The above call, which we have been requested to publish by a number of Whige who have too much of the spirit of 1840 and 444 to permit them to let the 4th pass by without a proper mail festation of Whie feeling, we hope will meet with a hearty response from the Whige of this borough. It is somewhat late to move in the matter, but " better late than never." Come forward, Whige, on this occasion, and testify by your presence that your attachment to the Whig chuse has suffered no abatement from defeat, but that in adversity as well as presperity you are Whigs and always Whigs! Let there be a full turn out.

We have received the June and July numbers of the Advocate of Peace, published by the Amerrean Peace Society, at their office in Boston. It contains the proceedings of the 17th anniversary of the society and much other interesting matter. "The Society-appears to be making rapid progress. in diffusing Peace principles.

III We have received the first number of a new paper solitied the Independent Press, which is the committee of arrangements. A large body of m proposed to be published in Mechanicsburg, by citizens closed the procession.

The procession thus formed moved forward, but Augustus Sprigman. The editor proposes to be nothing particular but independent -a position generally sustained with the least ability by those who are loudest in their professions of it. The new paper is about half the size of the 'Herald' and is to be published at $1. per annum.

Use of Electricity in Agriculture. A discovery has recently been made in England, which is thought of great importance, of the ef- arrangement of the ranks, and the procession fects of electricity on vegetation, and that this effect may be made available by artificial means the music of the Bands trembling to the low and to the increase of the products of agriculture.-Experiments to a considerable extent have been | ing in deep and echoing sounds-and the slow made for discovering the best mode of applying and silent tread of the procession giving to the this element to this new use, and for determining whole scene an aspect of grave and impressive the cost to be incurred in producing certain re. sults. So decisive are the results of these experiments, that the London Economist, in alluding to should be delivered in the open area of the College some of them, remarks, "we are bound to say that grounds, but the inclemency of the weather renthey are such that we look upon this new agent dering it necessary to change this part of the aras one likely, before long, to produce as great's rangements, the procession was brought under revolution in agriculture, as the inventions of the shelter in the market house, to complete the ceretcam engine or the spinning jenny have done in emonies of the day. These were followed by the civic portion of the procession, headed by the civic portion of the procession, headed by the creer of the Sons of Temperance, who appeared in considerable numbers, wearing plain regalia, and bearing in front of their racks a handsome banner. Following them in very large numbers, and composed principally of young men, came, several divisions of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows; comprising Lodge No. 91, of this borough; and large deputations from the Lodges of Harrisburg, Shippeusburg, and Chambersburg. The rich regalia of these and Chambersburg. The rich regalia of these took occasion to apply to persons, facts which I but stated; and then you turned round and implended decorations, gave a striking and brilliant payontly and wickedly abused me for what you only are responsible, the application! Take for instance year introduction and use of the name of Col. Johnson to excite the prejudice of his Masonic Lodge of this borough; with deputations of Col. Johnson to excite the projudice of the from Harrisburg and other places, followed next friends. I never uttered his name on the occasion, as the audience can testify. What then must be thought of the hibities which prompted you to misrepresent me-was it that you might have a plausible pretext for defamation! That is the only inference which can be drawn from your conduct, for the principles, arguments and vacis Societies of Dickinson College, with their roses of the address, were not noticed at all. If they had been unsound or false they could have been bers of the Faculty. To these succeeded the Orator of the day, escorted by the members of the committee of arrangements. A large body of citizens closed the procession.

I these thing are incompatible with asch where will totally fire reconcileable; and the public will naturally infer from them one of two things—either you were without cause unjustifiably abusive, or that you found the position, facts and argument of the address, so impregnable to assault with the weapons of truth and reason, that you had recourse to the vain hope that in designify from the character and destroying the reputation of the advocate, you would trush the cause. The public will give you credit for the motive of the latter, but you can have the alternative. Now I am ready for your second attack. You say you were not present at the meeting at the Market House, and yet you blunly assert that all I said from beginning to ond was "impudently false"! My whole states ment false! Do you know the meaning of language and the extent of the insult contained in the charge of falsehood. And on what was this the charge of falschood I.—And on what was this aweeping declaration based?
