He voted for all their sneaking measures, last winter, including the Salus-Grady libel bill, and the resolution recalling the endorsment of Precident Roosevelt's course regarding rail roads rebates—the thing that has built up all the great trusts of the country. His election means a continuance of the control of the State Treasury by the same gang that has brought about the disgrace and death by suicide of three cashiers—Clark, Hopkins and Walters: the pitiable death of Ben Haywood of Mercer Co., and the flight from the state of one State Treasurer.

Endorsing Plummer is indirectly condoning robbery and murder. Can you do it?

There is no National issue involved in this year's election, and the use of the names of Lincoln and Roosevelt to bolster up the cause of Plummer, as does our County Chairman in, his letter to the Committeemen is ill advised. We all know that Lincoln would have put, and that Roosevelt is putting the class of men who stand behind Plummer through the criminal courts as fast as he can get evidence against them; and we know that he is opposing the Penrose-Durham combine in Philadelphia.

No complaint has reached us regarding any of them; they are all competent and deserving men, and are entitled to the full vote of the party.

What that vote now is no one definitely knows by reason of the great influx of strangers to this town, but the estimates of the party majority in this county, at present, place it at up to wards 2000. Of course Roosevelt's majority over Parker, last year, was over $2000, and would probably be double that if he were a candidate, this year, as his popularity is phenomenal—all due to his doing his duty as he sees it, without fear or favor.

The most serious single question arising from the proposed change to a city relates the care of the poor. Shall we remain in the Butler County poor district or form a district of our own? If we become a separate district, we go back to our old system of outdoor relief with its large expense and encourage-back to our old system of outdoor relief with its large expense and encouragement of paupers aggravated as it would be now by our new, large and improvident foreign population, or we would be compelled to establish a poor farm and house for ourselves.

The act under which the county poor district was formed provides in Section 20: "When any county embraces within its limits an incorporated city, such city and the territory embraced within. in its limits an incorporated city, such city and the territory embraced within it shall not be included in such poor district and such city shall not be in any way affected by this law, but all the other parts of such county shall in such cases compose the poor district of that county.

The question involved has never been and decided by the courts and no one can say certainly what the action of the courts would be upon it. That the question is a serious one I think no lawyer will deny. Personally, I am of the opinion the court will hold that our incorrection as active will represent the serious one I the property of the court will be active the serious property of the court will be active the serious active will represent the serious courts and the serious courts are serious courts and the serious courts and the serious courts are serious courts.

ncorporation as a city will remove us rom the poor district. Cities of the third class are authorized Cities of the third class are authorized and empowered by the act of 1889 to create a department for the purpose of administering charity and for the support of the poor, such department to have the care, management, administration and supervision of the charities, almshouses, poor houses and the relief of the poor of the city, to create any office necessary to the management of of the poor of the city, to create any of-fice necessary to the management of such department, and to levy an annual tax not exceeding ten mills on the dol-lar for the support of the department. By act of 1903, third class cities are authorized to purchase property for poor house purposes and to erect necessary buildings. We see, therefore, that the datty of maintaining their own poor is buildings. We see, therefore, that the duty of maintaining their own poor is thrown upon all third class cities. If Butler should then become such a city, its duty to care for its poor would arise under its charter, which would be inconsistent with the theory that it remain in the county poor district.

I have no late list of the boroughs and cities of the state before me but the list existing at the time the last census, that of 1900, was taken, shows sixteen boroughs and seven cities with population between ten and twenty thousand inhabitants and three cities and two habitants and three cities and two inhabitants and three cities and two boroughs with between twenty and thirty thousand population each. At least two of these cities were incorporat-ed under special acts of Assembly and they throw no light on the question whether a city charter has been con-sidered a good thing to work under. We have a number of small cities work-ing under special charters.

sidered a good thing to work under. We have a number of small cities working under special charters.

Upon the whole, it being shown that the two municipalities have practically the same powers, the difference between the two charters is this: In cities councils are for the most part merely a legislative body, the executive departments being conducted by paid agents. In boroughs council, in addition to being a legislative body as in the city may themselves do the work or have it done nuder their immediate supervision. If necessary, however, they may employ superintendents or other officials to do the work for them and pay them for it. The borough charter gives council all necessary authority to employ and compensate officers for doing the work to be done under the powers conferred.

In Scotland at the beginning of the eighteenth century produce was car-ried in sacks on horseback er on sledges, or—later in the century—on tumbrels, which were sledges on "tumbling" wheels of solid wood with wooden axletrees, all revolving together. These machines were often so smal could lift them bodily, for they held eter, made of three pieces of wood pinned together like a butter firkin and which quickly wore out and be-came utterly shapeless, so that a load of 600 pounds was enormous for the

LIFE IN ANCIENT GREECE.

No Remains Whatever of Grecia Of the domestic architecture of the Greeks nothing whatever remains, writes Jean Schoepfer in the Architectural Record Magazine. In ancien architectural interest. A citizen of Athens or Sparta was too busy with state affairs to spend much time at home. He wanted to be in the public place where he could find his friends and fellow citizens. Moreover, the climate allowed him to live in the open air during the greater part of the year assembled in public meeting. It was there, from a rostrum, that the eraters harangued the crowd; hence the need of a good voice and a clear enuncia-tion; hence, too, the famous pebbles of Demosthenes. It was in the open air that Socrates and the sophists their discussions alongside the Hyseus that Plato patronized and in open all gymnasiums that the youths practiced heir athletic games. There was no raison d'etre for a domestic archite ture with such a people and in such a climate. It is not necessary to have palatial administrative buildings for governing a people that live in the pub-lic places. Besides, what significance would the term comfort, which is so tury westerns, living in cold, damp clivall during half the year-what sense we ask, would this word have for the robust Greeks of the fifth century B. Drying preparations simply devel-Drying preparations simply develop dry catarri; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarri. Avoidall drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snufs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Gream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarri or cold in the head casily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT We want your attention today to the greatest store news that has ever been published in Butler. You know the principles of this store. Fair Dealing and Matchless Values. You also know our prices are right A Specialty Store in Butler.

A Specialty Store in Butler.

You have been looking to us for years for your Fine Tailored Garments, conceding that at Zimmerman's you were sure to find what was newest, best and correct style in Jacket Suits, Wraps, Skirts and waists. We have given so much time and attention to these special lines that our business has grown and increased to such an extent that we are cramped for room to display our large and varied stock of the fine ready-to-wear garments. We have therefore, after careful thought and consideration, decided to discontinue our Dress Goods. Silks and all-yardage goods, except White Goods, Laces and Embroideries. These lines will be stronger and handsomer than ever, our orders already being placed for import styles in white goods for spring of 1906. We will henceforth be known as a Specialty Store for everything ready-to-wear for Women, Misses, Children and Infants, and Fine and Exclusive Millinery. We think it will be greatly to your advantage to have a specialty store in Battler, and trust the change we make will be pleasing to our customers.

Great Slaughter Sale of Fine Dress Goods and Silks. Flannelettes, Flannels, Blankets, Yarns Fine Table Damask, Napkins, Toweles, Crash and Domestics. A sale you will talk about for years to come.

No equal offerings have ever been made in Butler right in the height of the Fall Season. Nothing but the newest and most desirable merchandise will be offered. You cannot afford to miss this important Sale.

The only way we can empty our shelves and make room for the workmen to remodel our store is to have a Siaughter Sale, Cut the Price.

Now, just as you are just beginning to feel your winter needs. You can buy Fine Dress Goods and Silks of the newest weave and coloring at less than manufacturere's prices, Fine Table Linens, Napkins, Towels, Crashes, Flannelettee, Muslin Sheertring and Calicoes, Percales, Chintzes, Silkalines, Cretones, Flannels and Yarns, Warm Bed Haps, Cotton and Woolen Blankets, and Cotton Batting.
