THE FOURTH OF JULY. The Fourth of July is never an old story. The best sign for the future of the country is the ever recurring evi-dence that patriotism burns as brightly in the hearts of the American people to-day as when the old liberty bell proed freedom "throughout the land." thing more than a holiday. The lebrations, the flags, the fireworks and even the firecrackers are eloquent of the real meaning of the Day of Indece. The foreigner who arrived, rhaps, but a few days ago hangs out great republic. The boy with the fire-crackers may seem an annoyance; but do not drive him away. its behalf on a larger field. For Americans, and especially those whose ancestors endured privation, danger and death that independence might be won, the Fourth of July is, in deed, a day rich in memories and ded with heroic associations. The nation is great and prosperous. It is the cool and calm truth and not merely a boast that the United States of erica is the greatest nation on the face of the globe. It has a larger poputhan any other country in the orld. In the event of war-of which appily there is no sign-the United uld raise a larger force of efficient and intelligent soldiers than any other country. We have no vast mili the event of necessity. Chinese Getting Spunky.

The question of Chinese exclusion from the United States continues to occupy the attention of the Chinese. The extent and depth of the feeling manifested astonishes foreigners and is regarded as an evidence of the growth of a national sentiment of public spirit, the event of necessity. In a potential sense, therefore, the United States is the greatest military power in existence. As for the navy, the United States has shown what can be done, and the history of the country is proof that we need fear no power on the ocean. In material wealth and resources the United States has one sperior, and even Great Britain recognizes that the scepter of commerce and industry is following the star of empire to the west. Amid all this evidence of the greatness and prosperity of the nation it is well as a roman and the sarrifice that made this greatness possible. As the Israelites, when in the full enjoyment of the promised land, went out at regular in tervals in tents in order to keep in mind the desert journey of their forefather, so Independence day should keep for ever green in American memory the brave men of the field and of the statestesmen who wrung from obstituate and continuation of the misgovernment, and not to receive any remuneration for any other than the desert journey of the struggles and the sufferings.
