—Because our water never has been very good the Oil Co. thinks it should be allowed to make it worse.

—Some man, or company of men, has optioned a large tract of land adjoining the town of Mars, for manufacturing purposes.

—We are not running many patent medicine ads. at present, but still we have a good word for them, as most of them are "good for what ails you."

—The Campbell house in Slipperyrock was full of candidates last Friday night, and one of them—W. J. and Dr. Hockenberry treated them nicely.

—The Panama Canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific is 47 miles long, average depth 38 feet, deepest point 350 feet, proposed time for construction 8 years.

—Our County Commissioners are becoming experts on fire-escapes. Those of the new Lutheran home at Mars were examined, last Thursday, and pronounced O. K.

—Some local primaries were held in Pittsburgh, last Saturday, and at one of the polling places the tally sheet disappeared, and one of the clerks was accused of eating it. A fight followed and the clerk was knocked down.

—On petition of some fifty residents of Allegheny county whose properties border the Butler Plank road, Judge Brown appointed a commission to view the road and appraise it with a view towards condemnation proceedings.

—At the meeting of the K. of P. in Pittsburgh, last Thursday, a complete revision of the By-Laws was decided upon, also a $50,000 permanent Home club on the farm near Harmony. J. W. Hetchings of Butler was elected one of the Directors of the Association.

—The local building and industrial world is unusually busy for this season. A 20x150 foot addition is being built to the car works, the Spang machine shop is being enlarged, the Heister machine shop being placed in operation and a score of houses are in various stages of completion.

—The great scarcity of game birds as shown by the December season has been met by a recommendation that the legislature forbid any killing of these for a term of years. In this region the quail were nearly all killed by the severe weather of last winter, and pheasants have been scarce for a number of years.

—In our account of the banquet of the members of the Butler Bar, held on the 8th inst, the name of Timblin should have read John Gilmour. Wm. Timblin was the only attorney that was named at the Butler Bar. He was admitted about 1840 and died about 1875. Also where the name of John O. Jack appeared as an attorney it should have been Jeddiah Jack.

—While the Good Will Hose Co. was holding a special meeting, Monday night, some one set off an old alarm clock and the fire ladders thought it the telephone. Some slid down their pole and some ran down stairs. A hall door and the fire hose doors were opened at the same instant, with the result that a $30 sheet of plate glass was broken out of one of the big doors.

—Pittsburg's monster coalboats got away last Saturday. The smaller ones had all gone out of the harbor with their tows, but the four great boats had been reserved until Saturday when they went off with tows that would open the eyes of the average citizen who never paid much attention to the rivers. Four boats moved out whose combined tows, through to Louisville, aggregated 3,300,000 bushels of coal.

—In one column of a New York paper, the other day, was an account of a dinner at a hotel which sought the fame of being the most expensive of its class. It was the first dinner at which the guests were charged for their own "exclusivity." Thirty-six people sat down at a cost of $50,000, or about $1,400 per plate. In another column of the same paper was a statement by Robert Hunter of the university settlement work. He says that there are over 800,000 people in New York who are in distress, and that 70,000 children go to school hungry every day. One-tenth of New York's dead are buried in pauper's graves.

—It is easy to see stars these days—untold numbers of them are lying on the ground—every square inch of snow contains thousands of 'em. An Allegheny county genius lately counted the stars in a cubic foot of snow and then made an estimate of the number of inches that had fallen in that county lately, but the figures were so numerous that he haven't room for them in this column. He might continue his interesting work by making an estimate of the sands of the seashore—the white sand has large grains, easily counted—and follow that up by securing the use of a powerful telescope, and counting the fixed stars in a square foot of the dome of the heavens, and making an estimate of the whole number. Then he could come back to earth and with the aid of a microscope count the bacteria in a square inch of almost any old thing, and make a general estimate. He would not know any more when he would get through than he does now, but he would keep himself out of the hands of Satan.

Graham states that he is over seventy years of age, his wife is dead, his sons all away, and his land is unimproved. Last spring he went to live with Brown on an agreement that Brown was to have the present and the future of the farm. He alleges that last July Brown sold the personal property of the farm to a public auctioneer, and the old man executed a deed for the place, the consideration to be $5000. Graham states Brown never paid any part of the purchase money, and continued to dispose of the personal property. When the deed was executed Graham was invited to leave. For these reasons he asks that the deed be set aside and that the proceeds of the personal property be accounted for.
