

The Drinker's Outrage.—We allude a day or two since, to a long tissue of vulgar abuse, directed against several members of Congress, which appeared in the columns of the Globe, under the signature of a member of Congress. A more disgusting publication for the organ of a Government, never made its appearance in print. We give you a single passage, by way of specimen—and passage being especially selected for number of words:

"I think your remarks were unwarrented, unseemly, and unfair; on my own responsibility, and without claim to privilege, permit me, by way of offset and compromise, to recprocate the remarks by another, which I think better founded in truth; that is, that you are not in a sound mind, and that you are not fit to be a member of Congress. I am better qualified to address the gambler's board, the brothel, and the florely, than the halls of Congress."

—A. DUNCAN.

It is worthy of remark, that this abuse did not appear until the President had returned with his signature to the Ant-Dueling Bill. Also, that the vile letter to Mr. Southerland was never sent to that gentleman, although it is said that it had been on a hasty perusal of the publication.

In the House on Friday, the unfinished business was the motion of Mr. Prentiss relative to the conduct of Mr. Duncan, of Ohio, in publishing certain documents in the name of the House, and the question being on the amendment of Mr. Thompson, proposing that Mr. Duncan be reprimanded therefor by the Speaker. After some other proceedings, Mr. Thompson modified his proposed amendment so as to read as follows:

"We, the House, do hereby resolve, that Mr. Duncan, a member of this House from the state of Ohio, has, in his place, acknowledged himself to have written and caused to be published in the Globe newspaper of the 19th inst., the following writing, to wit: [Here insert it.]

Therefore, Resolved, That it is the opinion of the House, that he be reprimanded therefor by the Speaker in the presence of the House.

This amendment was accepted by Mr. Prentiss, as a modification of his motion.

After further debate, a motion was made to lay the whole subject on the table, and decided in the affirmative. Year, 117, nays 94.

The subject was laid upon the table.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Legislature of Virginia had not succeeded in electing a Senator late in Thursday evening when the mail closed, although the two Houses were still in session at seven o'clock P.M., and about to take another vote.

It seems that Mr. Tyler was dropped on Wednesday, and the voter abstained on the day succeeding, Feb. 18, Mr. J. Y. Mason, 70, necessary to a choice.

On Thursday, verbally, that Mr. Chapman Johnson was put in nomination by the Whigs, and had received the votes of a large majority of the party. Mason failing, he had been offered when the next day, Mr. Mason, the Van-Buren candidate, held his own.—Int'l.

VIRGINIA SENATOR.

Extract of a letter from Richmond, dated February 21, 1839.

"The election is still undecided.—Last night a meeting took place. Effected by those who were termed in derision, 'the lame duck'—fixed themselves to one corner of the hall, and there disputed one of their numbers to declare to the House their unabashed determination not to concur in the election of William C. Rives. Of course there was no difficulty in their doing so.

Yeoman, Chapman Johnson was run as the Whig candidate, and was nominated by a vote of 100 to 1. Mr. Rives, who was dropped after Mr. Johnson's nomination, was again put in nomination. Mr. Venable then declared his determination to vote for Mason, as did Mr. Servat. The ballot is now going on. I cannot give you the result. My own impression now is there will be no election."—Globe.

Senator Tallmadge.—A Jesuitical article appeared in the Buffalo Commercial censuring the election of Loco Foco Senator for defeating the election of Senator Tallmadge—admitting fully his claims but submitting the question whether he ought not now to withdraw his name, and doubting the safety and expediency of the Whigs meeting that question at the next Fall election.

It is not difficult to place a finger on the writer. It was that pure and disinterested Whig who, with a friend implicated in the same intrigue, was seated on a sofa at the Eagle Hotel at Albany with Abijah Mann, entertaining his proposition of a bargain to defeat Tallmadge, and to unite on another person. Such laborers in the vineyard are not worth to their potage. There is no necessity of making the Fall election turn on the defeat of Mr. Tallmadge. That is only one item in the long catalogue of crimes of which the administration stands charged. There is enough to overwhelm Van Buren and his host without making that a turning point—the prostrate Regency on the dissolution of Congress will not be able to rally a corporal's guard. But we hesitatingly say, that the violation of the law and the conspiracy which preceded it to defeat it to defeat the election of Mr. Tallmadge, have aroused a feeling in the first and second Districts and in the Southern tier of Counties, which will sweep every thing before it next Fall. It is a point that can and will be triumphantly mooted at the Polls whether Senators are to violate their oaths and violate the law at the command of a desperate faction, against which the people have repeatedly declared. We will answer for districts; let the Whigs in other parts speak their mind without sinister attempt from rival candidates to induce Mr. Tallmadge to withdraw. They will not give for Beardsley, and yet we prefer him to any Whig willing to make a bargain with the enemy.

MARKETS,

Baltimore, February 23.

On Thursday the market was unsettled, and sales were made from stores at $8, and $8.87, and one parcel of $7.75. To-day the market continues unsettled, and as nearly as we can ascertain its true condition we find it to be, that some parcels may be had at $7.87; others are held at $8, and some holders refuse to sell except at higher prices. The wagon price has been exceeding variable and unsettled; yesterday the prices paid were from $7.50 up to $7.80. To-day the rail road & wagon price ranges from $7.50 to $7.62.

GRAIN.—Wheat.—A sale of good red wheat on Wednesday at $1.76. To-day the price paid for parcels brought by wagons is $1.70.

Corn.—On Monday a sale of prime Md. yellow, was made at $1.76. Yesterday a sale of yellow was made at $1.70. We note sales of 7000 bushels Virginia mixed at $1.70 cents.

Rye.—We hear of no sales, and quote nominally as before, 100, a 105 cents.

Oats.—A few sales at 45 cents—market dull.

WHISKY.—The market is dull, and without variation in prices. We continue to quote high, at 41 cents, and bbls. from stores at 44 cents. The wagon price of bbls. is 40 cents, exclusive of the bbls. The inspection of the week comprise 7 lbs. & 5 lbs. of which 97 bbls. were received by the Baltimore and Susquehanna Rail road, and 1000 by the W. & R. R. to-day.

Philadelphia, February 23.

FLOUR MEAL.—Prices have fur-they declined for superfine flour. Sales early in the week, at $8.50 per bbl., for home use and small parcels for shipment. Later, some sales at $8.37; and two or three barrels at lower rates, some of them at $8.25 per lb. To-day prices are unsettled, but $8.25 would probably be the fair price for fair brands. Baltimore Howard street has sold at $8.50. Rye flour, sales at $6.25 per bbl. Corn meal—sales in bbls. at $1.75 each. Considerable sales in bbls. at $3.75 & $3.87.

GRAIN.—No sales of wheat—& prices are nearly nominal at present. Rye is scarce and much wanted. Corn—About 2700 bushels good Southern yellow have sold at 60 cents, and some Pennsylvania at the same price, for common quality. Oats are in better request, but no late sales except by retail, as no supplies have arrived.

WHISKEY.—Whiskey, sales in bbls. at 42; hds. $8.50, occasionally 38 cents, demand moderate.

DIED,

On Friday the 8th instant, of a protracted disease, which he bore with Christian fortitude and patience, Mr. ROBERT MC LAUGHLIN, in the 46th year of his age.

After an impressive and appropriate address to the audience, by the Rev. D. P. Miller, his remains were interred in the cemetery, followed by a long procession of weeping family connexions and fellow citizens.

When a young man, Mr. McLaughlin entered the service of his country in the war with Great Britain, and distinguished himself with Captain James Pipe's company from this vicinity. The fatigues and hardships of the camp were too severe for his frame, and his constitution received a blow from which it never fully recovered, so that he died with another young man, who also served in the same company of the McLaughlin Episcopal church in Carlisle, of which church he remained a member more than twenty years until his death. As a member of a Christian, before the world, undismayed. As a husband, he was a good man, affectionate, and a good father, beloved by example and precept, indicating those traits which afforded to him happiness, and which he hoped would support him in a dying hour. In his intercourse with the world, he acted with Christian decorum, so far as man could attain; he died with a clear consciousness of his duty, and a quiet conscience, and died in peace.

Two years ago he was attacked with hemorrhage of the lungs since then he has gradually declined. The hour of his dissolution did not come unexpected—he had all his business arranged. The last of his earthly labors were to hold him to his bed-side, and with a feeble, faltering voice he bade him a long farewell, exhorting all to meet him in heaven. In a few minutes his happy soul, without our struggle, took its flight to the realms of bliss. Thus he lived a quiet and useful life, the righteous, the my last and may be his."

Happy soul! thy days are ended,

All thy mourning days below;

Go, by angel guides attended,

To the right of Jesus, go.

Waiting to receive thy spirit;

Lo! the Saviour stands above;

Show the purchase of his merit,

Reaches out the crown of life.

For the joy he sets before thee,

Bear a momentary pain;

Die to live a life of glory;

Suffer, with thy Lord to reign.

AMICUS.
