Whig County Committee.

We are requested to ask the members o the Whig standing committee, whose names we published last week, to assemble at the public house of John Wert, in this borough, on Monday, the 18th of June, at 2 o'clock, to adopt such measures as the early organizaion of the Whig party requires. We hope they will all be present.

Organization of the Whig Party. We agree with the Harrisburg Telegraph as to the absolute importance of a thorough organization of the Whig party, and the indis pensable necessity of exertion, if we would succeed in the coming contest. Uniphant victory; but divided and careless of a most disastrous and overwhelming deleat. Our opponents are every where on the alert, watching with intense auxiety every movement-of the Whig party, and ready at ali times to take advantage of the slightest indiscretion. They must be met by a firm board of Health of Philadelphia, on Wednesand unwavering phalanx; their desperate as- day evening. The first was an Irish Emisaults must be opposed by a front as solid grant, just arrived from New York, and the and impregnable as their own. Treasurer says

That the present moment is a crisis a would be wrong to conceal. If we can this season, overcome the difficulties, which en-ron us, then no human egency can endanger the credit or cripple the resources of Penn sylvania. Before the year expires the treas ry will be in receipt of revenues, provide by recent legislation, which are estimated to be more than equal to the late appropriations, and will leave, after the present year near the entire revenue of the State, less the expenses of government, to be applied to the payment of the interest on the lunded debt, and the surplus towards the completion-of a important public work. From the faci mentioned, and other causes of moment op erating, the public credit will hereafter re pose on a more reliable revenue.

The General Assembly, at its late session acting under the patriotic and salutary recommendation of the Governor, established a sink mendation of the Governor, established a sink-ing fund, with a revenue sufficiently large to make it practically and efficiently useful.— Under its auspices the State debt will be reduced; the public credit permanently restored; and the people at no distant day relieved from the taxes now levied upon their property.

In the luture we have everything to hope A brighter day is dawning upon us. The eventful year is the present one. It is the change from an old to a new system—from a state of mertness to one of progress; and to meet the exigencies of the time the State expects every citizen to discharge promptly the duty imposed on him by State pride and

This is cheering intelligence for the Tax-Payers of Pennsylvania! Heretofore they have borne the heavy drain of taxation without any hope of relief. But a brighter day has dawned with the ascendancy of Whig principles! Under Gov. Johnston's wise and judicious administration the reduction of the State Debt has commenced! The Forme will now pay his taxes cheerfully, for he hasthe assurance that the builden will every year become lighter. There's "a good time coming!"-A REDUCTION OF THE STATE DEBT!a revival of the prosperity of Pennsylvania! And let the Farmer and Tax-payer remember that to our Whig Governor Johnston, do we chiefly owe this auspicious change in ted and vigilant, we cannot fail of a trium our public affairs. Under the guidance of his master-mind our ancient Commonwealth the result, we cannot hope for any thing but is destined to renewed prosperity, and the SLAVERY EXPIRING.—How can Slavery continue its miserable existence much longer with the moral sentiment of the North solidly arrayed against it, and bold HARRY CLAY and the indomitable BENTON trampling it under foot in the very "house of its triends"? The severest blows it now receives are in fact from men in the Slave States. Mr. Robinson of Franklin, Ky., in a speech delivered in the late Emancipation Convention at Frankfort, Ky., hit off the defenders of slavery in that State with a good deal of humor and point: " .

"The opposition to our views is inconsiderable, if we have a fair hearing. There are but few who admire the slavery of Kentucky; and with many of that few it is a sentimen rather than a principle. Their birth-place is Old Virginia-there they spent their youth .-Slavery was there, and everything in Virginia was perfect. You know, sir, the strength of this feeling among Virginians. The emi-grant from even those portions of it which slavery has desolated—from the eastern and hills—where the people subsist one half of the 'year on fish and 'oysters, and the other half on past recollections—amid all the tertility of the west-sighs for the sand hills and field and oysters of Old Virginia. With others this love of slavery is neither a sentiment nor principle—they, from mere habit, cry out against us, abolition! danger to properose-who cry loudest are those who never had a negro to abolish; and unless their habits of industry shall vastly change, never will; while the largest portion hue and cry merely for political ef fect, and for tear of mere party interests."

It is thought that the strong protect of France seconded probably by England may have the effect to check the advance of the Russians.

The Emperor of Russia reached St. Petersburg from Moscow on the 4th inst. The troops had entered Gallacia, en route for Hungary to the assistance of the Austians. Their force consists of 120,000 men and 350 cannon and 25 000 cavalry. Gen Bem is well prepared to give them a warm reception in the Transylvanian, and there will be hot work before it is over.

The plot gradually reveals itself in Germany. The Soveregs have evidently combined for the overthrow of the Liberalists. There has been a formidable disturbance in Dusseldorf, on the Rhine, but it has been suppressed. At Frankfort the riot was becoming more revolutionary and anarchical every day. All the moderate men have, in consequence, left it.
