FOR PRESIDENT, WM. H. HARRISON. FOR VICE PRESIDENT, DANIEL WEBSTER.

The Democratic Anti-Masonic Na tional Convention, which assembled in the city of Philadelphia on Tuesday last, has unanimously nominated Gen. William H. Harrison for the presidency, and the Hon. Daniel Webster for the vice presidency. A better or more popular selection could not have been made, and we therefore place the ticket at the head of our columns, under which glorious banner we will fight the important battle that is to be decided in 1840, between the opponents and advocates of the Sub-Treasury scheme.

In the year 1798, when an assessment was made with view to the levying of direct taxes by the general government, the property west of the Allegheny mountains, in states and territories of the American union, was valued at only twenty six millions: the same district is estimated at the present day to contain property of the value of twelve hundred millions. The state of Indiana has six thousand men-at-work on her railways and canals. The works of internal improvement, already begun and proceeding towards completion with unexampled rapidity in the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Michigan, will cost twenty-eight millions when inished + a wonderful amount, if we reflect on the recent settlement of that part of the union; and comparatively feeble number of he inhabitants .- New Orleans Bee.

THE COMMITTEE

the next business before the Convention was the nomination of a President and Vice President of the United States.

On the motion of Mr. Thaddens Stevens of Pennsylvania, General WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON of Ohio, was put in nomination as the candidate for the next vacancy of that important office. This announcement was received with great applause.

On motion it was resolved that votes on motion it was resolved that votes and consiste in a first the peculiarities of Mr. Ohver's System, consists in a division of one-fourth of what is called the Shoulder measure into thirteen equal parts, which parts are again divided into halves and quarters.—

This system also differs from all others, which the committee are acquainted with, in the following particulars, vizi 1st. That it is more simple and consequently easier learned and more accurately applied; treatures, viz. 1st. That it is more simple and consequently easier learned and more accurately applied; the drafts and descriptions being so plan, that any person at all acquainted with garment outling, can acquire a full knowledge of it in a few innutes. 2ad, that after the garment is drafted on this principle, any and every proof measure the enter pleases to apply to it, will be found to accord with the draft. This great desideratum the committee thick but and great desideration the committee thinks, has never been attained by any other method for drafting.

Various systems of cutting have appeared within the last few years, all, or nearly all of which have been examined by members of this committee has been examined by members of this committee, but without wishing to detract from the merits of any other-system, not one-so-far, has been found entirely-to answer the purpose for which it was intended. —The committee believe that Mr. Oliver's system is hetter calculated to obvinte the difficulty under which Tailors have labored, than any of the above named ratema, inasmuch as it establishes all the necessary systems, mainten as it escensies at the recessary points, and in such a manner as to convince the enter that his draft is correct before he begins to cut his that his draft is correct before he begins to cut his cloth. It appears to lowe little or nothing to the judgment of the cutter, thus rendering the profession much less ardnous than heretofore.

From the Rt. Rev. Levi S. Ives D. D .. Bishop of North Carolina.

"Raleigh, March 12, 1838. "Having for the last three years been intimately acquainted with Dr. John Beckwith, of this city, and enjoyed his professional services, I-take pleasure in stating that his character as a Christian gentleman, tissies me of their eminent value, particularly in aiding an impaired digestion, and werding off bilious attacks. Having been for a long time subject to the annual recurrence of such attacks. I was in the liabit of resorting for security against them, and with very partial success, to a liberal use of Calomel or Blue Pill. But since my acquaintance with the Anti-Dyspeptic Pill of Dr. Beckwith, which he prescribed in the first instance himself, I have not been under the necessity of using m remy in any form, besides being wholly exempt from bilious attacks. Several members of my family are experiencing the same beneficial effects.
