The War upon the Administration.

FORESTALLING. As the time draws near for the develope. ment, in an official form, of the domestic pol-icy of the Administration, the public will be regaled with a second edition, revised and improved, of the misropresentations, revised and improved, of the misropresentations, and slarders which disfigured the columns of the Opposition press during the first six months of General TAYLOR's Presidential term— The bistory of party warfare furnishes no parallel, in groseness of accusation or hardi-hood in invention, to the defamation and li-bel which have thitberto been employed against the President and his Cabinet. There has been no approach to such a system of scandal and contumely. It balks at no accusation, however infamous, nor pauses at any character, however pure and exalted. The devices of falsehood and the praseologies of detraction have been exhausted, to bring hame and reproach upon the gray hairs of a Chief Magietrate whose days have been spent in perilous and patriotic service, whilat members of his Cabinet have been accused of the most dishonorable conduct in their private dealings.

vate dealings. As the appointed time approaches for the Administration to give Congress an account of their stewardship, and to recommend for the consideration of the country a system of administrative measures, these accusations are to be revamped and varished anew, lest the representatives of the people should not bring with them to the capital a sufficient er-mount of projudice and vindicitiveness to an swer the truculent purposes of their inven-tors. The Union, as in duty bound, has led off in the ronewed charge. off in the renewed charge. For lear that the President's message may be more satisfacto. ry than the safety of the Opposition would have it, General TAYLOK is again declared to 'an honest man." He is scoffed at afresh as a "failure," as an "imbecile," as having "violated the sacred word of a soldier," as having "surrendered the functions of his office to an irresponsible cabal," as a "oheat," and a "violator of pledges." The Union has said that "he (General Taylor) had only to be an honest man to gain both the applause and officiant of his scinition of his had only to be an honest man to gain boin the applause and affections of his countrymen;" and having so said, and engaged itself to "op pose him and his cabal to the bitter end," "no matter what face the future may wear," it is its vocation to denounce him as a dishonest one, no matter with what violence to the obligations of truth or the requirements of decency or honor. Perhaps a journa which has doomed itself to relentless oppo sition, under every aspect of the future, may sition, under every aspect of the induce, may convince the representatives of the people that the voice which cheered the American oldier in the hour of danger speaks falsely; hat the heart which confronted and repelled hat the heart which confronted and repelled he adverse tide of war or the plain is Bue-na Vista is full of guile; that the bar which plucked victory from the jaws of deteat is fitted up against the rights, and property of their constituents. But should it succeed, the youth of the country will read of the-provess of the American arms with shame upon their cheeks; and the eagle, now the emblem of honorable ambition, will be re-garded as a bird of evilest omen. Not only will the arrows which have been

Not only will the arrows which have been sped at the President be redipped in venom, but the Cabinet will be one by one subjected but the Cabinet will be one by one subjected to a renewal of misrepresentation. The Sec-retary of State, whose published correspond-ence has withstood the test of criticism, stands before the American people by his countrymen. He will yet be assailed as they he had failed in his datu, here Correct he had failed in his duty, lest Congress should -forget that his despatches are the work of a blunderer. What has not appeared, and what has not been written, will be condem-ned beforehand, by inventing cases and guessing at the tuture, in so many ways and upon so many suppositions issues as to not pone so many suppositions issues, as to pre-pare the "hearts" of the party for opposition, "whatever face the luture may wear."

We have given specimens of the proficiency of the Opposition in the strategy of detraction. They are deplorable ones, it is true, and admonish the public of the nature of the weapons that are to be relied on in the war upon the Administration. We do not believe that the rank and file of the opposition are animated by the same passions which sway their organs. We have an abiding sway their organs. We have an abiding fault that many of them will not condemn to the "bitter end," or follow the headloug lead of those who have enlisted for the war reck-less of what the folure may bring forth. Up-on the great Republican Whig party the Ad-ministration may lean with confidence; and the ranks of its friends will swell with the development of its policy. The particular developement of its policy. The President has seen darker and dreurier days than are before him. It was never his fortune yet to win easy victories. His has been no holiday career. He is equal to the gloomiest crisis. His course lies extraight before him. The in-terests of the nation and the happiness of the people are the goal of his exertions—of a na-tion whose annals are brilliant with the glory of his dealer and a people more brilliant of his deeds, and a people whose hearth-

Horrible Steamboat Disaster.

Unwards of 150 Lives Lost. NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16, A. M.

One of the most disastrous steamboat accidents that ever took place at this port occurred about 5 o'clock last evening. The occurred about 5 o'clock last evening. The magnificent first class boat Louisiana, was putting out from the levee, bound to St. Louis, just as the steamers Storm and Boston were coming in from abave. The boats were side and side, the decks of all three engers, at the moment crowded with pas when a tremendous explosion took place on board the Louisiana—both boilers having bursted, shivering the boat literally to atoms -ripping and tearing the other two boats, and carrying upwards of 150 human beings to their last account, without a moment warning. Simultaneous with the terrible explosion came a wild shrick, which sent a thrill of horror to the stoutest hearts. As the smoke and isteam cleared away, a scene was presented to the eye, of which I can scarceiv form a conception. The shattered boats, the shricks of the wounded, the struggles of the shricks of the wounded, the strugges of the drowning, and the groans of the dying, appalled, and for a moment, paralyzed all who witnessed it. Human arms, heads and the levee was strewn with the dead and dying 1 In a short time thousands of persons were collected in the vicinity of the melancholy scene, and nothing was leit undone to afford relief to the unfortunate sufferers.

This morning, the levee is crowded with our citizens, and every effort is being made to recover the dead bodies of those blown into the river. Already fifty dead bodies have been recovered. It is supposed that at least one hundred and fifty lives were lost by this dreadful disaster 1. A large number are mangled and scalded in the most horrible man-ner. I have not been able amidst the confacion which prevails, to obtain anything like a reliable list of the killed and wounded but will endeavor to cond you a despatch sectioning more full particulars, this after-floor or in the morning.

The Louisiana sunk a lew minutes aller the disaster. It is unknown what led to the explosion. It is supposed that the engineers and firemen were killed, as they have not been seen since the accident.

Nov. 17-A. M. Captain Kennon, of the steamer Louisiana, has been arrested and held of bail in the sum of $2000. The explosion having been altinbuck to carelessness, a searching inves-tigation will shortly take place. Many more dead bodies have been found. The number, of killed it is believed will reach 200, besides many dreadinity wounded. The flags of the shipping are all at half mast.
