M'ALLISTER'S GINTMENT.

It has power to cause all external SORES, SCORFUS, Ulcers, Tumors, SKIN DISEASES, POISONOUS WOUNDS, to discharge their putrid matters, and then heal them.

It is equally efficacious for those who are seized with rheumatism, or neuralgia, for there is scarcely a disease, external or internal, that it will not benefit. I have used it for the last twenty years for all diseases of the chest, consumption, and every other disease of the lungs, and I declare before heaven and man, that not one single case has failed to benefit when the patient was within the reach of mortal means.

I have had physicians learned in the profession, I have had ministers of the Gospel, Judges of the bench, Attorneys, Lawyers, gentlemen of the highest condition, and multitudes of the poor use it in every variety of way and there has been but one failure—our eminent village-physician, Dr. M'Allister, your Quaint is GOOD!

CONSUMPTION.—It can hardly be credited that a salve can have any effect upon the lungs, and yet this is the true remedy. But it is placed upon the chest, it penetrates to the highest condition, and multitudes of the poor use it in every variety of way and there has been but one failure—our eminent village-physician, Dr. M'Allister, your Quaint is GOOD!

HEADACHE.—The salve has cured thousands of the headache of 12 years' standing, and who had it regular every week so that vomiting often took place.

RHEUMATISM.—It removes almost immediately the inflammation and swelling when the pain ceases. Read the directions around the box.

SCALD HEAD.—We have cured cases that actually defied every thing known, as well as the ability of 15 or 20 doctors. One man told us he had spent $500 on his children without any benefit, when a few boxes of ointment cured their sores than any other medicine.

THE POOR AND THE RICH.

The rich man's son inherits land, And piles of brick, and stone, and gold, And he inherits soft white hands, And tender flesh, that fears the cold, And dainties in his parent's old, And heritages, it seems to me, One would not care to hold in fee.

Plain Facts for the People

IN RELATION TO THE HISTORY OF GEN. JAMES IRVIN.

It has not been the intention of the friends of Gen. James Irvin to publish any part of his private history, being content to rest his claims to the support of the people of Pennsylvania upon the reputation that he has acquired through his public acts. He has ever manifested a desire that no allusion should be made in his public journals, or in any of his private writings, however creditable they might seem, that would tend to give an impression, sh. uld be created, that it was on account of his private virtues alone, his friends act for him the support of the freedom of the Commonwealth; and most confidently ascertained that the friends of his character had already found their way into the papers, has been placed there without any agency of his.

But inasmuch as the opposite party have been proper to review his private character in a manner which it is the purpose of this paper to correct, we have recently published the first number of the subject; "a decent respect for the opinions of those who are not personally acquainted with his merits, and his faults, should correct an error, that his friends should be made through such publications, as far as Gen. Irvin's personal acquaintance extends. Plainly disavow any such apprehensions, for thus if they will carry their candid and just criticisms, but with there are many portions of the State, where the people know nothing of his private character except as they may gather it from the newspapers, justice demands that the misstatements in this respect should not be allowed to stand uncorrected. In his own neighborhood they will be obliged to every one who reads them. Another consideration that may be urged is, that should his friends keep silence, it might be thought that they dreaded the investigation of private character. We mean, they are willing to go fully into this matter, to compare the relative merits of the two Candidates in this respect, and no fears have for the result of the comparison, take it in what point of view you will—intellectual or moral respect, or social. I therefore most heartily request that in the hands of a correspondent of the "Centinel Democrat" of the 21st ult., as follows:

"Before the votes of the people of Pennsylvania be asked for James Irvin, it becomes necessary that his claims to, and qualifications for, that high office, should be fairly and honestly stated. The people have a right to know the why and the wherefore. They have a right to ask, for what reason he is preferred to Francis R. Shunk?"

"That you can easily critic his friend, if it is an achievement which neither you nor any other man can accomplish."

"The other was positive, and invited his friend to the house to witness his triumph. They entered the room, together and the three girls were all sitting beside their mother, and they looked in and ascertained as John Rogers at the table."

"Our boy assumed a very grave aspect, fully to the clock, heathen a sigh as deep as the ocean, and as if he had been in a state of great distress. His singular deportment attracted the attention of the girls, who cast their slow opening eyes up to his countenance. 'Perceiving the impression he had made, he turned to his companion and said, 'It was three minutes of the time.'"

"Do you speak of the dinner?" said the lady, trying down her sewing work.

"Dinner?" said he with bewildered aspect, and pointing, as if unconsciously, with curled forefinger at the clock.

"A silence ensued, during which the female part of the household glared at the young man with oppressive curiosity."

"You will see me decently interred," said he again turning to his friend.

"His friend was as much puzzled as any body present, and his embarrassment added to the intended effect. The old lady being unable to contain herself, cried, 'Mr. C., pray what do you speak of?'"

"Nothing," answered he in a lugubrious tone, "but last night a spirit appeared unto me. He said the girls were to their feet and drew near. 'And the spirit gave me warning that I should die exactly at twelve o'clock to-day, and you see it waits but half a minute of that time!'"

"The girls turned pale, and their hidden sympathies were once awakened for the doctored youth. They all exchanged their looks, looking alternately at the clock and the poor doctored youth. He then walked up to the eldest of the girls, and taking her by the hand he drew her towards him. He also impudently laid upon her trembling lips, and she did not attempt to resist.
