The General Assemblies.

The annual Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, (old school) and the triennial Assembly, (new school) which met in Philadelphia, have ad-Journed after a session of two weeks.

In the old school Assembly, a resolution was passed by a vote of 122 to 8, "declaring it to be the judgement of the Assembly, that neither the constitution nor practice of the Church, recognise the right of Ruling Elders to impose hands in the ordination of Ministers." The Board of Education made an interesting report in which they state that since their organization they have nided in their progress to the ministry no less than one thousand three hundred and thirty young men. The "marriage question," being the queswhether the section of the confession of faith which is understood to prohibit a man from marrying his deceased wife's sister shall be erasedwas after a long discussion laid upon the table by a vote of 83 to 54. The Assembly voted to hold its next meeting in Louisville, Ky. in May, 1844, the subject finally given over to the lower indica-

The "Indian" War. We have had, says the York Republican,

Vhiskey Insurrection and a Buckshot war in Pennsylvania, and we feel inclined to dub the present controversy between Porter and the malontent Locofocos the Indian war, because it was from his propensity to " talk Indian " that much of the strife sprung, and moreover it is carried on with no small degree of savage ferocity. The Pennsylvania Reporter devotes more than three columns to the exposition of the in rigues and stratagems employed by Porter to secure the passage of the "Relief Bill" of 1841 by two thirds of the Legislature, after he had vetoed it himself with a grand flourish of very Locofocoish objections. It says that Porter before he sent in the veto remarked concerning it, "Here is my message, but if I had a man about me worth a d-n. the bill would be carried by two-thirds." I seems that Porter and Tyler can both swear a little—one cause among others, may be, why they will always find the price of manufactured arti have such an affinity for each other! The Reporter then goes on to show how Porter tried to trick the Philadelphia County members out of their votes by summoning them to his chamber on business at the hour when it had been arranged that the question should be taken. It also gives very laughable account of the scene which took place on the afternoon of the 3d of May, when t was attempted to carry the bill by stratagem. and describes the final scene on the 4th, when nough Locofocos were at last whipped in to pass it after having denounced it previously with "redmouthed " vehemence. WASHINGTON, May 3d, 1843. Gentlemen,—I have received your letter of the acles of Christ and Mist aposities wrought on that 28th of April. You look gentlemen, with a do mount before me, the obstinate defence of the gree of solicitude, which I can well appreciate to the probability, that an adjustment tant questions of international trade, between the United States and other countries, especially Great Britain, will be attempted. I fear you estimate quite-too highly my own ability to render. but, by whomsoever conducted, I shall feel the strengest interest in their success, should they take place. I confess that being truly and sincerely devoted to the protection of American labor and industry, I consider it to be of the highencouragement, which they have not lately enjoyed, and which, I fear, they are not likely to enjoy perenfter, unless a more comprehensive policy dopted than that which has hitherto been purs The question of protection has mingled itself, to such a degree, with questions of supposed local interests, with political questions, and struggles for political power, that it has not not been suffered to be at rest on any basis. It has had no repose, This is evidently a great evil. All inrepose, This is evidently a great evil. All in-terests demand a steady and settled policy, and a conviction of this truth appears to be becoming general and strong. Those who possess the mean living, desire to feel secure in their enjoyment and those, who have such means to carn, mus

Yet, it had hardly passed, before events occurred, creating the high est probability that the whole subject would be ways to be in this fluctuating state? Are we never to be able to look for any thing, but a succession of changes? Is there no way of bringing the whole coun.ry, and all interests to an adjustment that may promise some degree of quiet and of general satisfaction? No doubt the various pursetts of the people of this country have really old truly in themselves a strong mutuality of interests. The grain and corn producing States must always, find the best market for the surplus of their products in the manufacturing cles, such as they need, kept low, and the quality good, by the productions of eastern labor. But so rich and abundant is the grain crop of the country, that beyond what may be demanded for country, that beyond what may be demanded for the consumption of manufacturing and commer cial districts there is still a surplus, for which, or a part of which, a foreign market is desirable. The cotten crop, too, though it finds a market at home, the value of which, I think, has never been sufficiently appreciated, requires nevertheless, fice expertation, and a large consumption abroad. Cannot those who are concerned in these interests be brought into a harmony and concert of action, proportioned to the real harmony and mutualit which subsists between the interests themselves? For my part, I think the experiment worth trymouthed "vehemence. It also accuses the ad-ing and should have great hopes of its success, ministration of having tricked Messrs. It is well known that we strenuously opposed the lasue before it was made, not are we any more econciled to this kind of currency now : but it cems to us that as the money has been issued, motives of policy, if no other, would make it an object with the community to preserve its credit and value from depreciation. The credit of our borough is undoubted, and the basis of our borough issue must be admitted to be far better than that of the Harrisburg notes.

Mr. Epiron: The basis of the issue of small to be misunderstood: and that misunderstanding has had the effect in some measure of presenting its circulation. It is not known that for every dollar issued by the Town Council judgment bonds have been taken from the borrowers with the best security-which bonds are entered upon the records of Cumberland county, and thus become liens, binding the real estate of those who have procured loans. Any one desirous of ascertaining the character of the men who have obtained this money from the Borough, can upon examination see that in every instance, more than ten fold security has been taken. This however, although amply sufficient, is not the only guarantee for the payment of the aforesaid notes; the Act of A:sembly passed April 13th, 1828, renders every in dividual or corporation liable for the redemption of any note bill, check, ticket, or paper purporting or evidencing, or pretending to purport or the Borough of Carlisle, so far as regards its good ness and certainty of redemption, is greatly preferable to any bank money in circulation. For what guarantee have the persons who receive this bank money for its redemption? About the affairs and condition of the banks they can ascertain nothing, except what may be stated to them by officers of such institutions.

Another thing, the Borough of Carlisle made n issue of small notes in 1842, which it promis ed to redeem one year after date; this contrac with the receivers of the issue, it has preserved inviolate. Not so with the banks; they issue a batch of trash bearing the deceptive inscription "the Carlisle Bank"(or any other) "promises to pay is in the mouth of the Tysopeon Valley, just the bearer," (whatever sum may be named) on "demand;" but whenever five, ten, or fifteen dollars or is on the west side of the latter, not many hun- in notes, for every one of specie in their vaults, can be got into circulation, the promise to pay connection is by a narrow passage cut through the bearer on demand is converted into a promisto pay him when convenient.
