Mr. Adair is a young man, but his talents and zeal in the Whig cause have made him pretty well known throughout the district. If the interests of the people were looked to instead of the interests of the Office Holders, no doubt could be entertained of Mr. Adair's election—and even as it is we intend to give the Locos a hard push .--Since we have carried the state of Maine, we see no reason to despond of Cumberland and Perry-Juniata we feel pretty confident of carrying.

LANCASTER CONVENTION. Notwithstanding the great inclemency of the weather, we learn from our delegates o the Lancaster Convention, that the gathering of the people was immense. We have heard the number in attendance estimated as high as 40,000-but we incline to the opinion that from 28 to 30.= 000 would be about the truth. The delegation from Cumberland county was at least 300 strong-some say 400. Old Berks sent 600 delegates; among them was one hardy veteran over 80 years of age, and several hard upon 70. It rained incessantly from Thursday evening until 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon. The mud in the streets of Langaster was from three to six inches deep, and yet from 12 to 15.000 marched in procession. We shall give a full account next week.
