

HERALD & EXPOSITOR.

Carlisle.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 9, 1841.

FOR GOVERNOR, JOHN BANKS, OF BERKS COUNTY.

We are indebted to the Hon. Amos Guzman, and also to the Baltimore Sun, for early copies of the President's Message.

PRESIDENTS' MESSAGE.

The President's message will be found on the first page of our paper; it is a straight forward business-like document, to which we call the attention of our readers.

There is a most cheering prospect of unanimity, says a correspondent of the Baltimore Patriot, in both Houses upon the subject of a National Bank. Nearly the whole Whig strength of the South is now in favor of such a measure.

Several Locofoco papers have pressed into their service, the robbery of the Frederick County Bank, and as a means of multiplying their political capital, boldly charge the officers of the bank as the authors of the robbery.

Personally or politically we care nothing about this affair; further than to regret the rapid increase of crime in this country, in consequence of Foreign nations throwing the inmates of their work-houses on our shores.

Such scoundrels should be scourged from society as dangerous men, who are not to be trusted—they are only raising the cry of "stop thief," to divert public attention from their own crimes; for the man, who, in the absence of evidence, charges his fellow man with fraud, betrays a want of confidence in his own integrity, and waits but the opportunity to become a thief.

The Locofocos are not willing that the 'Relief Bill' should go peacefully into operation so as to let the people have an opportunity of judging its merits, but they seem determined to force public opinion against it.

There are passages in his letter which would disgrace the veriest politician in the country; and which lead us to the conclusion, that Charles J. Ingersoll, with all his talents and acquirements, is an innate blackguard.

There was a time, when all rogues, notwithstanding their private opinions, were made to feel that laws were sovereign, and could not be resisted with impunity.—Peoman. That must have been before it became so fashionable for the Governor, to grant pardons.

We find the following couplet in the Harrisburg Freeman.

"No rogue ever felt the halter-draw With good opinion of the law."

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, May 31st, 1841. SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES. The Senate met at 12 o'clock pursuant to the Proclamation of the President.

On motion of Mr. Bayard, it was resolved that the Secretary of the Senate, acquaint the House of Representatives, that the Senate was organized and ready to proceed to business.

The customary resolutions concerning newspapers for the use of the Senate, was adopted, on motion of Mr. White.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. The House met at eleven o'clock, pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. King, of Ga., spoke against the introduction of such unimportant and frivolous subjects before the House, which could only consume time, and were of no public interest.

Mr. Lewis Williams moved to strike out 'viva voce' and insert by ballot. On this question the yeas and nays were called, and the amendment adopted by a vote of 154 to 68.

Mr. Wise moved to amend the resolution, so as to go into the election of Clerk, as soon as a choice of Speaker was made.

Messrs. Underwood, J. C. Clark and Atherton, were designated as tellers. On counting the ballots, it appeared, that JOHN WHITE, of Kentucky, (Whig) was chosen, as follows:

Whole number of votes, 221 Mr. White received, 121 John W. Jones, of Va. (Loco Foco) 84 Henry A. Wise, of Va. (Whig) 8 Joseph Lawrence, of Pa. (Whig) 6 Messrs. Briggs, of Mass. (W. H. G.) Johnson, of Maryland, (Whig), and Clifford, of Maine, (Loco Foco), each received one vote.

Mr. White was then conducted to the chair by Mr. Triplett, of Kentucky, and General Keim, of Pennsylvania. On taking the chair, he delivered an address as follows:

GENTLEMEN.—In appearing before you on this occasion, I cannot but feel grateful for the high trust you have conferred to bestow upon me. Let all our proceedings tend to promote the welfare of our common country, and preserve, for future generations, the liberties we enjoy.

When this was gone through with, Mr. Wise moved that the House proceed to the election of a Clerk, which was agreed to. Messrs. Wise, Randolph and Goode, were designated as tellers.

WASHINGTON, June 1, 1841. SENATE. A message was received from the House acquiring the Senate, that the House was organized and ready to proceed to business. On a motion to concur in a resolution for the appointment of a committee to wait on the President, Messrs. Allen and Tappan of Ohio, attempted to get up a fruitless discussion, as to whether the proper title of Mr. Tyler was President or Vice President.

At half past twelve o'clock, the President's message was received, and read by the Secretary of the Senate; 5000 copies were ordered to be printed.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. The House met at eleven o'clock, pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Wise moved to lay aside his motion to adopt the standing rules of the last Congress, in order to allow the immediate reading of the President's Message.

Mr. Adams made a characteristic speech on the exclusion of abolition petitions.

Mr. Slade was in favor of the members casting lots for desks. Mr. King, of Ga., spoke against the introduction of such unimportant and frivolous subjects before the House, which could only consume time, and were of no public interest.

Mr. Graham, of North Carolina, gave notice of a resolution to repeal the Sub Treasury. The House then adjourned to 12 o'clock to-morrow.

Mr. Editor.—Every body knows that a missile of a certain weight, may be thrown further than another of less weight; but I am inclined to believe, that every body does not know what is the maximum of weight, beyond which the missile becomes too heavy for the most advantageous exertion of muscular strength.

ALUMNUS. Mr. Editor.—I here with send you some extracts purporting to have been taken from two friendly communications, between intimate acquaintances.

A FRIEND IN DISGUISE. My Dear H. I must now give you some description of the character of society here. There is much to attract in its general tone and features—much of beauty, grace and refinement.
