A GRACE FOR SINGLE GENTLEMEN.

LOWELL is said to be the greatest martyr in the country. There are thousands of factory girls pining there; with small fortunes for husbands. There were 324 unions among them during the year ending April 30.

CAUSE OF GRATULATION.

AT one of the late repeal meetings in Dublin an orator, an Irish orator, of course—indulged in the following language, laudatory of the prospects of the repealers. "What should they (the repealers) dread he asked, when they saw Talbot in the chair, Smith O'Brien at his post, and the Liberator in prison?"

CURE FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.

One tea-spoonful of rhubarb, one tea-spoonful of magnesia, and a lump of pearl ash the size of a pea. N.B.—Boil the rhubarb in a pint of water. When cold, add the magnesia and pearl ash, and make it very sweet with loaf sugar. Add also such essence of peppermint as the child can take. Dose, a tea-spoonful three times a day.

THE WHIG SYSTEM.

Home labor, work at home—buy at home—spend at home—employ our own countrymen in preference—help Americans first—protect American labour—assist American industry—let the South feed the North, and the North supply the South—we do not want we will ship away—what we can't make or produce we will buy from foreigners.

We are against every thing that the Whigs are for.

Now this says the N. Y. Express, is what we call honest. This is plain and above board. This is the first equal declaration of Whig principles we have seen yet. "We are against every thing the Whigs are for." How much trouble, how much wear and tear of ingenuity and invention, has been saved.

Major Van Campen's

Major Van Campen, whose eloquent and patriotic remonstrance of the Texas and Anti-Tarif party we have published, was the Loco Foco elector in 1840, for the Livingstone District. The Rochester Democrat adds that Major Van Campen's brother, who resides in Almond Allegany county, with his seven sons, all of whom voted for Van Buren in 1840, will all, if they live, vote for Henry Clay in November.

THE WEALTH OF MR. ADOLPHUS.

THE wealth of Mr. Adolphus, of New York, is estimated as certainly above twenty millions. The present Premier of England is still wealthier. His property, though not positively published, is estimated at $7,000,000. But there are great hopes, single hands, much exceeding this sum.

MR. CLAY'S VIEWS OF RELIGIOUS DUTY.

While the Loco Foco press is teeming with the most insidious representations of Mr. CLAY, and attempts are at the same time made to conciliate the moral feelings of the people in behalf of Mr. POLK. Now we here recall a case in which both these gentlemen took part, and the reader will judge who manifested the truest sense of moral obligation.

MR. CLAY'S VIEWS OF RELIGIOUS DUTY.

In 1832, while the cholera was raging with alarming fatality—attacking and desolating whole towns and cities, and baffling the skill of man, Mr. Clay introduced a resolution in the Senate of the U. States for the appointment of a committee to wait upon the President and to request that he recommend a day to be designated by him of public humiliation, prayer, &c. The following were the proceedings in the Senate:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives.

That joint committee of both Houses wait on the President and request that he recommend a day of public humiliation, prayer, and fasting to be observed by the people of the United States, with religious solemnity, and with fervent supplications to Almighty God that he will be graciously pleased to continue his blessings upon our country, and that he will avert from it the Asiatic cholera which has reached our borders; or if, in the dispensation of his providence, we are not to be exempted from the calamity, that through His bountiful mercy its severity may be mitigated and its duration shortened.

MR. CLAY'S VIEWS OF RELIGIOUS DUTY.

MR. CLAY rose and observed that he had only one word to express. The resolution had not been submitted without consultation with the members of the Senate whose opinion was entitled to more respect than his own. It was indeed first suggested to him by a reverend member of the clergy, and after deliberate consideration, he (Mr. Clay) thought the occasion fit for the recommendation of the religious ceremony which the resolution contemplated. It was the practice of all Christian nations, in seasons of general and great calamity, to implore Divine mercy. Of all the pestilential scourges which had afflicted our race, the Asiatic cholera, in some of its characteristics, was the most remarkable.

Should the resolution be adopted (said Mr. CLAY) the act of the President, in conformity to it, will be merely recommendatory. Voluntary as to all, it will be obligatory upon none.

There seems to be a peculiar propriety, on the ground of uniformity, in the proposed measure. Already, in different parts of the Union, the clergy of several denominations have, it is believed, had their attention turned to the subject. Different days of prayer and humiliation will be probably recommended. It is desirable that the whole nation, on the same day, shall present its united prayers and supplications to a Throne of Mercy. And there can be but little doubt that, although there will be nothing coercive in the recommendation of the President, there will be general acquiescence in it. The measure will be grateful to all pious and all moral men, whether members of religious communities or not. In times of national or individual distress, all who suffer feel an irresistible impulse to appeal to that Being who is alone able to afford adequate relief.

I should have hesitated to present this resolution (said Mr. CLAY) if it had been sanctioned by precedent. But during the late war a similar resolution was adopted by Congress, at the instance of a member of the House of Representatives from Virginia, and President Madison issued his recommendation accordingly.

A single word, Mr. President, as to myself.

I am not a member of no religious sect. I am not a professor of religion. I regret that I am not. I wish that I was, and I trust that I shall be. But I have, and always have had, a profound respect for Christianity, the religion of my fathers, and for its rites, its usages, and its observances. Among these, that which is prescribed in the resolution before you has always commanded the respect of the good and devout. And I hope it will obtain the concurrence of the Senate.

MR. FELLINGHYSEN SAID HE INFORMED FROM THE CALL OF THE YEAR.

MR. FELLINGHYSEN SAID HE INFORMED FROM THE CALL OF THE YEAR, that he had been called upon to deliver a man most decidedly opposed to the Tariff. I should have chosen JAMES K. POLK, and those who nominated him, know this as well as I do. If their principles are wrong, abandon them; if they are right, support them; and abide by those who abide by your principles.

A FARMER'S WISE TOWN.

A FARMER'S WISE TOWN. The village of Washington, Fayette county, Ohio, containing several churches, stores, mechanics' shops, and taverns, has none of one Loco Foco in it. What is equally remarkable, there is not in the town or in the neighborhood a drop of Loco Foco spirit, or any other place where it is known to exist. It is a very interesting fact, and should be a lesson to all who are engaged in the Loco Foco cause.
