A TRUE SKETCH. BY EDWARD STILES EGE. AUTHOR OF "TABLEAU ETCHINGS."

'Twas Summer eye! The hours of day were calmly fading down Upon the breast of night, like toil-worn men Upon the breast of night, take ton-voin leggl, Sinking to sweet repose; and golden clouds, On pinions bright, were hever the sun's deep grave. Like angels mourning o'er the sun's deep grave. The soft wind came to play among the vines. And, passing by, it sung low, soothing strains. And, passing by, it sung low, shothing strain Rocking with sweet and odor-laden breath_ The cradle of the tiny humming-hird. The smiling flower won the Zephyr's klas. Then gently seem'd to wait for night's approac To catch the loving glance of some bright star, And bide its image in her dew-gemm'd breast. The golden-robin whistled out its notes, Then darted high above, as if it bore Her evening-hymn up, as an off ring pure To God's high home of glory, love and light.
The streamlet rippi'd on through grain-clad fields, And often seem'd to laugh, in mirthful gled When casting drops of bright and sparkling spray into the modest maiden-violet's face Nestling upon its smooth and grass-fring'd banks. The "busy bee" flew by with honey-freight. Blowing his little horn, in warning notes, To tell his fellows of the coming dew. The swallow skimm'd along the tranquit stream, And oft, with swiftest wing, its slumber broke, As if it sought to wash all stains away, And see its image in the crystal wave, Before it homeward flew to greet its mate The toad came forth with quick and playful jump,

Right merrily the cricket chirp's away, And slyly state from out his hiding place To laugh at Day's last moment as it died To hear its record up to God's high throng; And, with its rapid hours, have passed away Full many dreams of glory, love and joy. Death has been busy since the morning dawn, And many a weary, world-wrong'd soul Has finak beneuth the shadow of Time's shroud, Rolling his little eye, with counting glance, "To note the simple fire-fly's sparkling lamp.

In the wide garner of sternal rest, . The lovely babe, That, in the morning hour, play'd on the breast, And won, with sunny smile, a mother's kiss, Lies in its little cradle for the grave. And y millful orphins, too, stand weeping cound The cothe of their only loving friend, > Who died when gently teaching them to call.

The God of Beaven "friend of the fatheriess." Methinks an nogel-band came hast'ning down Another spirit pure to sing Christ's love Among the ransour'd in the "better land." Among the ransonr'd in the "better land." Carlisle Iron Works, Pa., July 17, 1816.

STATE OF THE UNION!

"OLD ZACH IS COMING!" Our political intelligence from all quarters of the country is favorable says the Philadelphia North American, and if the Whig cause advances (and who doubts it?) between this ime and the 7th of November, with anyhing like the speed and progress of the last hirty days, there can be no doubt of the overwhelming triumph of General Taylor against the combined forces of Martin Van Buren, a "Northern man with Southern principles," and Lewis Cass, a northern man-with no principles. breaking the shackles which have so long act deficiency cannot be ascertained becau restrained their independent action, and are now utilying to the support of the people's formerly, no doubt to conceal the real condicandidate.

The following is one of the many notices that daily pass under our inspection. The Bee adds that the great-est-possible enthusiasm characterized the profeedings. The speeches were very elo-quent and spirit stirring. The Bee says, "Among the speakers was the Captain of a company who had lought at Buena Vista. The name of this gentleman has escaped us, but he, too declared himself a Democrat and wowed themselves thorough going Demobut he, too declared himself a Democrat, and expressed his intention of supporting General

PROSPECT IN MAINE!

The Portland Advertiser, referring to a estimate of the Presidential vote, in which Maine was conceded to Cass, says: "We find in all Whig estimates out of this State that Maine is put down for Cass. We have heretotore so estimated it ourselves;— but since the election on Monday, we incline to the opinion that Taylor and Fillmore electors will be chosen. A plurality elects.—Some who voted the Dana ticket on Monday, will vote the Van Buren in November, and others will vote for raylor. Maine must at least be put down among the doubtful States Van Binen will get several thousand more ported Polk and Dallas, because their namethan Hamlin, while the vote for Cass will tail.short of that for Dana, By proper effort

TAYLOR WILL TAKE THE STATE OF MAINE. CHEERING FROM INDIANA! A letter from Lalayette, Indiana, to the

Louisville Journal, says: "It has been industriously circulated, until the lie has gained credence even with the Whigs, that Gen. Taylor cannot touch bottom in this State. The same thing was said of Crittenden in Kentucky, until the Whigs abroad dispaired of his election. There is no more truth in the report about Taylor in Indiana than there was in the inevitable de-teat of Crittenden. To show you how the current sets, I will inform you that a day or wo ago a friend informed me that in coming from Crawfordsville to this place he met from four to five hundred wagons, and that but one of the drivers was for Van Boren, ten or twenty for Cass, and the rest for Tay lor. You may rest assured that Indiana will stand up for old Rough and Realty."

TENNESSEE-A RICH SCENE-Among the Electors in Tennessee is that glorious Whig, Ex-Governor Jones, and Ex-Governor Brown both of whom are regarded by their respective parties as their champions on the stump hence a great desire has been felt to witness their encounter on that famous costrum. They met a few days since in Dandridge, Jefferson county, when the following scene as described by the correspondent of the Knoxville Register, came off:

"One of the most amusing meidents of the discussion took place during Gov. Jones' no-Governor of Michigan, providing for the his ing out or imprisonment of certain, person nentioned therein. Under this law Gov Aggress of the that he could bring his comly, and imprison him or hire him out to the highest builder. He read the law to Aaron; and their called upon him to come forward and hear his sentence, which was that he should be imprisoned for we don't remem-ber how long, and receive we don't receilled how, many attipes, well laid, on annuer the charge of spending his money would be that the wasting his time unnecessarily, in canvassing the Sune against Old Each! THE PUBLIC WORKS. We find the following statement in the money article of the Philadelphia Ledger, of last week :--"The receipts of the Collector's office in this city, on the Columbia Rail toad, for the month of August, were $22,362 less than in August last year."

There is something for the tax-payers of Pennsylvania to ponder over, says the York Republican. The falling off, if truely stated, is indeed alarming According to the la-test statement of the tolls received on the Public Works of this State, which we have at hand, it seems that about one-sixth of the whole amount is collected at Philadelphia. At the same rate of deficiency which has occurred at that point, the falling-off in the amount to $134,172 during the month of August alone! "We the undersigned, formerly belonging to what is called the Democratic party, feet called upon to state that we voted for Pois and Dallas in 1844, upon the assurance of the papers and leaders of the party, (particularly in Hollilaysburg) that they were the hierds of the Tarift of 1812. We are now fully satisfied that we were wilfully and knowingly deceived, not only from the facfrom the fact of every tariff bill being repealed, but from finding that those who published in their pers, proclaimed on the stump, and carried on their humers—Polk, Dallas, Shunk, and the Tariff of 1842' are now denouncing and advocating the Butish Tariff of 1846.
