THE MORE CONVENIENT SEASON, BE MRS. SIGOURNEY

Alone he sat and wept. That very night The ambassador of God, with carnest zeal And eloquence, had when'd him to repent to And like the Roman at Druslik denies. Hearing the truth he trembled. Odnselence wrong. Not sin alluved. The struggle shook him sore— The dim lump wance—the hour of midnight tall'd— Prayer sought for entrance—but the heart find closed Its distributed walker he threw him on him on his coucl And bade the Spirit of his God depart!

But there was war within him; and he sighed " Depart not atterly, thou blessed Oue!

Return when youth is past, and make my soul-Forever thine."

With kindling brow be trod The haunts of pleasure, while the viol's voice And beauty's smile his joyous pulses woke. To love he knelt; and on his brow she hung: Her freshest myrtle wreath. For gold he sought, And wingod-wealth indulged him till the world Pronounced him happy. Manhood's vigorous prin Swell'd to its olimax, and his busy days And restless nights swept like a tide away.

Care struck deep root around him, and each shoot Still striking earthward, like the Indian tree, Shut out with woven shades the eye of Heaven. When to ! a message from the Crucified. "Look unto me and live." Pausing he spake Of weariness, and haste, and want of time, And duty to his children; and besought A longer space to do the work of Henven!

. God spake again-when age had shed its snows On his wan temples-and the palsied hand Shrank from his gold gathering; but the rigid chai Of babit bound him, and he still implored A more convenient season. See, my step is firm

And free-my unquenched eye delights To view this pleasant world—and life with-May last for many years. In the calm hour Of lingering sickness, I can better fit For vast eternity! Disease approached--.

And reason fled-the maniae strove with death. And grappled like a fiend with shricks and cries; Trill darkness smote his eye-balls, and a thick ice Closed in around his heart-strings. The poor clay Law vanquished and distorted --- but the Soul---The Sour --- whose promised season never came To hearken to his Maker's call---had gone To weigh its sufferance with its own abuse, Reverge is as incompatible with happi ness as hostile to religion. Let him whose heart is black with malice, and studious of revenge walk through the fields when clad with verdure or adorned with flowers—to his eyes there is no beauty; the flowers to his eyes the ey him exhale no fragrance. Dark is his soul when nature is robed in deepest sable.-The smile of beauty lights not up his bosom with joy; but the furies of hell rage in his breast and render him as miserable as he would wish the object of his hate.

But let him lay his hand upon his breast and say, 'Revenge, I cast thee from me ; Father, forgive me as I forgive mine enemies; and nature assumes a new and delightful garniture. Then, indeed, are meads verdant and flowers fragrant-then is the music of the groves delightful to his ear, and the smiles of the virtuous lovely to his soul.

Of this Balsam, that even in the advanced stage of use of this medicine has been productive of the most astonishing rolief, and actually effected cares, after all hopes of recovery had been despaired of.

In the first stages of the disease, termed "Catarrhad Consumption," originating from neglected Colds, it has been used with undertaiting success, and hundreds acknowledge they owe the, restoration of their health to this invaluable medicine alone. In that form of Consumption, so prevalent amongst delicate young females, commonly termed debility, or

A complaint with which thousands are lingering, it has also proved highly successful, and not only possessors the power of checking the progress of this alarming complaint, but also strengthens and invigorates the system more effectually than any medicine we have ever possessed.

Besides its surprising efficacy in Consumption, it is equally efficacious in Liver Complaints, dathma, Bromchitis, and all affections of the Lungs, and has ever ed many of the most obtaine cases, after every other remedy had failed. Levilicus, ch. XXII, v. 11.

Be ve purified in your Blood,
And health will attend you.
The great principles advocated by Dr. Leidy, and in which he is supported by scripture, are
1st. That vitality is contained in the Blood.
2d. The Blobd, becoming vitiated or impure, gives rise to numerous discases of the organs of the body, the stomach, the liver, the heart, &c. &c.

3d.—That whatever has the effect of purifying the Blood. Possesses the jower of re-establishing healthful action to the body.

4th. That Purgation and Starvation, or, in other words, purging to the extent that is too frequently done, and at the same time enjoying low diet, and abstinence from food almost entirely, are productive of much more mischief than is generally supposed, and in proof of it will only remark, that of milet more instruct und a significant supposed and in proof of it will only remark, that By Purgation—The human system is more or less lebilitated, for the very simple reason, that in the process of purging all is carried off from the stomact from, which nourishment is derived and distributed broughout the system.
By Starvation—Nourishment is absolutely with-led from the system so necessary to it, both for sus-aining vital netion and adding nature in bearing up naming that section and uning matter in hearing up togainst that progress of disease.

Hence the consequences of too much purging, and a continued that must be to produce such a condition of the system as will enable disease to make more of the system as will enable disease to make more apill progress; mile extend it ladd the more easily, and in a brief time throughout the system.

TIME CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION.—Simple as these complaints are usually considered, no one can deny their being the most commo cause of this fatal and distressing disease. It is cause of this later and distressing disease. It is indeed a melancholy truth, that thousands fall victims to Consumption every year from no other cause, than neglected colds. Yet we find hundreds, may thousands who treat such complaints with the greatest indifference, and let them run on for weeks and even months without thinking of the danger. At first you have what you may of the danger. At first you have what you may unsider a slight cough or cold; you allow busit consider a signification of conjyou allow ously ness, pleasure or carelessness to prevent you from giving it any attention; it then settles upon your breast, you become hoarse, have pains in the side or chest, expectorate large quantifies of mathematical with blood of difficulty of ter, perhaps mixed with blood, a difficulty of breathing cosues, and then you find your own foolish neglect has brought on this distessing complaint. If then you value life or health, be warned in time, and don't trifle with your Cold or trust to any quack nostrum to cure you, but immediately procure a bottle or two of that fa mous remedy, the "Balsasi or Wild Cherry," hich is well known to be the most speedy cur ver known, as thousands will testify whose liver have been saved by it.

IT Be very particular when you purchase to ask for "Dr. Wistar's Barsan of WildCherry," as there is also a syaur of this name in use.
