quoy Pennypacker will do—whether he will make an appointment, as the National Constitution allows him to do, whether he will convene the Legislature, or whether he will allow the whole matter to go over until the new Legislature meets in January next.

When the Civil War broke out he joined the 29th P. V. as a Lieutenant and with it went to Harrisburg, but Gov. Curtin appointed him Assistant Commissary, and afterwards made him his private secretary. After the second Bull Run battle, he took an active part in recruiting the 134th, and was made its Colonel by Gov. Curtin.

The regiment was hurried forward to Antietam where it lay for some months, during which time Col. Quay went down with typhoid fever, which left him so weak that he was unable to take part in the battle of Fredericksburg coming on, he went into it as an aid of Gen. Taylor, and did good work during the day.

Then Gov. Curtin appointed him military state agent at Washington, and in 1860 appointed him his military secretary. In 1860 he was elected to the Legislature from Beaver county and was a member when the last great fight between Curtin and Cameron took place in 1867.

In this fight he deserted his old friend Curtin and went over to the Cameron camp, and was accused of the part of receiving twenty thousand dollars for his treachery.

"Even Quay's friends never attempted to explain the sudden change in Quay's material condition, but took place at about this time. When he went to the Legislature he was a poor man. Soon after the opening of the session he made the erection of what was then the most pretentious business building in Beaver. He himself estimated later that it cost him $100,000, but he did not know where he got the money.

Whatever may be the cause of the compelling course that can be no question that Quay's treatment of Curtin was treacherous. He had the look placed to thank for, almost without exception, every public honor that had been his up to that time. He had received the Congressional Medal of Honor, and he had been elected to the Senate in 1867.

The defeat of Curtin made Simon Cameron the master of the Republican party of the State, and Quay stuck close to him and to his lieutenant Robert Mackay in Philadelphia.

From this time on Quay was almost continually in office, he was Secretary of the Commonwealth under both Hartranft and Hoyt, and the "fat" office of Recorder of Philadelphia county, the fees of which amounted to about $50,000 a year was treated for him, but soon discontinued.

His name was connected with several scandals, the worst of which was the shortage in the State Treasury under Hoyt, with J. Blake Walters, a cronny of Quay's as cashier. The shortage amounted to $200,000, and was made good by Don Cameron and other friends of Quay, and in 1886 he was "vindicated" by being elected State Treasurer himself.

In the National Convention of 1888 he opposed Harrison's nomination, but in the following year he was elected to the Committee, and by his remarkable work in New York city, gave that State to the Republicans and saved Harrison's election. Aided by contributions from all over the country he had a complete pole of the city made, by blocks of election precincts, and on election day had detectives at every polling place.

"President Harrison himself was perhaps the only man who failed to give Quay credit for the part he played during the campaign. Harrison was like Quay in this—he was cold, and unfeeling. He happened to be in the mood he was not always inclined to give credit where credit was due.

The first hitch came when Quay asked the appointment of John Wanamaker to the cabinet. Wanamaker was then a warm and faithful friend of Quay's, and he had been his Postmaster General, but under protest.

The second hitch between the two men came when Quay went to the President in behalf of his son. Andrew G. Curtin Quay, then an officer in the United States Army. The young man had been a graduate of West Point, but his father asked that he be advanced a considerable number of points in the list. Harrison refused in the manner that you may have heard of.

"Why General," said Quay, "I made you President." Harrison looked at him coldly and said: "Quay, God made me President." Quay left the room in a rage. He once, had lost his wits and in the hallway he literally bumped into Robert G. Ingersoll. Ingersoll, who was some thing was wrong and he asked what it was.

"Why," said Quay, "Harrison has been telling me that God made him President." "Well," replied Ingersoll, "with a dry smile, 'I've heard the Almighty accused of some mean things, but that's the best I can do.'"

Not long after this incident Quay had occasion to go to the White House again. He was followed by the "Big Game" and he was told that Gen. Harrison "couldn't be seen."

"Harrison," said Quay, "I made you President." Harrison looked at him coldly and said: "Quay, God made me President." Quay left the room in a rage. He once, had lost his wits and in the hallway he literally bumped into Robert G. Ingersoll. Ingersoll, who was some thing was wrong and he asked what it was.

"Why," said Quay, "Harrison has been telling me that God made him President." "Well," replied Ingersoll, "with a dry smile, 'I've heard the Almighty accused of some mean things, but that's the best I can do.'"

Not long after this incident Quay had occasion to go to the White House again. He was followed by the "Big Game" and he was told that Gen. Harrison "couldn't be seen."

"Harrison," said Quay, "I made you President." Harrison looked at him coldly and said: "Quay, God made me President." Quay left the room in a rage. He once, had lost his wits and in the hallway he literally bumped into Robert G. Ingersoll. Ingersoll, who was some thing was wrong and he asked what it was.

"Why," said Quay, "Harrison has been telling me that God made him President." "Well," replied Ingersoll, "with a dry smile, 'I've heard the Almighty accused of some mean things, but that's the best I can do.'"

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

SHERIFF'S SALES.

By virtue of a writ of Ven. Ex. J. P. A. No. 10, I have, by order of the Court of Common Pleas of Butler Co., Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler, County of Butler, Pa., and to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Court House in the borough of Butler, Friday, the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1904, at one o'clock P. M., the following described premises, to-wit: The premises situated in the township of Butler,