CLEMENCEAU, the new Premier of France has been quite a figure in the politics of that country for some years.

"He is bitterly hated and extravagantly admired. One-half of the French press attacks him as a dictator, the other as the saviour of the country. He is variously described as ambitious, weak, headstrong, irresolute, vacillating, a wife is one year his junior. ng, irresolute, vacillating, a radical of radicals and a moderate. Predictions of war with Germany, of civil war and of political revolution are being made as likely to follow his acion to power. He is a man of mystery and contradictions, just such an one as the volatile French people love to go crazy over. Yet there are points that commend him. He is a warm admirer of America, having once lived here as an exile. He was a friend of Dreyfus. He is a strong supporter of the movement for a better understanding with England, out of which Germany is constructing a theory of an Anglo-French alliance. hitched onto the France-Russian agreement and the

Will you help to organize the House and Senate without the dictation of a party boss?

Two-thirds of all the candidates to whom these inquiries were sent replied, and in every instance with an emphatic yes. A large proportion of the answers went beyond this. Scores of candidates put themselves on record as favoring the nomination of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people; promise legislation to make effective the laws against railroad discriminations for the maintenance and improvement of township roads. This is the general drift. It is probable had the inquiry been extended to the whole State the replies would have been uniformly of the same character. Everybody who is a candidate this year is on his good behavior. All are spending their days and nights trying to find out.

Sarvivors from one of the house boats of the Florida East Coast rallway extension along the Keys tell a harrowing tale of death and destruction caused by the storm of Thursday.

W. P. Dusenberry, civil engineer in charge of the work at Long Key, who miraculously escaped death, arrived here on the Russian steamer Jennie, among other survivors rescued. He says house boat number 4, on which were 150 men, was struck by the storm at 5 o'clock Thursday morning and was driven out into the gulf through Hawk's channel

At 6 o'clock the houseboat began to break up and as the great waves hit her, men, singly and in bunches of two and three, were washed into the sea and drowned.

Some went below for protection but when the top of the boat was carried away the waves rushed in and the boat soon went to pieces, 30 or 40 of the men being crushed to death in the collapse, the others grabbing timbers to save them from drowning.

Engineer Dusenberry was in the hold but succeeded in getting a log and floated until Friday night.

To one piece of timber 16 men were clinging and nine were hanging to another. The sides of the house boat were crowded with men. It turned over three times, each time reducing the number.

The steamer Jennie sighted the wreckage and succeeded in rescuing the 49 men who were brought here. Three other steamers with searchlights were picking up men dead and alive when the Jennie left the scene.

There was another houseboat, with 150 men on board at Long Key, which Mr. Dusenberry thinks was also swept to say. There were in all ten boats at Long Key, mortar mixers, dredges and other boats engaged in the work.

Keynote of Taxation Reform. Mr. Stuart certainly sounded the keynote for taxation reform when he declared that the time had come when the state could accept the policy of schools and roads in accord with the declared policy of the party, bu it is founded on the soundest princi-ples of just taxation. Our farms and homes are less productive to their owners than any other channel from which the state draws its revenues. I was necessary to tax them for the support of the state many years ago, when there were few other sources of revenue, but when the Republican party came into power in 1860, it gave generous encouragement to capita and energy to develop our hidden corporate enterprises now reaching state usually realizing profits vastly and homes, every consideration of justice calls for the gradual and early release of farms and homes from th

STUART SCORES IN SCHOOL TAX ISSUE

Revenues.

IS A POPULAR PROPOSITION

The ringing declarations of Edwin S. Stuart, Republican nominee for Governor in favor of the enactment of legislation to abolish local taxation for public school purposes and in favor of giving greater state aid for the build- that policy a generation ago when the ing of good roads and for charitable purposes, have met with popular favor. His statement made in Jefferson county that he is opposed to the car-treasury has also resulted in expresthe School Tax.

Theodore P. Rynder, secretary of this organization, says: "The organization is known as the Pennsylvania State Association for the

The records of the state treasury

Pennsylvania has, without question the best public school system in the world. No state in the Union appropriate anything like the sum of money which is annually set aside by this common wealth for the maintenance and de velopment of the free schools. No state makes anything like the liberal provisions made by Pennsylvania for the education and training of teachers

Past Present and Future Paint

The best "past" paint is the paint which has worn down evenly, leaving the surface ready for repainting without the need of expensive scraping and "burning-off." The best "present" paint is the paint which is applied with least labor, covers the most surface per gallon, and looks the best when on. The best "future" paint is
