

CARLISLE, PA.

Wednesday Morning June 26, 1844.

WHIG FESTIVAL AT CARLISLE, ON THE 4th OF JULY!

The Committee appointed a public meeting of the Whigs of Carlisle, held on Saturday the 15th instant, at the house of Gen. Polk, for the purpose of making arrangements for the approaching anniversary of National Independence, which will inform their little children, that they have selected "Old England's Friend" as the place for holding the celebration and have appointed half past 12 o'clock, as the time for the commencement of the proceedings of the day.

Several distinguished speakers have been selected to deliver appropriate addresses.

It is intended to have a cold collation prepared (free of expense) in the true style of Log Cabin simplicity and extend a warm welcome to all who will participate in the festival, calculating upon a full attendance more from the correctness of our political principles and the "feast of reason" that will be presented, than any indications of eating and drinking. Our friends from town and country are earnestly invited to attend without further notice.

By order of the Committee,

A. NOBLE, Chairman.

The following gentlemen compose the several Committees to make arrangements for the Whig Celebration of the 4th of July.

Committee of Arrangements.

Johnstone, Noble, Capt. William Blair, Mr. Joseph Blair, Frederick Gentry, Edward M. Hiddle, John Rhoads, George Wiss, William Martin, Adam Mowry, and Joseph Wiss.

Committee to prepare Toasts.

Gen. Samuel Alexander, James H. Devor, Esq., William Aquilino, Charles Ogilby, John Irvin, J. P. Jones, D. C. L. Moore, Christian Steiner, James M. Atkinson, John D. Gorges, Robert A. Noble, George Wahl, Robert Wightman, George Weis [Carpenter], James Harmer, May Augustus Line and Maj. Robert McCord.

Committee of Invitations.

John H. Est., J. J. Myers, John Hallert, The B. Thompson, Abraham Erb, Nathan Hatch, Con'f'wman Irvine, James Inkester, William Linch, William Wisselitz, John Hause and Dr. James Noble.

Whig Celebration in Carlisle on the 4th of July.

The Committee of Invitations appointed at the meeting on Saturday evening the 15th inst. cordially invite the friends of Clay, Frelinghuysen and Marke to generally throughout the country, to partake of the festivities of the 4th with their friends in Carlisle.

JOHN REED, Chairman.

ADJOURNED WHIG MEETING!

Hon. John M. Baxter, United States Senator from Georgia, will address the Whigs of this borough and adjoining townships, on SATURDAY EVENING next, the 25th instant, in the Court House. The friends of CLAY, FRELINGHUYSEN and the TARIFF, generally, are earnestly invited to be present, to hear a full and fair discussion of Whig principles.

June 26, 1844.

Sabbath Address.

The address and resolutions of the State Sabbath Convention will be found on our first page to-day. They are ably drawn and we hope will receive a careful perusal.

Native Americanism.

Agreeably to our promise we give in this week's paper the proceedings of the Native American meeting in Mechanicburg. What a beautiful proof of the "identification" of the Native American and Whig parties that meeting furnished! Dr. Iray Day, its President, is well known as one of the most respectable and influential "Democrats" in the county. Mr. Cain, its Secretary, is the Post Master at Mechanicburg, appointed by Gen. Jackson Van Buren, and besides these, gentlemen we understand there was a plentiful sprinkling of others of "the democracy" at the meeting.

Whig Festival of the 4th!

It will be seen by the notice of the committee of Arrangements, that ample preparation have been made for the Whig celebration of the 4th of July in this borough. It will take place at Henderson's Island,¹ near the Garrison. Several speakers from a distance are expected to be present to address the assembly, and the occasion will afford an opportunity for a free and hearty interchange of thought and sentiment while it will produce a more compact and perfect organisation of the party for successful action. It is hoped our friends from the country will be present in goodly numbers. The prospects of our party are cheering. Every where around us the friends of CLAY and MARKE are rallying with enthusiasm in behalf of our cause and its candidates and the Whig of old mother Commonwealth must not be found lagging. Come then, friends of the Tariff and give one to the good and glory of the Country. Come and a hearty welcome awaits you!

Hon. J. M. Baxter.

Among the strangers, known and unknown to us, who have visited our borough, this season, is the distinguished member of U. S. Senate from Georgia, Hon. John M. Peck, Barrister, who isjourning here for a time with his family. Mr. Baxter is well and favorably known in the country, as a leading member of the Senate, and distinguished among the host of gallant whigs in Congress for his able advocacy of Whig principles and hearty attachment to the cause of His Country, who is always "on duty" as a friend of Henry Clay. His course during the recent session, and particularly his fearless and triumphant defence of the Whig Tariff of 1840, has won for him the respect and admiration of the friends and foes of the Tariff in the North.

It would be difficult for our friends to learn that Mr. Baxter, who is always "on duty" as a friend of Henry Clay, has consented to address the whigs of this borough and vicinity on Saturday evening next, in the Court House. An eloquent vindication of Whig measures and men may be called upon, and we trust it will be given with energy and eloquence.

Campbell's State Magazine. A striking number in the Magazine for June and independent of its regular monthly illustration of a prominent Statesman's "Fancy Queen," its claims upon the reader are great and of a somewhat character. The selections from foreign journals are excellent, and every one will be read with avidity.

Among the most amusing living men in the nation, is the article upon "Garrison" — the "Captain of the Table." It is a perfect comedy.

An announcement from the press, we perceive, that on the 1st of September next, this paper will be the organ of the "Emancipation Magazine," and will be edited by Mr. George Campbell, formerly of the "Emancipation," and Philadelphia, now of New York. It is to be published weekly, and will contain several other departments.

More extended notes will be given in our next.

ANOTHER ENTHUSIASTIC GATHERING

THE SPIRIT OF '40 REVIVED!
The Whig Democracy of this borough had another enthusiastic gathering on Saturday evening last, which we hazard writing in detail, as one of the largest tows meetings that have ever been held since 1840. The numbers and responsibility gave convincing evidence that the Whig Democracy here, are in the best spirits and becoming thoroughly roused to the importance of doing our share of the great work of redeeming the country and State, by the election of HENRY CLAY and JOSEPH MARKE.

The floor of the Court House on this occasion was filled, in every part, and scores of persons lined the galleries. We could see many an old and silver-haired citizen there, whom the firm attitude of the convention had inspired, and whose presence was drawn forth by the just apprehension that all is not well with the nation. Side by side with them were crowds of our young men, of every trade and occupation, mechanics and working-men, full of energy and patriotism, and eager to manifest their confidence in the correctness of Whig principles and measures—their attachment to the distinguished Whig candidates—and to declare their unqualified disapprobation of the base design of prostrating the free and independent industry of the North at the feet of Southern despotism and British manufacturers, by the nomination of the Anti-Tariff candidate—James K. Polk.

The meeting was in every respect a resounding and cheering demonstration that public opinion here is aroused, and that old mother Cumberland will make a good report of herself next fall, if the people such demonstrations are to be the heralds of Victory.

Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who were opposed to the distribution of the Public Lands by which Pennsylvania and other States might be relieved from debt and taxation, but who could lend their sanction to the United States assuming the debts of Texas, which he alleged, on good authority, were thought to be not less than $50 millions of dollars! Judge Reed's speech throughout was clear, forcible and convincing and drew down the hearty applause of the meeting. After he had spoken, Col. Wm. Irvin, our staunch and valiant Whig soldier, who never tires in the cause of his party, harangued the audience, and the speaking on the occasion was of the most eloquent and inspiring character. John Renn, Esq., first addressed the meeting, and after stating the causes which prevented the attendance of Hon. Andrew Stewart, who had been announced to address the meeting, gave a graphic account of the immense mass gathering which had been held before the meeting. Mr. Renn concluded his speech by an allusion to the "association of division" war cry which had been raised by the Friends of Polk in South Carolina, and with eloquent indignation rebuked the treasonable designs of those who would sacrifice the Union itself to accomplish their mercenary purposes, and to their allies in the North who