CULTURE AND MANUFACTURE OF COTTON. By C. T. James, of Providence, R. J.—The last official tobular statement to which we have access, of the amount of cotton produced, in the world, is that made in the office of the United States Secretary of the Treasury, in the year 1844, for the use of Congress.

States Secretary of the Treasury, in the year 1844, for the use of Congress.

By this table, which is sufficiently correct for all practical purposes, it appears that the total amount of cotton gaised in the world, was 900,000,000 pounds; of which 460,000,000 pounds, 10,000 pounds nore than one half was the product of the United States. Since that period the culture of the article in the West Midies has almost ceased. The production in the East Indias rapidly increased during a few subsequent years, owing to the very great efforts of the East India Company; but from repeated failures; it has sgain become stationary, and will never probably be carried to any great extent. In the year 1839 the entire supply of cotton from India was 20,001,308 pounds. The other cotton growing countries, viz: Brazil, Mexico, Egypt, and other parts of Africa, and Asia, other than India, and a Gw smaller districts, with those named above, made up, in 1834, the balance of the product, say 440,000,000 pounds. Taking all the circumstances into the account, and especially the cheapness of the product in this country, and the known decline in quant ity in some others, it is not probable that the foreign product has increased, since 1834, more than ten prepart. This would now give 484. eign product has increased, since 1834, more than ten per cent. This would now give 484, 000,000 to all the world, the United States the result has been entirely different. The reduction in the market value of the article, has stimulated the planter to make more of it.—to compensate for the diminution of price, by the increase of quantity. This is a proof policy, to be sure, in most cases, yet it has been extensively practised by the common planters of the United States. So greatly have they increased the culture of the article, that their crop of 1848 is sammated in round numbers, at 1/600,000,000 pounds; and which affords a sure indication, compared and which alcors a sure indication, compared with the foregoing statements, that all the rest of the world cannot compete with them either in quantity or price. Increasing the consumption of the article in Great Britain by ten percent, from the year 1840 to 48, the quantity for the latter year would be 584:317:424 pounds: an excess of more than 100,000,000 pounds over the entire quantity produced in and ex-ported from all the countries in the world, the United States excepted. France, Germany, United States excepted. France, Germany, and other European nations, require about 300,000,000 pounds; which, added to the consumption of Great Britain, makes the quantity required in Europe 884,316,425 pounds. Of this conly 480,000,000 is supplied by India, Egypt, Turkey, Brazil, the West Indies, &c., and leaving a deficit of more than 400,000,000 pounds, for which Europe is entirely dependent on the United States. To withhold this supply would enhance the price in Europe and, though our labor would cost somethers for than theirs, our cotton would be so much appete with us. Almost the only reason why no other country has extended the cotton culture other country has extended the cotton cultur as ours has done, is because no other one can as ours has done, is because no other one can raise the article at iso small a cost. This circumstance has almost annihilated the culture of cotton in the West Indies, and prevented its rapid increase in Bruz.l. The British East India Company, and the Viceroy of Egpyt, with their immense power and resources, have bent their energies to the object—but higher their energies to the object—but higher of the United Since, hald, and the cotton planters of the United Since, hald, and many the resources. of the United States hold and maintain the of the United States hold and maintain their pre-eminence over all those of the rest of the world. With all these advantages, the United States ought to be, emphatically, the cotton manufacturers of the world; and the cotton growing States should become the great cotton manufacturing States of the Union. One would think that there could be no question that the cotton grower and cotton manufacturer; combined in one concern, with the tull small could be no question to the cotton grower and cotton manufacturer; combined in one concern, with the tull small could be not concern. bined in one concern, with his full supply of the raw material produced on his own soil might undersell the European manufacturer and control, as far as extent fabrics was considered aware market in the world. All the cerned, every market in the world. All this may appear chimerical to some, and they may be inclined to make the inquiry, how is all this to be done? The reply is at hand—Manulacture-all your own cutton. How can we do this, is the next query, when we produce so much? Again the reply is ready—Others now do it for you. You have labor, skid and materials—if you wish for more of labor and skill, they are readily obtained in sufficient quantities. they are readily obtained in sufficient quanti-ties to manufacture all the cotton in the world. But we produce so much. True, too mach.— Then make a proper distribution and applica-tion of labor and skill; produce no more than can be manufactured at home. "Cast not your-self in a foreign market, with a redundancy of can be manufactured at home. "Cast not yourself in a foreign market, with a redundancy of an article begging for a purchaser, or the mercy of foreign brokers, speculaters and shavers.—
But more of this by and by. Let us now end quire which, in respect to the article of cotton, has made the best distribution and application of labor and skill, the United States or Great Britain, as far as the creation of wealth is concerned?

We have seen that, according to the best estimates to be obtained, the quantity of cotton imported into the kingdom of Great Britain, and consumed by her manufactories in 1840, was 531,197,659 pounds; of which at deast four-fitths must have been supplied by the cotton growers of the funited States. McCulloch, in his Edeycopledia of Commerce, published in London, for 1847, estimates the increase at about fifteen per cent. This estimate would make the British capsumption of cotton at present, 610,877,303 founds per annum. Allowing only the same proportion, or rather less than we have already stated, say now four-fifths of the quantity, to be supplied from the United States, it will amount to 488,701,846 pounds. The present average value of this cotton in England is not far from eight cents per pound; and hence the uggregate gost to the English manufacturer of the above quantity received from the United States would be $39,096,147 68. At this rate the highest amount returned to the American cetton planter, would be, say 488,701,846 pounds, a two contracts of the country and the contract of the country and the contract of the country and the country would be, say 488,701,846 pounds, at we cannot be contracted to the American cetton planter, would be, say 488,701,846 pounds, at we cannot be contracted to the American cetton planter, would be, say 488,701,846 pounds, at we cannot be contracted to the American cetton planter, would be, say 488,701,846 pounds, at we cannot be contracted to the American cetton planter, would be, say 488,701,846 pounds, at we cannot be contracted to the American cetton planter, would be say 488,701,846 pounds, at we cannot be contracted to the American cetton planter, would be say 488,701,846 pounds, at we cannot be contracted to the American cetton planter. We have seen that, according to the best es-096,147 68. At this rate the highest amount returned to the American cotton planter, would be, say 488,701,846 pounds, at six cents per pound, $28,922,110 76—for convenience, say in round numbers, $30,000,000. The best cotton lands will not yield more than three hundred pounds per acre, and the general average from year to year probably does not exceed two hundred pounds. Suppose, however, the quantity to be two hundred and fifty pounds; there is required 1,794,807 acres of land to produce it, and as the product will not average more than 2,500 pounds per hand, it will require about 195,480 hands for its culture. The land at twenty-five dollars per acre is worth $44,870,175. The hands (slaves) at $500 each, are worth $97,740,000. Thus the is Worth $44,870,175. The hands (shaves) at $500 cach, are worth $97,740,000. Thus the fand, and slaves together would amount in value to $142,610,000. The cost of other necessary appendages, such as cotton gins, presses, horses, mules, &c., &c., will make up at least, with the above, the sum of $150,000,000, as the cap, tial employed in the production of the above amount of cotton-furnished to the British manufacturer. In order to make the estimate high enough for the planter, we will suppose that price the quantity, 480,000,000 pounds, will return him, say, in round numbers, $29,000,000.

that price the quantity, 480,000,000 panns, will return him, say, in round numbers, $20,-000,000.

According to the estimate of McCulloch's Encyclopedia of Commerce (English) the value of British cotton manufactures for the year 1847, was £40,000,000. The estimated increase for the seven years, from 1833 to 1840, was 334 per cent. At that rate, the value in 1848 would have been about £42,000,000, or $186,666,666, mearly. It is estimated also, that the immune of capital invested in the business is about the same as the amount of value of product per annum. The British manufacturers also employ about $30,000 operatives, and about the same number of hand from weavers.

For the same number of hand from the runished is four-little nearly furnished in the reduction of the cotton is $150,000,000. The orditon has supposed in the manufacture of it, and the production of the cotton is $150,000,000.

That invested in the manufacture of it, and the production of the cotton is $150,000,000.

But the auton which reliable manufacture product, as above, and you the hand states of the same part of the s At pays $108,000,000, as the value dided to hele above quanty of cotton; for which the planter receives but $30,000,000 at most; on an endoyed by the manufacturer. So much as to the productiveness of Parlian english a moly set in unasset uffecturing cotton, and American capital in producing it. Again, in respect to the minister of t among these and you have $450 nearly, as the value of product per hand. Again, divide the value of product per hand. Again, divide the net receipts for the planter's cotton, $30,000, 000 among the number of hands (195,480) re-000 among the number of hands (195,480) required to produce it, and you have but $153 46 per hand—legs by $295 54 per animm, for each hand employed in the production of cotton—than is a realized by its manufacturer in Great British. True we have seen that in the process the British manufacturer employed also, 240,000 mand down weavers; making the chilre number of persons employed, 480,000. Well, divide the British net product among this whole number, and you have $225 84 per hand, and leaving yot an excess of $71.54 per hand, and leaving yot an excess of $71.55 per hand, and leaving of the monufacturer, against the production of the ray material.

37 THIS Bath took the premium at the Fair of the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia. October 1848, the only Bath that ever took a premium at that institute and also took the first premium at the Fair of the Maryland Institute, November 1848.

A great and important improvement is made in this Shower-bath over all others, by throwing the water to make the winting the head, unless at the will or pleasure of the bather; but a greater point is gained by being enabled to bath with warm water, which no other Shower-Bath is adapted to—and most of all the Bath can be medicated without injury to the hair:

Many fersons cannot take a cold bath—their case is met in this as they can regulate the temperature of the water to suit their wish, and commence bathing, at any season of the year without any unpleasant result. Ladies can have the advantage of, bathing without wetting the head or cayoring the same.

The arrangements are simple and complete, and not; liable to get out of order. The Bath can be adjusted to suit any height, from a shall child to the tallest person. When the door is closed, the fixtures are hid and the outside appearance is that of a neat piece of furnitire.

They have received the approbation of several medical gentlemen—others are requested to call and examine them. Manufactured by the Patquee.

CONTINE to make Insurances on Lives on the most favourable terms, receive and execute Trusts, and receive Deposits on Interest.

The Capital being paid up and invested, together with accumulated premium fund, affords a perfect security to the insured. The premium may be paid in yearly, halt yearly, or quarterly payments.

The Company add a BONUS at stated periods to the insurances for life. This plan of insurance is the most approved of, and is more generally in use, than any other in Great Britain, (where the subject is best understood by the Peonle, and where they have had the long set experience,) as appears from the fact, that out of 117 Life Insurance Companies there, of all kinds, 87 are on this plan.

The first BONUS was appropriated in December, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether, 1844, amounting to 10 per cent. on the submether of the cent. &c. &c., or others, in proportion to the time of standing, making an addition of $100; $87.50; $75, &c., &c. to every $1,000, originally insured, which is an average of more than 50 per cent on the premium paid, and without increasing the annual payment to the Company.
