The following lines were suggested by an exam tion of Wirn's picture of "The Embarkation of the Pilgrims." The Pilgrims are portrayed on the deck of the vessel in the act of supplicating the guidance and protection of their Heavenly Father; and on the corner of the sail which was hung up to cover them is inscribed the motto. "Gon were us." susmender just over the arch of the rainbow, which is conspicuous belind-thus uniting faith, hope, and the prom ise of the covenant, in the same glance and revolted tion. Under this inspiration the lyrist seems to have written his animating ode.

" Gon wirn us!" on our troubled way, When darkening tempests lower and sweep, Revend we see the neerless ray That lights our path across the deep-And while on high

We turn our trustful eye, " God with us," is our constant cry.

"Gop WITH Us!" when the billows foam, . And stir the ocean's snowy crest, He will provide a freer home, Where wearied pilgrims hope for rest—

Faith whispers in our car "God with us" all, forever near!

111. " Gon with us!" when the lightnings gleam Across the sky with flashing light; They are the types of truth which cross To rend the pall of error's night-

And while we see Their thrilling imagery, "God with us" cheers the strong and free !

"Gon with us!" where the star-light sheds A placid ray on Freedom's youth: He will regard the soul that treads In his own panoply of truth-And while we hall The wild wind and the gale, "God with us" now! He will not fail!

"Gop WITH us!" when we reach you shore, Where we may worship him unharm'd; Where we may know and fear no more The threatenings of the evil-arm'd— And when we reach

The yet far distant beach, "God with us" we will ever teach.

"Gop with us!" while we cross the sea . Of human life in every hour, To that eternal rest, where we May praise his boundless love and power! Where we shall string

Celestial harps, and sing "God with us!" through Heaven's fadeless spring

THANKSGIVING.

The custom of an autumnal festival for the abundant fruits of the earth and blessings of the season, dates back to the earliest tradition of the Saxon people. Among their many wild and mysterious rites in the deep shadowy gloom of the forests-their only temples-was the great sacrifice to Thor, at the winter solstice. This feast continued nine days, and was concluded with the greatest merriment and rejoicing.

At the introduction of Christianity, this ceremony was early adopted from its supposed correspondence with the era of our Saviour's birth, and Christmas is still known by the ancient name of Jul among the Northern nations.

Our great New England festival, by a singular dedicated to Thor, on which their feast always commenced. But it has other, and to us more interesting associations. It is the only one which the stern, pure virtue of our Pilgrim Fathershanded down to us—and in its simplicity and harmony with our better feelings and gratitude to Heaven, it seems an enduring monument to their Thousands such throughout all our land should ve find if we look in upon them—some in the man, in other matters by other nations; confi-tions of the rich and gifted, and others in the dence between man and man is in a great we find if we look in upon them -some in the manhumble cottage and plain farm house, which dot every hill and valley of New England. There beams an almost radiant smile from the face of forth with a bliss as pure as this world knows .-But while to some the day returns with unming. led happiness, sorrow and care have been busy at the hearts of others.

There are guests guthering round that quiet under that almost sacred roof;—but there is a to leave the country prosperous, and its trace of sadness, almost, as it were, the track of institutions unimpaired many tears upon the cheek-their greeting is quiet and subdued, for the heart seems to have some thing behind which it cannot speak without sigh. Their dress seems uniformly darker than even the chill evenings of November require; and perhaps this aids in giving that cold, blanched whiteness to the cheek, which you may mark .-They have been sometime together conversing a low tones, and they seem lunnier. Heart has communed with heart, and a heavy load seems removed off of it. They are more cheerful and happy now, as they gather around the table spread with the Lounties of the year. One seat ulas, in curpty; and now you may see the secret of this shadow upon their festivity. She, the youngest, most beautiful, and most loved of allshe will never meet them! But last year her laugh was gayest-her smile the brightest, her words the most joyful. Now she will speak to them no more-never again, through all the scenes of a weary worled.

Another group mourns a brother. He left them with the snows of winter, and went forth, for the first time, to struggle with life, full of hope and such gay dreams, as only youth can know; and fond hearts went after him, and trusted to his cturn, years hence, full of honor and renown,-But alas! the spoiler was near him, and he sunk down in a distant grave, the saddest burthen of the "unattended hearse." Alas how many hopes died with him!

There sits a poor widow on her hearth alone .-Her thoughts continually wander to her only son upon the far off see; and as her heart goes out in gratitude for many mercies, she commends him and herself, as if they were but one, to the widow's and orphan's God. Others, too, have met with sorrows and disappointments, which have eaten deeply into the heart., Wealth diminished, schemes overthrown, ingratitude and the wounds of the world's rude buffetings-all things which go to make up the various emotions of this checkered world-emotions of mingled joy and sorrow of which no hour and scene is free-have left some faint traces still. But with this gladest night of the year coines other and calmer thoughts. Sorrows averted, good enjoyed, the joys of peace, while other lands have been desolated with war-health and plenty, while famine and pestilence have stalked, with a grim and ghastly stride, over the fairest provines-unnumbered blessings, which have been showered upon each and all, call for a gratitude which stills even the beating pulse of sorrow. So be it. It is a good thing to turn aside from the cares and toils of life-and while we remember thanks for blessings received, to let the heart gush with joy. Who will not return to the duties of his calling with spirits refreshed, heart enlarged, coincidence, was first instituted and invariably and mind braced anew? IF parents knew the value and efficacy of Dr. Leidy's Patent Vegetable Worm Tea, they never would be without it in their families, as children are subject at all times to Worms.

Dr. Leidy's Worm Tea is composed of vegetables altogether, and may be given to children of all ages. Directions accompany each paper or package.

Children suffer much, of times, from so many things being given them for worms, without any effect. Much medicine, given to children, has a tendency to destroy their general health, and they are more or less delicate ever after.

To avoid the necessity of giving medicine unnecessarily when you are certain your children have worms give them at first Dr. Leidy's Worm Tea. It is all that is opecsary.

Reference might be made to several hundred parents in Philadelphia city and county, of the efficacy of Dr. Leidy's Worm Tea. Try it and you will be convinced.
