

"Of that thou hadst died in the calmness and sweetness of thy childhood," murmured the self-accusing mother.

Again, the father knelt by the bedside of his son, and his voice once more went up in prayer, "Whatsoever thou givest or withholdest, enable us to say sincerely, Thy will be done."

"Amen," clearly articulated the mother, and the angel of death took the spirit of the hopeless to the bar of God.

From the Boston Atlas. PROFESSOR ESPY.

We are quite sure that our scientific friends will be glad to learn that this gentleman, who has recently returned to this country from his successful, we might almost say triumphant visit to Europe, is at present on a visit to this city.

Mr. Espey is a man of no little pleasure to learn that Mr. Espey attributes a large share of his success, both in this country, and, as a consequence, to the extent of that abroad, to the reports of the prominent points of his theory of meteorology, which appeared in the Atlas about two years since, on the occasion of his first course of lectures in this city.

Mr. Espey, of Philadelphia, the celebrated meteorologist, has just proceeded to Havre, in order to embark for New York, after having spent a part of the winter in this capital.

Mr. Espey, of Philadelphia, the celebrated meteorologist, has just proceeded to Havre, in order to embark for New York, after having spent a part of the winter in this capital.

The committee, moreover, pronounce his theory to be admirably useful for physical geography, agriculture, pilotage, and meteorology; they recommend him to the patronage of the American Government, so that he may be enabled to carry out his scientific ideas by further adequate observation and experiments; and they propose to the Academy to accord its highest approbation to his labor and views.

The committee, moreover, pronounce his theory to be admirably useful for physical geography, agriculture, pilotage, and meteorology; they recommend him to the patronage of the American Government, so that he may be enabled to carry out his scientific ideas by further adequate observation and experiments; and they propose to the Academy to accord its highest approbation to his labor and views.

We have heard a desire expressed by many individuals, that Mr. Espey would deliver a course of lectures during his stay in Boston, on his favorite subject. Indeed we believe that such is the general wish, and we hope that the public will not be disappointed.

We hope that Mr. Espey will renew his petition to Congress, at their next session, to make an appropriation to carry out his views on this highly interesting and important subject. We feel confident that he would now meet with success, backed, as he is, by the highest scientific tribunal of France, and aided as he will be by the unanimous wishes and approbation of his numerous friends throughout the United States, who have heard his lectures and witnessed his zeal, with increasing admiration for the science and respect for the man.

A Splendid Carriage.—During the continuance of the imaginary war between Great Britain and the Burmese Empire, the English troops captured the imperial carriage, and it was soon after sent to London. It is described as one of the most singular and splendid works of art that can possibly be conceived, presenting one entire blaze of gold, silver, and precious stones.

Though popularity in some respects, is a desirable thing, yet it is not always a criterion of real ability; nor is it to be sought after with avidity as if it were the foundation of happiness. It has been the occasion of ruin to many, and of distress to more.

A Victim of Man.—During the war in Germany, the captain of a troop of cavalry was ordered out on a foraging party. He marched at the head of his troops to the quarters of a peasant.

"I will presently, if you will follow me," replied the old man. After leaving the valley, about a quarter of an hour's march, they found a fine field of barley.

"There is the very thing we wanted," said the captain. "Have patience for a few minutes," replied his guide, "and you shall be satisfied."

Judges have their feelings severely tried sometimes, if they possess much sensibility. On Friday, a young man was brought before the Court of Special Sessions in New York for some trivial offence.

Tide Water Canal.—Letters from Baltimore represent the excitement there as unabated among the creditors of the Susquehanna and Tide Water Canal Company.

Great Travelling.—The Newark Daily Advertiser of yesterday, says that the train of the New Jersey Railroad, from Philadelphia, left New York this morning with 1000 passengers, including 14 cars.

SUICIDE.

Dr. Heintzelman, the Coroner, was called yesterday morning, about 12 o'clock, to hold an inquest on the bodies of a man and woman, which the retreating tide had left exposed in the dock at the foot of Arch street, on the Schuylkill.

The man was about 35, and that of the woman about 19. They were examined by the coroner, and a loaded brass pistol was found on the person of each, thus indicating a decided determination to commit suicide.

The Silk Business.—On Saturday last, we visited the extensive coconeries owned by Judge Blythe and Major Saively.

The House refused to go into committee on the land bill. Mr. Wise spoke for three hours against it. After Mr. Wise concluded, the committee rose, and the House adjourned.

Compounding Felony.—Constable Clapp has been tried and fined $50 in Boston, for liberating Williamson, the robber, after he had surrendered stolen property.

An Appalling Scene.—Alluding to the arrival of a ship load of emigrants at that port, the Baltimore Clipper says: "The healthy, the sick, the dying and the dead, were intermingled, and great distress was consequently experienced."

The Cincinnati Republican states that Colonel Johnson has succeeded in treating with the Wyandots for the purchase of their lands and their ultimate removal west of the Mississippi.

Captain Flitner, of the brig Choctaw, arrived yesterday from the River Gambia, states that the British cruisers are very busy on the coast endeavoring to destroy the slave trade.

Case of McLeod.—The Supreme Court commenced its July term at Utica on Monday. In the case of McLeod, the decision, it is supposed, will be given within a few days.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, July 20, 1841. IN SENATE. The bill to incorporate the Fiscal Bank was under consideration.

Mr. Archer made a long speech, in the course of which, he intimated that the President would not sign the bill without the amendment.

WASHINGTON, July 21. In the Senate, the Fiscal Agent bill was again up, but no vote was taken.

WASHINGTON, July 22. The Senate was not in session. The House took up the distribution land bill. Mr. Wise spoke for three hours against it.

WASHINGTON, July 23. In the Senate, the amendment of Mr. Adams to the Fiscal Bank bill was reported.

WASHINGTON, July 24. The House refused to go into committee on the land bill. A report from the select committee on the rules was presented.

WASHINGTON, July 25. The Senate was still engaged on the Fiscal Bank bill. Mr. Fillmore reported the fortification bill.

WASHINGTON, July 26. Mr. Wise reported a bill providing for the purchase of naval ordnance and stores. Mr. King reported a bill making an appropriation for the support of a Home Squadron.

WASHINGTON, July 27. The Bank Question, as was to be expected, is the "apple of discord" in the Senate. The opposition Senators are opposed to any Bank.

duce exciting and protracted debates. We shall not attempt to predict the result. The responsibility is upon the Whig Senators who constitute a majority of the Senate.

NATIONAL BANK. The editor of the New York Express is "out," as we infer, for a National Bank, on compromise principles; that is, giving up the right, or rather not using the right, of establishing branches without the special permission of the states in which these branches may be placed.

WASHINGTON, July 28. In the Senate, the Fiscal Agent bill was again up, but no vote was taken.

WASHINGTON, July 29. The House refused to go into committee on the land bill. A report from the select committee on the rules was presented.

WASHINGTON, July 30. The Senate was still engaged on the Fiscal Bank bill. Mr. Fillmore reported the fortification bill.

WASHINGTON, July 31. The House refused to go into committee on the land bill. A report from the select committee on the rules was presented.

WASHINGTON, August 1. The Senate was still engaged on the Fiscal Bank bill. Mr. Fillmore reported the fortification bill.

WASHINGTON, August 2. The House refused to go into committee on the land bill. A report from the select committee on the rules was presented.

WASHINGTON, August 3. The Senate was still engaged on the Fiscal Bank bill. Mr. Fillmore reported the fortification bill.

WARRANTED FRENCH BUREAU

TEMPERANCE DEPARTMENT. PLEDGE OF THE CUMBERLAND COUNTY TEMPERANCE SOCIETY. WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, DO AGREE, THAT WE WILL NOT USE ANY INTOXICATING LIQUORS NOR TRAFFIC IN THEM AS A BEVERAGE...

From the American Temperance Union. Doctor Reese has kindly furnished us with the following touching and sensible verses, for publication.

Go, feel what I have felt; Go, hear what I have borne; Sigh, breathe a sigh as I do; And the cold proud world's scorn; Thy soul's relief the sordid tear; Go, kneel as I have knelt; Over a loved father's fall; See every cherished promise— Youth's fond hopes strewed all the way; That led me up to woman's day.

Go, stand where I have stood; And see the strong man bow; With quivering lips bathed in blood; And cold and livid brow; Catch his wand'ring glance, and see The mirror of his soul's misery.

Go, hear what I have heard; The sob of sad despair— As memory's feeling font hath stirred, And its revelations there— Have told him what he might have been, Had he the drunkard's fate foreseen.

Go, hear, and see, and feel, and know; All that my soul hath felt or known; Then look within the wine cup's glow— See if its lightness can atone; Think, if its flow you would try, If all proclaimed, "It's drink and die."

A poor drunkard in the town of Foster, R. Island, went home to his family one day from the grog shop in a great rage, and began to beat his wife, who fled from the house, leaving her little boy behind her.

That wretched man, Of course not him; The fire was in his soul; Madness was burning in his brain; His rage knew no control; But pity him; a woe was his; End by human tongue; O! when he saw his murdered boy, How was his sad heart wrong!

The King of Cochon China has recently put to death ten Catholic missionaries in his dominions. When we hear man and wife 'my dear' each other in public, we guess they use a good quantity of mustard at home.

For Sale by the Subscribers, In Shiremanstown, Cumberland county, and Chambersburg, Pa.; where they purport manufacturing and keeping on hand the best article of different sizes, to suit any who may give them a call.

DENTISTRY. DR. I. C. LOOMIS, Dentist, is permanently located in Carlisle, and will perform all operations as are required in Dental Surgery, such as Filling, Plugging and Extracting Teeth, and inserting Artificial Teeth, from a single tooth to a whole set.

BONNETS. Just received at the New Store, a large and splendid assortment of English Straw and Florence Bonnets, offered for sale at low prices by ARNOLD & ABRAMS.

Damask Silk Shawls. Received this day from Philadelphia, a lot of elegant silk shawls. New style. CHAS. OGILBY.

Perpetual Insurance. North American Insurance Company, Philadelphia. CAPITAL $600,000.

SHERIFF'S SALE. BY virtue of a Testament Ven. Exponas, to me directed, issued out of the Court of Common Pleas of Adams county, will be exposed to Public Sale, at the Court House in the borough of Carlisle, on Saturday the 31st day of July, 1841, at 10 o'clock, A. M., the following described Real Estate, viz:

A Tract of Land, situate in the township of Dickinson, Cumberland county, containing thirty Acres more or less, adjoining the Adams county line. (Goodyear, David Zeigler and others. Seized and taken in execution as the property of Ludwick Walkenberry. PAUL MARTIN, Sheriff. Carlisle, June 11, 1841.—S)

Splendid Lotteries. Virginia Monongalia Lottery. Class II, for 1841.—To be drawn at Alexandria, Va., on Saturday, 17th July, 1841.

30,000 Dollars. 1 of 10,000, 1 of 5,000, 1 of 2,500, 1 of 2,000, 1 of 1,500, 1 of 1,000, 1 of 500, 1 of 250, 1 of 100, 1 of 50, 1 of 25, 1 of 10, 1 of 5, 1 of 2, 1 of 1.

Virginia Leeburg Lottery. Class I, for 1841.—To be drawn at Alexandria, D. C. on Saturday the 31st of July, 1841.