Amount due to sundry persons of Bondr given by the Borough in redemption of the Noter issued by the town Council in 1842-25, and for a loan of $1,000 from the Carliale Bank-inalizing insteat thereon till the said 10th April 1847-35. There is also a halone, one by the rough in the insteadement outindian note issued as above, to the first the person in the insteadement of the destruction of the destructio

Showing an excess of Libbilities and second second mainly by the omission of Council to levy a tax for the year 1343, and by the appropriation of the montes received for notes issued, and loans made during that year, to the payment of the current expenses of the Borough, and to the purchase of Fire Apparatus and the building of Engine Houses in the year following.

Which item would amount in the aggregate to a sum exceeding $5000, an amount sume $1700 larger than the oxcess phove stated—shewing a gain of that appoint to have heen derived y the Borough from the interest received, &c., over the interest and expenses paid on the notes issued in 1842 and 34. Which gain is liable however to be reduced by any further presentation of those notes for paythent.

We, the Committe on Financial, having examined the above account fail it to both converted as can be ascertained at the present time in consequence of the books being hurnt in eighteen hundred and forty-fige.
