Oregon has also made the election of United States Senators direct by the people part of her new system. To conform with the constitution they must, of course, be elected by the legislature of the state, but provision is made for a vote on the candidates at the general election,

This vote cannot be made binding in law on the members of the legislature, but to disregard it would be political suicide for the men who did so.

When Pennsylvania destroys the political machine that now dominates the state government the next step will be to prevent the building of another. Under the initiative and referendum the political machine cannot exist nor can the political boss prosper. They are deprived of the opportunities for corruption that make them powerful. They may own the legislature, but their convention they may others. William Chantler was the oldest person present, having been born the legislature, but they cannot own the people.

Armstrong Attorneys Enter-

Thirty-five members of the Kittanning Bar and several of the Armstrong county officials arrived in Butler Tuesday morning over the B. R. & P. to spend the day as the guests of the Butler Bar. The visitors and hosts boarded street cars, and made a sight-seeing trip over the town. At the Eapdard Steel Car Works they were escorted through the big plant by Manager Allman and Treasurer Gillespie. Mr. Allman had a couple boxes of cigars awaiting the Solons in the office building. As noon approached they were taken to the New Nixon where an elegant dinner was served. The visitors also enjoyed looking over the town from the roof garden. After dinner the trolley cars were again called into service, and a trip made to Alameda Park, where a lively vaudeville performance was witnessed. The visitors then hied to the station and took the 5:50 train home. Rain which fell at intervals was the only thing which interfered with the full enjoyment of the day. The Kittanning lawyers were most agreeable guests, and showed themselves a credit to their town.
