Washington, Jan. 29. Mr. Calhoun's Address to the South appears in the Washington Union of this morning. It makes four columns, and opens with a history of the wrongs the south, which it is asserted and has sustained relative to her fugitive slaves, in defiance of the guarantees of the constitution. Then follows a history of the aggressions on the Southern institutions attempted in the time of the Missouri Compromise, He then describes the gross inequalities and injuries invoked by the Wilmot Proviso, and calls the attention of the people to the unwarrantable measures which have been agitated during the present session of Congress, and concludes as follows:

"With such a prospect before us, the The Whic State Central Committees gravest and most solemn duty that ever will meet at Harrisburg, the 6th February, claimed the attention of a people, the for the purpose of calling a State Convention question for us to consider at present is what is to be done to prevent it. question belonging to you to decide. All we propose is, to give you our opinion .-We then are of opinion that the first and indispensable step, without which nothing can be done, and with which every thing can be done, is union among yourselves on this great and most vital question. The want of Union and concert in reference to that question, has brought the Southern portion of our union and our system of government into their present perilous condition. If you become united and prove yourselves in earnest. the North will be brought to a pause and to a calculation of the consequences, and that may lead to a change of measures and the adoption of a course of policy that may quietly and peaceably terminate this long conflict between the two sections. If it should not, nothing would remain for you but to stand up immovably in defence of rights involving all your property, prosperity, equality, liberty and safety. As the assailed you would stand justified by all law, human and divine, in repelling the dangerous blow without looking to the consequences, and to resort to all means necessary for that pur-Your assailants and not you would be responsible for the consequences that might ensue. Entertaining these opinions, we earnestly entreat you to be united, and for that purpose adopt all necessary measures. Beyond this we think it would not be proper to go at present. We hope if you should unite with any thing like unanimity, it may of itself apply a remedy to this deep-seated and dangerous disease; but it such should not be the case, the time will then have come for you to decide what course to a-

The vote on the address was 42 to 17. The following are the nays:-Messrs Berrien, Metcalf, Underwood, Johnson of Louisiana, Rusk, of Texas: Houston of Texas; Pendleton, of N. C.; Preston Clingman, Toombs, Stephens, Hilliard, Morehead. Cocke, Cabell, Roman and Chapman.

The address of Mr. Berrien is similar to the above in the rehearsal of grievances sustained by he South, only rather more moderate in its tone, and is addressed to the people of the United States, whilst that of Mr. Calhoun is addressed to the south exclusively. The concluding portion of Mr. Berrien's Address, of course, is altogether different from YORK & HARRISBURG RAIL ROAD .- The Baltimoreans we are glad to see are moving with spirit in relation to the proposed rail road from York to Harrisburg. The road will be of great advantage to Baltimore, and she owes it to her own prosperity to make a vigorous effort for its completion.

In noticing the expiration of Judge Hepburn's official term, and his consequen retirement from the Bench, in our paper of last week, a few complimentary remarks were added. A correspondent complains with much warmth of such an "unmerited eulogy," (as he calls it,) of Judge Herburn, by a Whig paper. The respect we entertain for him induces us to notice his objections. And we would ask him, in the first place, to read our article again. All the praise we there awarded Judge HEPBURN was that which we thought really due to him, and accordingly our "eulogy" was solely confined to his administrative abilities as a Presiding Judge-particularly to the energy and promptitude with which, he lespatched the public business." These merits we have never heard denied to Judge HEPBURN by any candid person of any parly. That they have gained him "honorable distinction" and "respectable rank," the tesmonial of the Harrisburg Bar on a recent occasion, may be instanced. Now, will our correspondent examine and see it this is not bout the "head and front" of the "eulogy" about which he so captiously complains? We entered upon no extravagant eulogy of Judge Hepburg as a profound jurist, or as being eminently learned in the law-we undertook no review of his general character or administration, to show whether he had at all times administered "equal and exact justice" in every case, or whether he had ever betrayed partizan bias or feeling between men-we made no endorsement of his official course as a popular one, nor did we even express regret at his departure from the Bench. There was no call upon us to do this. These were points upon which it was more proper to leave every man to enjoy the opinion he may have formed, and we therethe locofoco majority is decided, there is lore confined ourself to a courteous reference

These pstriotic gentlemen cannot wait. They are over anxious to have their expectants.

In declining to comply with these demands, Mr Power is not only sustained by law, custom and common sense, but he has behaved with decency and delicacy. I! Mr. Longstreth be well enough to attend to business he should come to the Seat of Government. If, on the contrary, he is so unwell that he cannot, without injury, discharge his official duties, no man with any sense of properety, or delicacy of feeling would besiege his sick bed, inportune him for favors, and urge him to labors for which bodily suffering unfits him. Mr. Power is a gentleman, and he never will consent to so outrage the proprieties of life. The destitution ot feeling, exhibited by these gaunt and wolfish runners after spoil, is absolutely disgusting. The last hours of the late Governor slould be a solemn admonstion to them. If they will thus persist in hunting Mr. Longstreth to "the death," they have no right, po Intical or social, to ask Mr Power to participate in the brutal persecution of an amiable man. Mr. Longstreth should be saved from his own hiends, or else they will speedily norment his spirit into that place where wicked office hunters ceuse from troubling, and the weary are at rest."

The Unsigned Bills. The history of this matter, says the Harrisburg Intelligencer, about which the Locolocos of the House have been trying to work themselves into a tempest, is simply this:-About the close of the last session several bills were passed by the Legislature which were held over by the then Governor. When Gov. Johnson came into office, he found these bills in the Executive Chamber -unsigned, and without any endorsement or record of any kind, to indicate how or when they got there, and in the absence of this evidence, he very properly took no action upon them. Consequently, the three days after the meeting of the present Legislature having passed, and the bills not being returned either signed or vetoed, they were presumed to be laws, according to the conthey would have been, but for the very important reason, that the clerks of the two pend the necessary certificate of the facts in monwealth for-enrollmont. Had this been done, the bills would to all intents and purposes have been laws, and would no doubt have been certified by the Secretary.

This is the plain statement of the condition of these bills, and forsooth, because the Gov- dition of the interest accruing upon the stock ornor will not certify that in this unfinished purchased also at compound interest, in such condition, they are laws, the Locofocos set a ratio that, in the space of about 55 years, up a Lue and cry, hatch conspiracies against it would entirely extinguish the State debt they have progressed however, the more years to accomplish the payment of the State they have exposed their ears.

Divorces .- Applications for Divorce do not meet with much success this winter, which the Ledger's correspondent attributes entirely to the fact that the "ladies" in the case" are old and ugly, instead of young and pretty. The House Committee last week reported against four petitions for divorce.

Liquidation of the State Debt .- On Thurs day last, in the House, Mr. Evans, of Chester, introduced a bill for the abolition of mi litia trainings and the extinction of the State Debt. The object of the bill, (says a correspendent of the Ledger,) is to release the State from the militia musterings which in point of fact are a heavy loss to the Comnonwealth, 250 000 able bodied citizens being subjected to a loss of two days annually in mustering-and to substitute in lieu thereof a small tax of 50 cents. This tax is estimated to amount to $60,000 per annum .-This is to be appropriated as the first item of the sinking fund. The second item provided for, is the discount now allowed to tax payers for prompt payment of State taxes, and prompt payment is enforced by the sixth section. This soving would create an additional fund of $40,000. The saving by the reduction of the per centage, for collection of the State taxes is estimated at $40,000 and constitutes the third item of sinking fund -making in all about $140,000.

The important features of this project are as follows:-- 1st, it imposes no new taxes, unless the substitution of a small tax in lieu of military trainings, which cannot justly be stitutional provision in such cases;—And so regarded as such, be so considered,—2, i economizes the collection of the State taxes -3, it enforces the prompt payment of tax Houses had neglected to get the bills and apees, by imposing 5 per cent, upon such as ne glect to pay at the time appointed;-4th, the the case, and return them with this certific fund thus constituted will amount annually cate to the office of the Secretary of the Come to the sum of $140,000, beside the interes annually accruing upon the State loans pur chased by the tund, and which interest is to he added to the fund, to be appropriated, to the same purpose;-5th, this fund will increase at compound interest, and by the adgovernment, hold secret cabals, denounce | The power of the fund so created can only the Governor in advance, and threaten to be properly appreciated, when it is considimpeach him for not doing what would be a ered that it would require the appropriation flagrant violation of his duty!
