HERALD & EXPOSITOR

CARLISLE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, January 22, 1845.

☞V. B. PALMER, Esq. No. 39 Nassau street, Philadelphia, and 169 Nassau street, (Tribune Buildings) New York, and South east corner of Baltimore and Calvert streets, Baltimore, is our authorized Agent for receiving advertisements and subscriptions to the "CARLISLE HERALD & EXPOSITOR," and collecting and receipting for the same.

☞The result of the duel spoken of in our last will be found in the conclusion of the Washington letter on our first page. It happily terminated without bloodshed, and it is to be hoped the "wounded honor" in the case is entirely healed.

Burning of the Railroad Bridge.

☞Messrs. Hickok & Cantine of Harrisburg, have got up a well executed Lithographic representation of the burning of the Railroad Bridge over the Susquehanna, on the 4th of December last. The representation is quite striking and graphic.

They may be had in Carlisle, at the Book Store of J. M. Kneedler on East High street.

Dickinson College.

☞From the annual catalogue for 1844-5, we are glad to learn that this institution still maintains amid the embarassments of the times, its highly flourishing character. The number of students in all is 141, in the following proportions in the different departments of the College:

Law Class,	4
In College,	97
In Grammar School,	44

The Female Seminary.

☞We trust that our citizens are fully awake to the importance of sustaining in our midst a good Female School of the character of that lately re-opened under the charge of the Misses Paine. Here where so much lively interest is manifested by the whole community in giving the highest character to our schools, both public and private, it would be matter of regret and reproach should such a institution be permitted to languish through inadequate patronage.

We are assured by those eminently qualified to speak of the qualifications of its Teachers, and who are well acquainted with the system of instruction adopted, that our community is extremely fortunate in enjoying the superior advantages which this school offers for the education of young ladies. It is to be hoped that the effort which is now being made to establish it permanently, will meet with the friendly co-operation of those who are most interested in securing to the rising generation the advantages of a polished and useful education.

Newspaper Changes.

☞The editorial charge of that old and sterling paper, the Chambersburg "Whig" has been resumed by its former Editor, Jos. Pritts, Esq., a gentleman of fine abilities and amply qualified to sustain the excellent character of that journal.—Mr. Downey was compelled to retire from the establishment on account of ill health.

We neglected to notice in proper time the new, enlarged and very much improved form in which that old and stalwart Whig journal, the "Connecticut Courant," made its entrance upon the new year. It is now, we believe, the handsomest and largest weekly paper published in New England, and has a reputation and influence which the ability manifested in its Editorial conduct could not but secure to it. We should "rather guess" from such indications, that our old friend Boswell is prospering to the extent of both his deservings and desires; we rejoice most heartily in his success.

John S. Richards, Esq. of the Reading Journal, has transferred the editorial charge of that paper to Mr. J. Knabb, late editor of the "Clay Bugle." The new editor is an enthusiastic Whig and a ready writer, as the columns of the Journal already abundantly manifest.

Court.—Pardons.

☞The Court of Quarter Sessions, &c., for this county closed on Saturday afternoon last, after having cleared a docket crowded with an extraordinary and we might justly say, disgraceful amount of business. Our amiable neighbors of South Middleton had a large finger in the pie." Quite an active competition seemed to be at work between the Court and Governor Porter, as pardons in a number of cases came in close upon the heels of the convictions! We are told indeed that His Excellency, as the case now stands, is one ahead, as there is a pardon out for a case not yet tried! It is not surprising that the good-humored equanimity of the Court was somewhat ruffled at such treatment.

James Martin, a prominent "democrat" of this borough, was convicted of voting upon fraudulent naturalization papers at the two last elections, but his pardon was ready before the day of sentence! Martin has been voting with these papers for the last eighteen years. Neighbor Sanderson will please to recollect that this reduces Shunk's legal majority in this county to 36, and Polk's to 62! There is one more case to be tried which will possibly make a further small reduction. It is well to notice these small matters.

Gov. Shunk's Cabinet.

☞It seems to be the general opinion among the loco foco papers, that John K. Kane, Esq. of Philadelphia, will be appointed Attorney General by Mr. Shunk. It is also said that Henry Wells, Esq. of York, is to be Secretary of State. We see it stated, too, that the appointment has been offered to and accepted by Hon. Jesse Miller.

The most active applicants for Prosecuting Attorney of this county, under the new regime, are understood to be J. Ellis Denham and S. R. Hamill, Esqrs.

☞The attention of ladies and gentlemen is directed to the advertisement of the Russian Cosmetic for the hair, which will be found in the proper column. We are of course too much of a democrat to pay much attention to the cultivation of our hair—except to "take it on" straight occasionally—and cannot therefore praise the article from experiment. But as the reader will see, the Cosmetic is recommended by greater names than ours—gentlemen of kind hearts and doubtless splendid heads—of hair!

☞We observed a batch of appointments of officers on the State Improvements, announced in the Harrisburg papers by the Canal Commissioners. The old officers seem to be generally retained. On Monday last the Main Line was to be opened to sale, but there seemed to be little expectation of a favorable result.

Our state Legislature.

☞Our "democratic" State Legislature has not yet signalized itself by any act of great importance. The majority seem to be a very dull and sleepy set, and the Whigs appear to be giving the Session its only life and animation. As an instance look at the re-election of that great lump of mental inanity, Dr. Sturgeon, to the U. S. Senate. He is confessedly a discredit to the State in such a body; this the people feel, and their anxiety to get rid of him was fully manifest in the large number of nominations made from nearly every county in the State, to supply his vacancy. Many of these nominees were really able men, but Mr. Buchanan's influence, (whose supple tool Mr. Sturgeon is,) and the nervous agitation which seized the poor locos at the bare contemplation of Gov. Porter succeeding to that high station, frightened them into a union upon any one who could defeat that scheme, and thus secured Mr. Sturgeon's election,—much to the chagrin of better men who were more competent and deserving. It is rather queer that after such a manifestation of obedience the House should turn round and vote down, (as they really did) an amendment to the Tariff instructing resolutions, which expressed the confidence the House had in the "ability and integrity of our Senators!"

The Harrisburg Whig papers complain, and very properly, of the shameful injustice done the Whigs in the House by the Speaker's arrangement of the standing Committees. It seems to have been an object with the Speaker to place the Whig members, with few exceptions, on the least important committees, and thus deprive them of the power to be most useful to their constituents. Lancaster county fares particularly bad in this respect. Our friend Cochran from that county, an active and talented young member, is we suspect in rather a light place" on the committee on size and immorality. But never mind, Cochran—you can gather laurels even there. Give us a good report—eloquent and touching—upon Temperance, &c, and plaudits of approbation will greet you from thousands not of your own constituency. The appointment of Mr. Kunkel, of Dauphin, a young member, but one of more than ordinary ability and promise, to a place in the Judiciary committee, forms one of the exceptions to the Speaker's unfairness. Mr. Kennedy, of our county, is on the committee for Pensions and Gratuities, and Mr. Heck on the committee for Agriculture.

In the House they are still hammering away at the resolutions instructing our delegation in Congress to stand by the Tariff. The locos have made many efforts to shape the resolutions so as to give Mr. Buchanan a chance to go for modifications, but so far all such attempts have been successfully resisted. The House has done one admirable thing in the passage of a resolution, unanimously, to appropriate all the money in the State Treasury to paying the interest on the State Debt due on the 1st of February. Some of the Locos hesitated—they did not like to give all the money up—but it passed. It will also pass the Senate this week. We shall keep our readers fully advised of all matters of interest through the Session. We notice that the House has passed a resolution to adjourn on the 10th of February, but there is no danger of the Senate concurring in it —there is no such blessing in store for the people as a Session so short!

James R Snowden, Esq., of Venango, was on Monday last elected State Treasurer, in place of Job Mann, Esq. - Mr. Snowden received 71 votes —John Gilmore, (Whig) 48 votes—and J. F. Bethel, (Native) 9 votes.

Congress.—Annexation.

☞The absorbing question of Annexation still occupies the attention of Congress to the exclusion of almost every thing else. One or two more projects of annexation have been introduced since our last, and about a score of speeches made. The Washington letter on our first page gives an interesting sketch of a speech by a loco foco member from Ohio, against Annexation, and men ions a new project introduced into the Senate by Mr. Foster, Whig Senator from Tennessee. A similar project has been brought forward in the House by Milton Brown, of the same State, and it is said meets with much favor. There is no knowing when a vote will be taken. There are but about five weeks of the session left, and but one single act of a public nature has yet been passed—that is the one day bill for Presidential elections!

A brilliant Whig Constellation!

☞The Legislature of Massachusetts last week elected the great Defender of the Constitution, Daniel Webster, to the U. S. Senate, in place of Hon. Rufus Choate, whose term expires on the 4th of March next.

The Hon. John M. Clayton has been elected to the U. S. Senate by the Legislature of Delaware, in the room of Hon. Mr. Bayard, whose term has expired. The legislature of Maryland, on Thursday last, elected Reverdy Johnson, Esq. of Baltimore, to the Senate of the U. States.

The election of these distinguished gentlemen, united with the many eminent Whigs now in that body, such as Critteden, Mangum, Berrien, Evans, Morehead and others, will give the Whigs a powerful representation in the United States Senate. If they have not the numerical strength to prevent the consummation of the Texas scheme and other iniquities, the power of their eloquence will at least go forth to awaken the nation to its danger, and to stamp the perpetrators of these outrages upon the Constitution with the infamy they deserve. We rejoice that the palmy days of the Senate are about to be restored.

The Temperance Cause.

☞The Philadelphia Ledger says, Mr. Gough the Temperance lecturer, has made much impression here by his recent efforts in the cause of temperance. We are particularly gratified to find a fresh impulse given to the great cause, as it is in accordance with our view of the necessities of the case, for we were pained to observe and to note upon a short time since an increase of drunkenness. The great teacher of life is experience; so is prosperity and adversity, in good and in evil, and there is not a more terrible monitor against vice than the experience of the drunkard. When, therefore, he paints the horrors of inebriety, it is no fancy sketch—it has no mere pictorial fervor, derived from a warm imagination—it is the recital of the dreadful past, the history of self-degradation, suffering and peril, and it must lend to him who has warmth of feeling and force of expression a tongue of eloquence, carrying truth in the strongest words, and warning humanity with almost superhuman power against deliberate self-sacrifice by drunkenness.

The voice of public opinion has gone forth against drunkenness. The sense and sentiment of human nature are against the traffic. The true character of intemperance is exposed, stripped of the polluted lies of six thousand years which have invested it with beauty and romance, by connecting the act of physical corruption and the march to death with love and joy, and the complete perversion of the talents of life and the moral structure of man, painting as vile a destroyer of enemy as its good sustaining friend. We do not language too strong, no figures of speech too wild when the fearful vice of drunkenness is treated

The Inauguration!

☞We learn from Harrisburg, that the induction of Mr. Shunk into the office of Executive of Pennsylvania, took place yesterday at 12 o'clock, in the Hall of Representatives, in the presence of both branches of the Legislature, and a large assemblage of ladies and gentlemen. The attendance of a very large body of military from Philadelphia, Lancaster, York, Carlisle, and other places, gave additional eclat to the ceremonies.

We are indebted to Mr. Anderson, of the Senate, and the Editors of the Union, for slips containing Gov. Shunk's inaugural address—which shall be published in our next. Besides a general declaration of the Governor's views in favor of freedom of religion, of the press, and of suffrage and his regard for the cause of Education, it contains no new opinions of any importance, except an endorsement of the individual liability system in corporations, and a strong and manly expression on the subject of redeeming the credit of the State. He declines to commit himself, however in favor of paying the February interest!! (The Governor knows how to spell Tyyppe!)

The Governor has appointed Hon. Jesse Miller, of Perry, Secretary of the Commonwealth—Henry Petriken, Esq. Deputy Secretary—and John K. Kane, Esq. of Philadelphia, Attorney General.

The Beginning of the End.—Defalcation No 1.!

☞The people were asked before the Presidential election if they would consent to restore the plundering reign of the Defaulters and Leg-Treasurers, by putting a loco foco administration in power. They did not heed the warning; locofocism triumphed, and the Clerk of the House of Representatives, at Washington, has already made a beginning at the old tricks by which the country lost millions of dollars under the administrations of Jackson and Van Buren! Go it!—ye Locos!

The amount of the defalcation is not precisely known, though the Washington letter-writers estimate it between $30 and $40,000. Parts of it are ascertained to have been expended for the purpose of sustaining the N. Y. Plebeian and other loco foco papers! The matter is in the hands of the committee on accounts McNulty, the Clerk, is a man of bad character, and addicted to gambling and drinking, which his party well knew when they elected him. Last week when the rumors of his defalcation were in circulation, it is said he was frolicking about the city in company with a noted gambler, and became involved in a row at a tavern on the outskirts of town, which ended in the parties being shot at by the keeper of the tavern.

We see by the proceedings of Congress that on Friday last, the committee on accounts made a detailed report on the subject of the defalcation, which amounts, as stated in their report, to forty-five thousand dollars! The committee ascertained that of this amount McNulty had at different times made advances to the amount of $30,000 to a Dr. E. J. Woodward, a produce dealer in Mt. Vernon, Ohio. The editor of the N. Y. Plebeian denies in a public card that he received any part of the money. The committee had summoned McNaulty before them, but he neglected to appear, and they therefore reported three resolutions the first directing his dismissal from office, and the other two directing the Secretary of the Treasury and the President to order civil and criminal prosecutions for the recovery of the money and the punishment of the offender.

After some discussion the Speaker was directed to issue his warrent for the arrest of McNulty, who had not been in the House for a week, and upon his appearing he was informed of the charges. He declined the priviledge of defence by counsel, but rose and made a speech himself in which he pronounced the action of the committee a very extraordinary proceeding, and said he could fully exculpate himself from the charges made. Further proceedings were postponed to the next day.

On Saturday the committee of accounts informed the House that McNulty had failed to appear and redeem his promise to make settlement of his account. The House thereupon passed the first resolution of the committee unanimously. The two other resolutions were after some discussion adopted. The House afterwards elected Mr. B. B. French clerk in place of McNulty.

To show the character of a true agrarian loco foco, a Washington correspondent gives the following. Two or three years ago, when the mob at Cincinnati sacked the Banks and destroyed the contents, Mr. McNulty, who was then a member of the Legislature of Ohio, said "that was the true Bank reform,—that he would have gloried in being at the head of any body of citizens who would do such a deed of public benefit. He wanted no better light to guide him along the pathway of duty than the flames ascending from every burning banking edifice in the State." Such a sentiment is worthy of such a public officer.

My throat was [illegible] over and over again. I made trial of [illegible] remedy, and at different periods had the [illegible] six physicians, and all with no avail. About two months since I made trial of your Compound Syrup of Tar and Wood Naptha, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt relief.
