Where Baking Begins Right

The baking of the NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY begins with right material, and every step thereafter through the whole process of baking is right. There is not one point of quality that care, skill and modern bakeries could make better. It is perfection itself—through and through.

It Ends Right

when it reaches your table untouched by strange hands, unattended by odors. The quality, oven-fresh and freshness are preserved in a dust and moisture proof package, distinguished by the trade mark here shown. It always appears in red and white on each end of the package and warrants the perfect condition of the contents. For example try packages of GRAHAM CRACKERS—possessing the rich, nutty flavor of graham flour—unlike any graham crackers you ever tasted. FROTANA—a temptingly delicious union of biscuit and fruit—the newest delicacy of the National Biscuit Company.

Acme Washers

Do More Work, Better Work, With Less Work Than any other Washer on the market.

At the present time many creamery-men who consider their product gilt edged could with profit, so far as cleanliness and sanitary conditions are concerned, advantageously examine and adopt methods practiced in some of the best marketed plants.

But the marked improvement in the quality of renovated butter is only partially due to the improved conditions of recent years. The most important factor in this improvement is in securing the packing stock while it is fresh and giving it proper care until it is needed for use, so that instead of lying around in the basements of creameries absorbing the odors of fish and kerosene oil it is put in cold storage at a temperature below zero, where it remains, without deteriorating in quality, until it is needed to make cream. Manufacturers generally have abandoned the idea that they can produce a merchantable article of butter from old rancid stock, and, as a rule, if any such is received they reject it. Some of it goes to the cheap bakeries and the rest is used for soap grease.

FARM & GARDEN

SHEEP BARN.

Plan of Interest to Farmers Going Into Sheep Raising. Mr. Watkins, the greatest sheep man in Michigan, allows six square feet for each sheep, but many prefer ten feet for each sheep, and this is not much more. The gates that separate the pens may be removed so a wagon or manure spreader can be driven through the stables when they are cleaned.

NEWS AND NOTES

During the calendar year 1905 to date the value of $2,257,703 was exported from the Philippine Islands. Spain was the largest taker of leaf tobacco, Hongkong of cigars and cigarettes.

A great problem with western grain farmers is to get sacks for this year's crop. This has always been difficult. This year $2,000,000 worth of the goods went to smoke in San Francisco, remarks an exchange.

Midsummer jobs include digging ditches, laying the land and cleaning out and deepening wells when necessary. For one purpose or another, timber should be preferred to green timber because it is so well seasoned, according to the national forest service. It is more desirable than green timber and also lighter, which lessens the cost of transportation.

The hay crop of the United States may prove disappointing is the opinion of Orange Judd Farmer, based on the fact that the weather conditions throughout the country have not been at all conducive to a large yield of hay of good quality.

The man who invented the "vicious potato," which guileless people were urged to grow in their cellars by means of a secret compound (to be obtained at $4.00 a package), has met with discouragement. According to press reports, the postal authorities have issued a fraud order denying the validity of the use of the name and chemists of the department of agriculture are credited with unkindly calling the marvelous compound "nothing but a low grade of sulphate of potash."

There is no policy like politeness, says a good manner often succeeds where the best tongue has failed.

The actor works when he plays and the musician plays when he works.

Napoleon's lighter side. The London Tribune relates an anecdote illustrating the lighter side of Napoleon's character. It was told by an old lady who knew the daughters of Sir Hudson Lowe. The Misses Lowe were young girls at the time of Napoleon's imprisonment at St. Helena and were sometimes admitted to his presence, when he would chat pleasantly with them. On one or two occasions when the specially good humor he drew his sword and, gallantly presenting it to one of the girls, said: "Now, young lady, is your chance. You have to kill the Emperor, or he will kill you. Are you ready?" He would then throw himself into position and defend himself with his walking stick. Whether from nervousness or sheer maladresse, no hit was ever made, and the great man would then smile and say condescendingly: "Well, ladies, you can now best him with any fence with the great Napoleon."

Two Curious Tales. In 1875 a miserly old lady was found dead in a room a few miles south of Blaise, France. When found she was lying flat on her back, with one arm around her head grasping a large bundle of straw. At the time her spear grass has grown on the spot where her body lay. The outlines of the form, limbs, etc., are as plain as though they had been made by a person lying down in snow or in plastic clay.

Just back of the great British museum, London, there is a little plot of ground known as the "word crop." It is a field of the forty footstaps. The old legend concerning the place is to the effect that two brothers, in the time of King David, were engaged in a quarrel. One of them took different sides and that they engaged in a deadly duel on the spot of ground. They stood off twenty steps from a certain line and at the word made at that line and killed each other with knives. The forty footstaps made by their feet while advancing were ever afterward here of grass and were still pointed out 125 years ago at the time when the lot was covered by a large stone building.

RENOVATED BUTTER.

Marked improvement in its quality, and demand for increasing. By LEVY WELLS, dairy inspector, bureau of animal industry. The law as applied to renovated butter requires rigid and frequent inspection to be made of the plants where it is manufactured and of the materials used in its composition as well as the sanitary conditions within and without the factories, including proper drainage, ventilation, etc., so that nothing unwholesome or detrimental to health shall exist in the finished product when it leaves the factory.

At the present time many creamery-men who consider their product gilt edged could with profit, so far as cleanliness and sanitary conditions are concerned, advantageously examine and adopt methods practiced in some of the best marketed plants.

But the marked improvement in the quality of renovated butter is only partially due to the improved conditions of recent years. The most important factor in this improvement is in securing the packing stock while it is fresh and giving it proper care until it is needed for use, so that instead of lying around in the basements of creameries absorbing the odors of fish and kerosene oil it is put in cold storage at a temperature below zero, where it remains, without deteriorating in quality, until it is needed to make cream. Manufacturers generally have abandoned the idea that they can produce a merchantable article of butter from old rancid stock, and, as a rule, if any such is received they reject it. Some of it goes to the cheap bakeries and the rest is used for soap grease.

POISONING THE BURROWS.

In some certain burrowing animals, such as pocket gophers, prairie dogs, ground squirrels and field mice, are sometimes troublesome in alfalfa fields. These can be poisoned by grain soaked in strychnine or by pieces of fresh potatoes, including a small grain of strychnine, placed in their runs. They may be drowned out with water or strychnine with carbon bisulphide in their burrows.

Lack of Packing Stock.

The markets, both here and abroad, seem to take readily at remunerative prices all the better grades of renovated butter that can be produced, and the quantity is only limited by the amount of packing stock the country provides. The business, as far as the quantity is concerned, has undoubtedly reached its limit, not from lack of profit in manufacturing or of demand for the finished product, but from lack of material from which to make the goods.

The amount of packing stock to be produced each year will gradually decrease, but from lack of material from which to make the goods.

Improved methods and the introduction of hand separators.

Rich Soil For Tobacco.

Tobacco is a crop which usually pays well for a large outlay in fertilizers, other conditions being favorable. Farmers not familiar with the methods practiced in the Connecticut valley are greatly surprised when told that it is the custom of many of the best farmers of that locality to apply every year to the same field from $50 to $75 worth of fertilizer per acre. These growers expect and annually harvest in the autumn a crop of a ton of barn cured tobacco to the acre. Furthermore, the quality of the leaf produced is better now than it was twenty-five years ago when much less intensive methods of culture and fertilization were used. The writers well understand that the export and plug wrapper types of tobacco produced in Virginia are vastly different from the cigar wrapper and binder types produced in the Connecticut valley. They believe, however, that the efficiency of rich land is the same for both sections.—McNess and Mathewson.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weakness and falling, or other displacement of the pelvic organs. The symptoms of female weakness are frequent headaches, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells, or a more pronounced invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of female weakness.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well-spelled with general weakness, composed, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equalled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.
