It is devoted to the diffusion of information on the subject of colonization, and contains a large quantity of interesting matter. This spirited and excellent little paper, which had been suspended for a week or so, has re-appeared before the public, furnishing in its brilliant editorials additional claims to the patronage of the Whigs of Philadelphia. It is strange that with the large body of wealthy Whige in that city, an efficient penny paper of sound principles cannot be well sustained. We wish our friend thim "not unknown to fame,"-- the shrill fife and Wallace more success in future.

A Dischatmer!

We observe in several Philadelphia and Balore papers an article predited to the Carliele Herald, with the caption "Blackguardism," the balernity of which we caupot think of acknowledging and therefore beg our brethren to make the correction.

And whilst entering this disclaimer of the ar ticle alluded to, we cannot help also adding the opinion dust our amiable cotemporary of the Volunteer guite " tore a passion to tutters" in the furious terms and epithets which he employed to Reasons connected with his domestic relation tesent an indignity. Regimental Parade!

IT The parade on yesterday of the 197th Regment, Pennsylvania Militia, commanded by Col. ARMSTRONG NOBLE, presented a thrilling spectacle! The assemblage of so large a body, of hale and able-bodied men, "armed and confipred according to law," and all well officered and disciplined, was a sight well calculated to make all ner. ous people who may feel concerned about the sources to which our country may look for deence against sudden invasion, " breathe freer and easier," as Daniel Webster said after the great. Whig victory in New York !

After the line had been formed by the Adju. Willow and Common Market Baskets, covered ad uncovered, Clothes Baskets, Bushel Baskets, tant, Col. Nonin addressed the troops in one of those brief but pithy speeches which have made ound baskets, &c. OIL AND CANDLES:

After giving this "one day to their country," and passing the review of the Brigade Inspector, the Mackerel, No. 1 and 2, Salmon and Herring. troops were dismissed at evening, to repose in peace, with the consciousness of having done their duty, until another " trainin' day !"
