HERALD & EXPOSITOR.

CARLISLE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, August 13, 1845.

Whig Delegate Meetings and County Convention.

At a full meeting of the members of the Democratic Whig Standing Committee of Cumberland county, held at Winrott's Hotel, in Carlisle, on Monday afternoon, the 11th inst. the meeting was organized by appointing Dr. T. L. CATHCART, of Allen township, Chairman, and E. BEATTY, of Carlisle, Secretary. After some preliminary discussion, it was Resolved, That the Democratic Whig voters of Cumberland county, be requested to meet at their usual places of holding delegate elections, on SATURDAY, the 23d of August, inst. to elect two delegates from each ward, borough and township, who shall meet in County Convention, in the present Court room, in Education Hall, Carlisle, on MONDAY, the 25th day of August, inst. at 10 o'clock, A. M., to settle a Ticket for County officers to be supported at the ensuing general election. The time of meeting for the various wards and boroughs to be at 7½ o'clock, P. M., and for the several townships at 4 o'clock, P. M. on said day.

Resolved, That the Whig Voters of the county are earnestly requested to give a full attendance at their several primary meetings, in order that a fair, strong and satisfactory expression of the popular will may be brought into the Convention.

By order of the Standing Committee.

T. L. CATHCART, Chairman.

E. BEATTY, Secretary.

☞The long and withering drought which vegetation has suffered, was terminated by a refreshing shower on Friday afternoon, and a still more tempestuous and copious rain on Sunday afternoon last. These rains came most seasonably for a large portion of the corn crop, and will materially increase that article of produce.

Western Elections.

☞Some scattering returns of the elections in Kentucky, Indiana and North Carolina, have reached us, but not sufficient to indicate definitely the result. The Whigs so far appear to be doing very well.

The Whig County Meeting

On Monday evening last was all that the most ardent friend of our good cause could have wished—it was large, enthusiastic, harmonious and united. Every section of the county had a representation of its most respectable and active men. The old men were there who have worn the Whig harness untiringly for years, and with them, were scores of young, active, and vigorous Whigs, in whom is re-lit the flickering spirit of their fathers, and who burn with enthusiasm to tread in the same right path, and fight the battles of the country until Whig principles shall be permanently established, and Whig men control the destinies of our great and growing country. Upon the call of the meeting, L. G. Brandebury, S. Dunlap Adair, and James H. Devor, Esquires, successively responded in eloquent and forcible addresses, which elicited the repeated and hearty applause of the assemblage. The proceedings in proper form will be found on the opposite page.

We speak upon the best authority and from the most perfect knowledge of the fact, when we say that never was the Whig party of Cumberland county in better condition, and never did a more ready and determined spirit animate its ranks, than now burns cheerily in the heart of every Whig in Cumberland county. In addition to the crowd assembled at the meeting on Monday evening, we have had the pleasure within the last two days of taking by the hand and conversing with scores of staunch and influential Whigs from every section of the county, who are fully conversant with the state of public feeling, and whose representations authorize the most cheering hopes of the future. So far is there from being any despondency after the defeat of last fall—so far is there from being any abatement or relaxation of their firm and unwavering conviction of the truth of Whig principles, that now more than ever, do all right-thinking Whigs feel that they are battling for the Right, and that the Right must speedily be TRIUMPHANT! The people are beginning to know and feel that they were most shamefully deceived and betrayed by unprincipled party leaders, in giving their support to James K. Polk, as a friend of a Protective Tariff, and are now preparing to visit their just indignation upon the heads of their betrayers.

They are beginning to know, too, that the course of the Locofoco party in relation to a sale of the Public Works has been so far marked only by hypocrisy and duplicity, and that while pretending to be in favor of removing this burthen from the people, that party is really striving to retain the management of the Public Works, as a vast political engine which shall enable them to control the politics of the State, and give them the means of rewarding mercenary demagogues and cringing sycophants of power—and all this at the sole expense of a people ground to the earth with oppressive TAXES. It would be supposing the people too deeply besotted in ignorance, and too abject in slavish submission to party, to believe that such long-continued and rank abuses would not arouse them to determined opposition. And it is in the hope that the people are at last opening their eyes to the outrages of party leaders, and freeing themselves from the blindness of party infatuation, that Whigs are encouraged to stand firm in their political organization and unite in renewed and increased exertions to give success to correct principles.

We now firmly believe that the day of Whig triumph is at hand! Cumberland county, once so strong in the bonds of locofocoism, is now gradually yielding to the force of correct principles. Every year has the loco foco majority been steadily diminishing, until last year left the party nearly high and dry upon the strand. One more determined and vigorous whig effort, and locofocism will breathe its last!

Whigs of Cumberland county! Shall not that effort be made? We know the response you will make. Let us come up to the work, then, with the spirit and the energy which insures success. We want no excitement, no clamor, but we want determined resolution to be carried into vigorous ACTION! One fire more and the day is sure!

☞J. W. Ashmead, Esq. with several others from Philadelphia, and George Ford, Esq. of Lancaster, addressed a considerable crowd here on Thursday evening last, on the subject of Native Americanism. To show how thoroughly Natives and Whigs are one in feeling, we inclosed that the whole party of Speakers stopped with our excellent friend George Beetem, Esq. Enough said!

☞Captain King's Company of U. S. Artillery at Baltimore has been ordered to stand in readiness for marching in case of a war with Mexico. We have not heard of similar orders [illegible]

Ladies' Fair!

☞We hope the Ladies' Fair which is to be opened this evening, in the house lately occupied by J. C. Mercke, on East High Street, by the ladies of the Lutheran Church, will not be forgotten by the public. The articles for sale comprise an elegant variety.

Dauphin County.

☞The Whigs of Dauphin county on Tuesday last met in County Convention, and placed in nomination the following ticket:—Sheriff, James Martin; Assembly, John C. Kunkel, John C. Harper; Prothonotary, John Zinn; Recorder, William Painter; Register, William Nolen; Treasurer, Francis Wenrich.

We are glad to notice the re-nomination of Mr. Kunkel. He is a young man, but one of more than ordinary ability, and distinguished himself in the last House as one of the most eloquent and forcible debaters in that body. His unanimous re-nomination was a deserved compliment from his constituents.

Odd Fellows' Procession.

☞The Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Harrisburg, propose to celebrate the anniversary of the establishment of the Order in that place by a procession, on Saturday the 16th instant.—Neighboring lodges have been invited to participate. We understand that a large delegation from the Lodge in this place will attend on the occasion.

The Sons of Temperance have also an Anniversary Celebration in Harrisburg, to-day, which is expected to be an occasion of much interest.

☞Is it true, (as we are informed,) that James H. Graham, Esq., in his speech at the Locofoco County Meeting on Monday evening last, took ground in favor of reducing the present Tariff, according to the mode suggested by Mr. Secretary Walker? We wait for further information.

☞We hope the "Statesman" will redeem its promise and not fail to notice Mr. Brandebury's remarks in relation to county affairs and the new Court House, in his speech on Monday evening. The people want light on those subjects.

☞If the "Statesman" doubts the correctness of our assertion in relation to Governor Shunk's opposition to the payment of the February interest, let it hunt up his Inaugural Address. A perusal of that, we think, will acquit us of all charge of "disingenuous" intentions toward that dignitary.

Washington Correspondence.

☞As our correspondent refers in the opening of his letter to a local circumstance, now rather out of date, we omit that part of it. We have been obliged to omit another portion of it also for want of room.

WASHINGTON, August 2, 1845.

You will remember that the advocates of the Annexation of Texas, both before and since the last election, and whilst the question was pending before the Senate, were continually clamoring about the interference of England with our domestic concerns—declaring that her ministers, not only at our Court, but at those of Mexico and Texas, were plotting schemes of destruction, devastation and ruin, and were determined, if annexation should be consummated, to press Mexico to declare war against us, and assist her in carrying on the contest, and that she was endeavoring to thwart negotiations gotten up by our Government—and to put a stop to such outrages, these democratic editors called upon the people in tones of thunder to rise in the majesty of their might, and shew that monster, Queen Victoria, and her ministry, that if she dared to interfere with us, she must take the consequences. Well, annexation is ratified—the question is settled—their braggadocia language and cries upon the people have answered the desired end—the humbug has been successful, and now these editors can afford to speak a little truth, as witness the following which I copy from the Government Organ, edited by old Father Ritchie, who was one of the loudest in the cry of mad dog:

"TEXAS, ENGLAND, AND FRANCE.—Mr. Ashbel Smith, the Secretary of State of Texas, who recently went on a special mission to the Courts of Great Britain and France, returned to New York on Monday, in the steamship Great Western, and is expected soon to take his departure for Texas. The last Journal of Commerce has the subjoined remarks on the subject of his mission:

"We learn that he has accomplished the objects of his mission, which consisted neither in obtaining a loan nor in selling his country to the French, English or Dutch, nor in procuring its independence instead of annexation to the United States. Texas has now no diplomatic representative in Europe, except Mr. Dangerfield, who we believe has some time since received an order of recall. A principal object of Mr. Smith's mission, as we understand it, was to prepare the way for closing the relations of Texas with European Powers in a peaceful and becoming manner. Those relations had been of a most friendly character, and the Governments of England and France especially had manifested a cordial interest in the welfare of the young Republic. That they wished her to remain independent rather than be annexed to the United States, is beyond a doubt; but this is to be said to their credit, that, in any negotiations they may have had with Texas for this object, they have never, either of them, proposed to reserve any peculiar advantages to themselves beyond what should be enjoyed by other nations. This further should be said to their credit, that now, when they see that annexation is the will of the Texan people, fairly expressed, they abandon all further attempt at interference. And thus still further may be relied on, that they have and will exert themselves to restrain Mexico, from the infatuation of making war upon the United States, which would only serve to complicate affairs, without the possibility of preventing annexation. Mr. Smith expresses his opinion decidedly that there will be no war, not even with Mexico."

Mr. Secretary Walker, although he is the smallest man in the Cabinet, appears to have his hands pretty full. In the first place, he has the interests of the South so much at heart, that he is compelled, in writing to one of the Locofoco editors in Mississippi, to say that he never has any leisure, inasmuch as his time is fully occupied in so arranging the details of the Tariff that it may be reduced to the Revenue standard. In the second place, he has so many calls upon him by the democracy for office, that he is wearied to death by their importunities, and in consequence thereof, is compelled, much against his own feelings and wishes, to remove competent men from office, and appoint to their places others, about whose capacity he knows very little. And then, some old Mississippi matters come up, occasionally, before his mind, and in his dreams, he sees "Commission of Jacob Thompson, as U. States Senator," "Choctaw claims," "old bonds," and other matters, rise up before him so thick and fast, that neither by day or by night, can he find rest or repose. He is emphatically in a bad box, and before he reaches the Presidential mansion, whether he is casting a fond and anxious eye, he will find that by gones are not to him by-gones, but that old times have become new.

Whilst speaking of Mr. Walker, I may as well give you an anecdote which will show you that some things may be done as well as others, and that to advantage, whilst on the other hand, some folks can't do some things as nicely as other folks can do almost the same things. Amongst the [illegible]
