Improving the Court House. The Grand Jury that will assemble in Butler, next week, will be called upon to say whether or no our Court ase shall be remodeled, enlarged and That the interior of the building nee ive repairs-that it should be re known to and acknowledged by all who looked into the matter, but it is offices are not fire-proof; that two of offices have insufficient vaultage; and that the indices and some of the dockets and papers of the county are liable to damage by fire, at any time. Hence, when the subject of repairs was taken up, so many defects were found in the building as it stands, that the proposition to enlarge and improve found favor; and a committee was apsted to act with the County Con oners in the matter, and an architect was employed, whose plans and specifications, with his estimate of the cost of the proposed changes and im-provements, will be submitted to the next Grand Jury.

If the changes are made the presen Court House will, for a time, have to be ned, quarters for the officers and dockets secured about town, and a hall secured for a temporary Court room.

The amendment adopted was offered by Senator McLaurin of Missouri. It iter-State business to carry goods, in production, selling or furnishing of which it is directly or indirectly interested, beyond the borders of the state in which the goods were produced.

Application of such a provision to the hard coal trade will make it impossible for any of the hard coal roads, so-called, to get a pound of hard coal out of Pennsylvania, except possibly by taking it to Philadelphia and there having it transshipped to boats on the Delaware. The boats, it might be held by the Inter-State Commerce Commission, were subject to the provisions of the amendment adopted That, however, is a

On Thursday last the Senate adopte Senator Knox's amendment to the rate regulation bill, restoring the penalty of imprisonment for flagrant violations of act. Senator La Follette tried to get a more stringent penalty clause attached. But it is sufficient to have the provision restored—provided it is enforced.

The restoration of this provision is an effective. But its value will depend on the vigor of its use. If the penalty lies will not stop the evil. But if the example is given of a few railroad and trust magnates in prison for defiance of law and justice there will be a sudden and unanimous adjuration of the entire ebate and secret rate jugglery.

Some idea of the discriminations brough which small companies were rozen out was given during the testiony of R. H. Large, coal freight agent of the Pennsylvania railroad. From him it was learned that for 12 years the Latrobe Coal Company was given an alowance by the Pennsylvania for the rformance of certain work upon raiload tracks upon the mine property. This work was supposed to be the pro-viding of and the running of an engine. In 1902 it was discovered that the Latrobe Mining Co. had no engine, and that the equipment of the Pennsylvania was being used for the work for the

Looking down from it is like looking down from a

The long, curved trestle at Bull Run, the yards at North Bessemer and the remendous Westinghouse works at E. Pittsburg are also of interest—the latter are said to employ 18,000 people.

East Pittsburg is fourteen miles from the Court House or business district of the city. The street-car line passes through Braddock, North Braddock, Swissville and Wilkinsburg, and goes into town via Forbes St. and Fifth Ave. The ride is interesting but it takes too ong, on account of stopping so often-nearly one and a half hours.

The trains stop at Odell, just above Renfraw; at Maharg, on Thorn creek; at Frazier's Mill, now called W. Saxonburg, a half mile west of that town; and at Ivywood and Woods in Clinton twp. and will, no doubt, be a great convenience to the people of that section Returning, the trains leave East Pittsburg at 7:35 a. m. and 2:50 p. m.

The Inter-state Commerce Coumission continued its sessions at Philadelphia, on Wednesday, of last week and Wm. A. Patton, Assist President, of the P. R. R. Co. acknowledged to having $300,000 worth of Coal Co. stock that he got for nothing: V. P. Green denied having any and so did Snp'd't. Johnson of the Tyrone branch.

The Board of Directors of the P. R. R. met and decided to investigate.

On Thursday John Lloyd, a banker of Cassatt & Co., testified that the counties of the State (and the same may have seen fit to slip over the sand coal operator, of Altoona, who is one of the members of the banking firm of Cassatt & Co., testified that the said for the sell the Alexandria mine because of the shortage of cars, and George E. shortage of cars, and George E. Scott, of the Puritan and Crescent coal companies, declared that he paid for the use of railroad cars when he failed to secure his allotment, and that during a period of 32 days the railroad had furnished him with only one car. He also asserted that Michael Trump, general superintendent of transportation, had told him the company intended to protect the Berwind-White company at all hazards.

On Friday, Mr. Boyneburg, an independent coal operator, said that the business which he had lost had in many instances been gained by the Berwind-White Coal Company and the Keystone Company, which are known as the Cassatt companies.

In still further inductment of the raid road, Mr. Von Boyneburgh stated that the officers of the Pennsylvania Railroad had endeavored to have his informant customer take the business from Von Boyneburgh and give it to the Keystone Company.

These disclosures were the climax to testimony by this witness which, in its entirety, was a terrible arraignment of the Pennsylvania Railroad for gross discrimination in the distribution of coal company cars. Having good coal lands, himself a practical operator with plenty of money with which to operate his mine holdings, this man was suddenly pulled from the position of a prosperous operator to that of a man who in one year had to expend $11,000 more than his receipts in order to keep his mine running.
