THE LOCOFOCO MEETING AGAIN. The last Volunteer, in alluding to the ocofoco county meeting, says, "it was every thing that could have been desired." n some respects, it may have been so, but certainly not in all. It may have been satisfactory to the rank and file, in attendance to know that they had a meeting-small and apathetic though it was-and to see the ordinary business go off cleverly; but, ome occurrences took place at that meeting which were any thing but satisfactory to the miserable clique, about the public buildings, who assume the entire management of the party in this county, to the exclusion of their country friends. For some weeks the attention of the locofocos has been turned to the selection of suitable Legislative candidates, and their opinion seems to have settled on John Clendennin, Esq., and Dr. Ira Day, for the "lower end," either of whom, would be acceptable to the party. But, the little squad of dictators in town, were not satisfied with this arrangement. They knew in the County Convention, to be held in that neither Mr. Clendennin nor Dr. Day would suit their purpose-these gentlemennot pliant enough for moulding; consor the people of Pennsylvania desired, and he quently the choice fell on Robert C. A new weekly paper will be issued in this borough, early in August, under my superintendence.

Its political position will be defined in the first number published. In the mean time it may be well enough to state that it will be entirely independent of the control of all old party leaders; untrampeled by my connection with their interests, and free to take any course in relation to men and measures now before the public or that may hereafter be brought forward, which the real interests of the people may seem to require.

In a literary point of view, I intend that the new paper shall lose nothing by comparison with its elder brethren. It shall always contain whatever general and local news is current. The market prices, Sheriff's sales, trial and jury lists shall be correctly and regularly published.

TERMS—The Price of the paper will be TWO DOLLARS per year, one-half payable in advance. Subscriptions at the same rate will be taken for Inred or six months, in either case payable in advance.
