AN INVITATION.

BY WILLIS G. CLARK. "They that seek me early shall find me." ne, while the blossoms of threy cars are brightest Thou youthful wanderer in a flowery maze; Come, while the restless light is bounding lightest, And joy's pure sunbeams tremble in thy ways; Come, while sweet thoughts, like summer-buds u folding,

Waken rich feelings in the careless broast, While yet thy hand the ophemeral wreath is holdling

Come and secure interminable rest! Soon will the freshness of thy days be over. And thy free buoyancy of soul be flowing Pleasure will fold her wing, and friend and lover in Will to the embraces of the worm have gone; Those who now love thee will have passed forever, Their looks of kindness will be lost to thee; Thou wilt need balm to heal thy spirit's fever. 'As thy sick heart broods over years to be !

Come, while the morning of thy life is glowing, Ere the dim phantonis thou art chasing die; Ere the gay spell which earth is round thee throw Pades, like the crimson from a suns sky; Life hath but shadows, save a promise given-Which lights the future with a fadeless ray; Oh, touch the seeptre !- win a hope in Heaven: Come; turn thy spirit from the world away!

Then will the crosses of this brief existence Seem airy nothings to thine ardent soul; And, shining brightly in the forward distauce, Will of thy patient race appear the goal: Home of the weary !-- where, in peace reposing, The spirit lingers in unclouded bliss, Though o'ce its dust the curtain'd grave is closing,

THE LAST DAYS OF LIFE. BY MISS M. A. FAIRMAN.

"Does she sleep?" whispered Mary Canning, as she stepped lightly into the chamber of her sick friend.

Mrs. Mowbray shook her head sadly. and the patient sufferer softly replied, "No, Mary my thoughts have been too busy. I have been pondering on the home whither I am going. Home! what delightful emotions are kindled at the word! how many pleasant associations cluster around it, even an early home, a transient resting place; but mine is a house not made with hands; a mansion prepared by my blessed Saviour himself, eternal in the heavens." .

Mary pressed her trembling lips to the white forehead of her friend, and as she did so, Ellen felt a tear drop there. She raised her eyes to the sympathizing face Mary, I would not grieve you or my mother; but these happy thoughts so filled my heart, I could not forbear to express them." . "Do not forbear, my love," replied Mrs. Mowbray; "your words are full of consolation."

"Dearest mother, what a relief! How often have I longed to pour out my full heart to you, and restrained myself lest it would add to your sorrow. But why should a christian mother mourn because her child is going home before her; because the gracious Father of both sees fit to remove it first from the pollutions and troubles of the world, to his own pure, and blessed, and glorious resting place?

"Ah! my dear child, reason or religion teamnot silence the voice of nature, said Mrs. Mowbray in a tremplous voice.

"They are spressly repeared for lamity throughout the United States, by numerous Professors and Presidents of Colleges, Physicians of the Army and Navy, and of Hospitals and Almshouses, and by more than three hundred Clergymen of varieties denominations. They are expressly repeared for lamity use, and have acquired and imprecedented popularity throughout the United States; and as they are so admirably electified to preserve Health and eure Disease, no family should ever he without them. "for you would not be with us."

"Ah, Mary, that would be a selfish sor row. Besides, the parting will be shortwe shall meet again so soon." Ellen dropped her head more heavily upon the pillow which was upon the back of her easy chair, and continued silent for a long time. A pile pink spot upon either cheek finely contrasted with the exquisite purity of her complexion; her eves had the strange, unearthly brightness peculiar to consumption; and to the usually sweet expression of her face was added one so screne, so peaceful, that it seemed as if the love and happiness of heaven already dwelt in her heart .-Mary thought as she looked upon her, she had never seen any thing so beautiful.

"Life wastes slowly, very slowly," she said at length, in a low, soft voice. "I trust I am not impatient. I am sure I would not put away a single suffering, my Pather sees meedful for me. I would not have the slightest wish at variance with his will but would resign all to his wisdom and care, just as contidingly as the infant resigns itself in its mother's arms. Mine has been such a happy life; till this illness, it was one long, bright summer's day, and it is hoppy even now, my Father deals so gantly with me and His grace imparts such peace, such hope to my heart."

A few mornings after, when Mary, as usual came to spend the day with her, she Was painfully etruck by the change in her ppearance Ellen held out her hand with Lier pocustomed smile of welcome, and faintly murmured, "I was about to send for you Mary. The last condict, I think

"Oh'I how good is God." she said after a little pause, "lo give me such faith, such trust. Nothing else, would answer, now nothing else could give me a moment's peace; this gives perfect peace. I am uterly lielpless helpless every way-I cannot procure for myself so much as a drop of water to moisten my parched lips; but I have no fears, no anxieues. I can trust my mother and my Mary; you will not suffer me to want. Oh! how much more I can trust my Father in heaven ! Your power is limited; you cannot do all you vould; but His, oh! who can measure or comprehend it? He can supply all our wants. What happiness to give away all my cares to him; to feel that this faith so orecious, so cheering, is His gift; to think hat I will soon, very soon, see him as He is, "and know even as I am known."

"Yes, faith and hope will soon give place to perfect knowledge, perfect happi-Even here if kindled in the boson, it consumes the dross, and purifies the heart from every selfish, and earthly passion. DR. LEIDY'S SARSAPARILLA.

ALLY are the cilicus of this preparation becoming more apparent. Numerous persons assert they have derived more hencit from using one bottle of it, than three of any other. This is easily, accounted for, as Dr. Leidy's Sarsaparilla is a much stronger preparation than any other, and near twice as much is contained in one bottle as of any other (and sold at the appropriate). Let the public rememas much is contained in one bottle has a contained in one bottle has sime price.) Let the public remem this—it is no vain boast but the real fact.

DR. LEIDY'S SARSAPARILLA

From the Medical Review. "From the Arguical hereaves,"

"Among the vegetable alteratives with which our dispensaries; abound, there are few so useful as Sarsaparilla, and when properly combined and prepared, is invaluable; not only, in restoring, debilitapared, is invaluable; not only, in restoring, deniminated constitutions to their wonted energy but in every case arising out of an impure state of the blood. From a knowledge of very many cases (and some of them considered incurable) where many different preparations of Sarsupari la Ind. heen used, none seemed to possess virtues or remedial powers equal to Dr. Leidy's Medicated or Compound Extract of Compound 18. Sarsuparilla."

It is a preparation, it is believed far superior to any other, and would recommend it to the particular notice of Physicians.—Ed. U. S. Gazette.

Extract of a letter from J. B. Whitmore, of Easton, in relation to Dr. Leidy's Sarsapardha.

"My little hov and girl, the former now three years and the latter now seven years old, have been afflicted with a scrottlous tomor from the time they were three months old. Three months ago I was induced to make trial of your Extract of Sarsaparilla, and have given it to both to the present time. DR. LEIDY'S SAUSAPARTELA

Dr. Leidy's Compound Extract of Sarsapartilla has stood the test for five years past, and 'tis no hoast to say that there is no other preparation of equal strength now in use. Throughout the Southern States where Sarsaparilla is a much in general use as tea and enfect, Dr. Leidy's Sarsaparilla is generally preferred and is highly recommended by Physicians, [whose certificates have been frequently published] 'Throughout the north and west it is also much used, more perhaps than any other.
